CHAMBERLAIN AND MUSSOLINI CALL FOR PEACE

But Differ on How to Reach It.

ROME, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini of Italy and Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain tonight assured each other they desired peace, but defined their objectives differently. They spoke at a brilliant state banquet arranged for the British statesman who sought to bring his European appeasement policy to the Mediterranean.

Mussolini, toasting Chamberlain at the dinner in the Palazzo Venezia, invoked "peace with justice."

Chamberlain spoke for peace "by the method of negotiation."

Colonial Demands Seen.

Foreign observers saw in Mussolini's definition an expression of a view frequently stated in recent weeks by his spokesmen that without colonial concessions for Italy and Germany there can be no appeasement in Europe.

In other words, Italy insists she be treated with justice, first of all.

Chamberlain's declaration was seen in these same quarters as an admonition that appeasement could not be realized unless the Fascist claims were put forward in diplomatic form.

So far Italy's demands for recognition of her claims in France's Tunisia, Corsica, Djibouti, the strategic East African port on the gulf of Aden, and a share in control of the Suez canal have been made almost entirely through her high pressure propaganda campaign.

Trade Military Information.

In his toast the elderly British prime minister announced that Britain and Italy already had begun an exchange of military information. This was in accordance with the terms of their Easter friendship treaty which was made effective Nov. 16.

It was noteworthy, Chamberlain said, that the two governments "yesterday, here and in London, were able to proceed to an exchange of military information."

He added that the Mediterranean interests of the two countries, "while of vital importance to us both, need in no way conflict." This statement was interpreted by political circles as indicating his desire for an agreement on the Spanish question.

Fascist sources said the civil war there, in which Italians are helping the rebels, was solving its own problem through rebel victory. But British quarters declared Chamberlain desired more concrete assurances from Italy in view of Italy's participation in the present rebel offensive.

Fears Threat to "Life Line."

Before leaving London for Rome the prime minister was represented as fearful of increased Italian influence in the Mediterranean, through which passes Britain's "life line" to parts of her empire, should rebels win in Spain as a result of Italian aid.

After the reception which followed the banquet Mussolini and his foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, escorted Chamberlain and his foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, through the museum which forms a part of Il Duce's palace. They chatted cordially in English.

While many Britons doubted any concrete political accomplishments would come from the visit, one well informed British source said after the banquet that Chamberlain had found Mussolini's attitude "encouraging" and that the outlook was less pessimistic than others believed.

Survey European Situation.

Chamberlain began sounding out Mussolini on the prospects of appeasing him and Europe less than two hours after his arrival this afternoon. He called on Il Duce at his palace for a conversation which lasted ninety minutes.

The discussion, a British spokesman said, was devoted to a general survey of the European situation. The spokesman added that a "tour of the horizon was made and the conversations were very cordial."

The next talk was scheduled for tomorrow afternoon among Mussolini, Chamberlain, Halifax, and Ciano.

Jury Decides Dog's Sense of Hearing Is Worth $50

Freehold, N. J., Jan. 11.—(AP)—A dog's sense of hearing, a jury decided, is worth $50. That amount was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown of Keyport, who sued an oil company for their dog's loss of hearing in an automobile accident three and a half years ago.

GEM SMUGGLER FOR JACK BENNY PLEADS GUILTY

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Albert N. Chaperau, confessed smuggler, who was indicted yesterday with Jack Benny on a sixth charge of smuggling, entered a plea of guilty today before Federal Judge Murray Hulbert. Chaperau thus made himself available as a witness against the radio and screen comedian if the government chooses to place him on the stand.

Jack Benny.

Benny pleaded not guilty a few minutes after a federal grand jury had returned the indictment charging him and Chaperau, former convict who masqueraded as an attaché of the Nicaraguan consulate, with smuggling, concealing and transporting jewelry worth $2,131. The duty would have amounted to only $800.

Gifts for Wife, Mary.

Benny gave the jewelry, consisting of two diamond set gold clips and a gold bracelet set with diamonds, to Mary Livingstone, his wife and radio partner.

Benny is expected to contend in his trial that Chaperau suggested in Paris in 1937 that he transport jewels here for him, and that such conduct was not wrong.

Chaperau, it was said, told Benny that as a Nicaraguan commercial attaché he might bring in certain jewelry with immunity. Benny, it was assumed, gave that explanation yesterday to the grand jury which listened to him for more than an hour, while he gesticulated with an unlit cigar, attempted to wisecrack, and then finally grew red faced and excited.

George Burns Guilty.

Originally Chaperau was to have gone on trial today on another indictment which named him with George Burns, radio and screen comedian. Burns already has pleaded guilty and is expected to testify for the government. That trial has been postponed until Friday because the government expects Chaperau will plead guilty.

Sentencing of Chaperau will be deferred until after Jan. 24, the date set for Benny's trial.

Chaperau already stands convicted of smuggling finery to Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer. Judge Hulbert on Monday overruled his plea of diplomatic immunity. He faces a possible sentence of eight years in prison and $20,000 fine.

Burns Deserts Chaperau.

In entering his guilty plea Chaperau duplicated the performance of Burns. Burns left Chaperau to fight alone the $4,885 smuggling charge against them. Burns and his wife, Gracie Allen, then aided the government to develop smuggling cases against other persons, it is said.

"Why shouldn't my client help the government?" asked David G. Berger, attorney for Chaperau in connection with the Benny indictment. He let it be known that Chaperau feels he has been left holding the bag by the other persons involved.

DOCTOR MAY NOT LET HORNER SEE STATE OFFICIALS

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Four Illinois state officials arrived today for a conference with ailing Gov. Henry Horner, but the governor's physician said he may not permit the meeting planned for tomorrow.

Dr. E. Sterling Nichol, who has treated the governor for exhaustion since he arrived in December, said a conference between Horner and James M. Slattery, commerce commission chairman, left the executive tired and nervous today. The governor is recovering, said Dr. Nichol, and spends half of the day out of bed, but in the interest of further progress he possibly will not permit the meeting.

In addition to Slattery, those here for the conference are Charles K. Schwartz, tax commissioner; S. L. Nudelman, finance director, and F. Lynden Smith, director of public works and buildings.

3d Term Clubs Undaunted by Big Sam's Past

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Samuel W. [Big Sam] Silverman is the organizer and secretary of the National Association of Roosevelt for 1940 Clubs, Inc., which is ready to open its national headquarters in Washington. Mr. Silverman is listed as real estate dealer of Jersey City, N. J.

David S. Block. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

His slogan for the association is "America Calls." The policy of the organization is: "Any person may join the National Association of Roosevelt for 1940 Clubs with a voluntary contribution of any amount." It is reliably reported that contributions have been rolling in.

Old Time Roosevelt Booster.

Big Sam is an old time Roosevelt booster. David S. Block, the national field director of the 1940 Clubs, sat in his headquarters today and pointed proudly to two letters addressed to Silverman tending to show that his efforts were not unappreciated. One was dated Oct. 18 and was signed by Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor of New York. It read, in part:

"Dear Sam: I appreciate very much the interest you have shown in our success. Thanks for the information given me in your letter of Oct. 11."

The second letter was from James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee. Dated Nov. 12, 1932, it informed "Dear Sam" that the good work he was doing in New Jersey was appreciated.

Arrested a Dozen Times.

The New Jersey police and the federal investigative agencies have disclosed that Big Sam has been arrested at least a dozen times. Once he served a jail term in New Jersey for a $500,000 bond fraud. During the prohibition era, the federal operatives said he was a fugitive from justice; accused of attempting to bribe treasury department employés.

"I did hear he once was framed on some bond charge," said Block. "But Sam is a good friend of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley. He started this organization and we are going through with it."

HITLER EXPECTED TO FINISH NEW BOOK BY AUTUMN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—A book on which Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler has been working at his leisure has progressed to such an extent that its publication is expected this autumn. It is understood to be a sequel to "Mein Kampf" [My Struggle], of which more than 4,000,000 copies were sold in Germany and abroad.

The new book deals mainly with events since Hitler rose to power in 1933. From a foreign political viewpoint the most interesting parts are those treating with French-German relations. Hitler always has declined to revise those passages in "My Struggle," which declare France to be Germany's arch enemy.

The new book will emphasize that French-German relations fundamentally have changed after "all territorial differences between the two countries were settled and the generation of front line fighters came to power in France."

Co-ed's Clew Solves Murder of Cafe Owner

A dapper little American born Chinese confessed early today that he beat Mrs. May Wong into helplessness with his shoe and then choked her to death. Until he confessed, it had been believed that Mrs. Wong, 59 years old, a Chinese restaurant owner, had been killed in some mysterious tong war.

Her unclad body was found in her apartment at 1443 West 63d street last Monday by Miss Maria Sunji, 21 years old, a pretty Chinese student at the University of Chicago.

The confessed killer is Arthur Hue, 25 years old, of 1429 North Clark street. He had been employed for two weeks by Mrs. Wong in her Beverly Tea Maid restaurant at 1712 West 95th street.

Her Guest on New Year's.

She had taken a fancy to him, he said, and entertained him in her apartment New Year's day. It was then that he decided to return and rob her, according to the confession he signed for Capt. Walter Healy of the Englewood police and Julius Sherwin, assistant state's attorney.

Hue, who speaks English perfectly but cannot speak Chinese, said he entered through a rear window. Mrs. Wong was sleeping. He beat her in the face with the metal plated heel of his shoe. Then, fearing she might still be able to scream, he choked her. He took $18 from her purse and a $50 traveler's check he found in her room. Miss Sunji, who lives at the apartment, did not hear the struggle and so did not discover the murder until she got up to get the mail.

Chinese Co-ed Gives Clew.

It was the young Chinese student who supplied the clew that led to the confession. She told the authorities that Hue was a gambler and that he had been placed on probation for stealing $28 from an ex-employer. Guessing that he might have needed money for his gambling or to make restitution in the theft, they began questioning him. Trapped in false statements, he confessed.

A SELF-RELIANT CITIZEN BEGINS REPAYING RELIEF

Adversity has forced Benjamin Grant to seek financial aid occasionally. But Grant, who lives in a garage at 6132 Prairie avenue, doesn't like to take money from anybody—not even the government.

Grant, who is colored, yesterday sent the Chicago Relief administration $4.10 as first payment on the $85.05 in relief he has received from time to time. He is doing fairly well now, Grant wrote, having opened a grocery in his garage, for which he pays $5 a month rent.

CORRUPTION IN WPA TOLD; DEFIANCE OF LAW EXPOSED

Strike Riot Deaths Are Laid Upon New Attorney General.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A hangman's noose was dangled in the house today as Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] precipitated some heated debate on the law enforcement record of Frank Murphy, selected by President Roosevelt to be attorney general of the United States.

Representative Clare Hoffman.

Hoffman also brought into the chamber several other crude but dangerous weapons seized by Michigan state police from strikers during the labor disputes of 1937.

"Look at this rope," shouted Hoffman, waving the length of hemp over the heads of several startled lawmakers in the front row.

Strung Up in Sit Strike.

"It was used to string up Mike Jakub in the Plymouth automobile plant on March 25, 1937, when a sit-down strike was in progress.

"Here is a metal ball two inches in diameter to be used as the missil in this slingshot, with a piece of innertube as the propelling force.

"Here is a club fashioned from bolt heads, bound with tape. Here is a metal bar. Here is a file sharpened to penetrate a human body.

"These weapons came from the hands of sitdown strikers. They are the men protected by Murphy while governor of Michigan—protected from the enforcement of a court order ejecting them from property they had seized."

Hoffman called upon any congressman present to assert that Murphy, as governor, ever attempted to uphold the integrity of the courts. Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas, his face red with anger, responded.

Confirmation Is Conceded.

"Do you have any doubt that Mr. Murphy, whose nomination was reported unanimously yesterday by both Republicans and Democrats on the senate subcommittee, will be confirmed by the senate and will be the attorney general of the United States?" he asked.

"Not a particle of doubt," answered Hoffman.

"Then why the gentleman's speech?" inquired Rayburn.

"Because I want to disclose the purpose of the man in the White House in gathering around him the kind of advisers he wants," Hoffman retorted. "He has selected as his chief law adviser a man who himself does not obey the law and does not uphold his oath of office.

"The President is welcome to choose the members of his official family, but the people of the United States are entitled to know what kind of men they are."

Democrats Join Applause.

Republicans and a few Democrats from southern states applauded vigorously.

"If you believe in law and order," said Rayburn, "why do you seek to destroy the confidence of the people in the man who is going to be one of the chief law enforcing officers of the government when you cannot put your finger on a single violation this man ever committed?"

"I can't?" returned Hoffman. "On Jan. 7, Murphy was in the capital of Michigan. State police were near at hand to his command. A mob came in, took possession of the streets in front of the capital where the governor sat. They closed places of business. All the governor did was promise that no harm should come to them."

Cites Record as Mayor.

Hoffman declared that Murphy's record as mayor of Detroit and governor of Michigan was an indication of what might be expected in the way of law enforcement from him as attorney general.

"As mayor of Detroit in 1932, he allowed a demonstration of communists against the Ford Motor plant," Hoffman said. "He told the communists police would protect them. There was a riot. Four men were killed and twenty-eight were injured."

Spender of Billions Quizzed on Fitness for Cabinet Job.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The story of Harry L. Hopkins' political activities as administrator of the WPA and dispenser of 9 billion dollars appropriated for relief was placed on the record of the senate commerce committee today. The committee is investigating Hopkins' fitness and qualifications to be secretary of commerce in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Under cross-examination by Democratic and Republican members of the committee, Hopkins admitted that his own political activities while acting as relief administrator were wrong and said he would pursue a different course if he had the job to do again. He admitted that the political corruption of the WPA organization itself in the state of Kentucky was so rotten that he should have fired the whole administrative setup.

Concedes Truth of Charges.

He acknowledged the truth of charges made by the senate campaign expenditures committee which, as administrator of the WPA, he repeatedly denied during the campaign of President Roosevelt's "Dear Alben" Barkley, Democratic leader of the senate, for renomination.

Hopkins offered only one excuse for his own political activity—loyalty to President Roosevelt.

"I am an administrative employé of the President," Hopkins said. "I work for him all the time. I believe in him. Members of the President's administrative group work together as a team. I am on that team. When that team starts to move it moves."

Hopkins offered no excuse for the WPA political corruption in Kentucky. He said the record was bad, that he didn't like it, and that he didn't wish to minimize it. But he insisted that the Kentucky situation was not representative of the whole national picture.

Placed on Defensive.

Hopkins was subjected to one of the most thorough examinations ever accorded a nominee for a President's cabinet. His questioners were deferential at the beginning and always courteous, but their persistence and their extraordinary supply of records on which to base their inquiry obviously surprised the witness. He began in his usual flippant, somewhat contemptuous manner, but before the day was over he realized, obviously, that he was on the defensive in a serious matter.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] touched briefly on Hopkins' career as a social worker before coming to Washington as chief spender of the Roosevelt administration. Then he asked the nominee what experience he had had to qualify him for the official duties of promoting the commerce of the United States and its manufacturing, shipping, fishery, and transportation interests.

Tells of Executive Work.

Hopkins said he had acted in an executive capacity, with employés under him, in welfare work since 1912.

"If there is any one who has had an intimate experience with business during the last six years it's been myself," Hopkins added. "I have bought and sold millions and millions of dollars' worth of goods. I have been in intimate touch with the practical problems of business.

"I know it will be said that I have never had to meet a pay roll. Well, Gen. [Robert E.] Wood had never met a pay roll when he became head of Sears-Roebuck. Personally, I have a good deal of confidence in my ability to do this job. I think my motivations are good."

Senator Vandenberg turned to the question of politics in relief, observing that the WPA employment total rose from 2,700,000 in June, 1938, to 3,200,000 at the time of the election in November, and then began a precipitate decline.

Calls Record Open Book.

Hopkins vehemently denied the suggestion that politics ever entered into the relief question.

"I realize," he said, "that some people are so cynical about public questions that they would believe these funds would be used for political purposes. As administrator of the WPA, I have spent nearly 9 billion dollars. That record is an open book. Millions all over America were hungry. I did not deal with tens of thousands or hundreds of thousands but with millions. I have done everything I could to keep petty, partisan politics out of relief."

Senator Vandenberg said he was speaking of the larger question of spending for political power rather than local political corruption. He asked Hopkins about a famous quotation attributed to him by several Washington newspaper correspondents—"We will spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect."

Denies Making Statement.

"I simply never made any such statement as that,' Hopkins replied. "Mr. Krock [Arthur Krock, correspondent for the New York Times] says I made it in a moment of relaxation. It amazed me that a newspaper correspondent would quote me in a moment of relaxation—playing around somewhere. At the same time I want to state as forcefully as I can that I did not make the statement."

Later the committee introduced into the record an affidavit from Frank Kent of the Baltimore Sun, who first attributed the remark to Hopkins. Kent said that a friend of his, who also was a friend of Hopkins, heard the relief administrator make the remark at the Yonkers, N. Y., race track last October.

"It is impossible to conceive of him imagining the remark and he had no reason to misquote Mr. Hopkins," Kent said.

Krock Placed on Stand.

Krock was put on the witness stand and he testified that he made his own investigation, after seeing the remark attributed to Hopkins in Kent's column, and found that Hopkins actually had made it. He said he found the New York friend of Hopkins who had heard the statement.

Both Krock and Kent said they could not disclose the identity of their informant without his permission, which he had refused to give.

Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], chairman of the committee, took up the examination of Hopkins and confronted him with his political record as evidenced by speeches and statements indorsing New Deal candidates. He recalled that Hopkins, last fall, said that 90 per cent of the 3,000,000 WPA workers, whose welfare was in his hands, would vote for President Roosevelt if he were running for reëlection. Hopkins said he only meant that WPA workers are poor people and that poor people usually vote Democratic.

Trip to Florida Recalled.

Chairman Bailey recalled that Hopkins went to Florida last spring when Senator Claude Pepper, a 100 per cent yes-man, was running for renomination with the blessing of James Roosevelt, son of the President. Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, and Corrington Gill, assistant administrator, went to Florida at the same time. Hopkins denied that there was any political significance in the migration of high WPA officials to Florida.

"Well, now, the Iowa declaration was political, wasn't it?" asked Chairman Bailey. "You issued a statement saying that if you could vote in Iowa you would vote for Otha Wearin." [This referred to the Wearin purge candidacy against Senator Guy M. Gillette.] Hopkins admitted that his Iowa statement was political.

"Then you discharged Mr. Christgau as head of the WPA in Minnesota," continued Senator Bailey. "Was that because he refused to use the WPA for the support of the Farmer-Labor party?"

Hopkins denied that this was the reason for firing Christgau, saying the state administrator was "looking out for his own interests."

Quizzed on Radio Speech.

Senator Bailey referred to Hopkins' radio speech at Boston in August, supporting President Roosevelt's campaign to purge the Democratic party of "yes, but" men.

"What was the purpose of that speech?" asked Senator Bailey.

"Well, if you are asking me whether I supported the President, the speech is clear on that point," Hopkins said.

"There can't be any doubt that the purpose of this utterance was to discredit and to defeat every candidate opposed by the President," Senator Bailey declared. Hopkins at this point admitted for the first time that it was wrong for him to make his political speeches.

"I think that if I had the road to go over again, as administrator of relief, I would not have made those speeches," he said.

Senator Bailey recalled Hopkins' swing around the country before the election last November and his statement at Hyde Park, N. Y., where he reported to President Roosevelt that it would be "a clean sweep for the New Deal." He mentioned particularly Hopkins' forecast that Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan would win by 500,000.

When Senator Bailey demanded to know what basis he had for such forecasts, Hopkins told him frankly that he conferred with political leaders all along the route of the trip to the Pacific coast.

He said he stopped in Minnesota, where the New Deal was supporting the radical Farmer-Labor candidates; in North Dakota and in Montana, where he conferred with Representative Jerry O'Connell, the New Deal hope to purge Senator Burton K. Wheeler in 1940 prior to his own defeat in November; in Washington, and in California, where he made a radio speech in support of the ham and egg candidates.

Explains California Talk.

Senator Bailey asked why he made his speech supporting the $30-every-Thursday ticket, Culbert L. Olson for governor and Sheridan Downey for senator.

"I made the speech because I wanted Downey and Olson to win," Hopkins replied. Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] inquired: "Don't you think that when you made that speech for Olson and Downey in Los Angeles, the most populous city in the state, that it was notice to all the WPA workers in the state as to how they should vote?"

"No, I don't think so. I had told them they could vote as they pleased," Hopkins said.

Bring Up Kentucky Charges.

Senator Wallace H. White [R., Me.], the only minority member of the campaign expenditures committee, headed by Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], questioned Hopkins about that committee's findings.

He recalled that the committee informed Hopkins on Aug. 18 of complaints that all WPA workers in the Kentucky district No. 1, embracing thirty-two counties, were being canvassed as to their political affiliations, the number of voters in their families, etc., and that the information, on WPA stationery, was being turned over to the Barkley campaign managers. The committee on Sept. 8 sent Hopkins a summary of its findings, substantiating the charges.

Hopkins, Senator White said, replied that the compilations were made as a result of complaints that a preponderant number of WPA workers were Republicans and that Democrats were being discriminated against.

Discusses Nature of Campaigns.

Hopkins entered into a long discourse on the nature of Kentucky political campaigns. "It was a hot campaign last summer. The local fellows started operating on our boys and our boys caved in," he said. "I'm not going to tell you that I like that record. I don't. Now you ask me why I didn't get indignant——"

"I didn't ask you that question," Senator White interrupted. "It's your conscience that asked it."

"Well, senator, I've got one," Hopkins said.

"You recognized that as a matter of fact that canvass was carried on by officials of your organization," White began. Hopkins interrupted and the following colloquy ensued:

Hopkins—The real lowdown is that local politicians put the heat on our fellows . . .

White—And your fellows yielded to the heat and conducted that canvass.

Hopkins—I don't suppose there is any doubt about it, and I don't like it.

Concedes Making Mistakes.

White—I cannot understand why the whole kaboodle of them were not fired.

Hopkins—That's a matter of opinion. I don't want to duck responsibility. After it was all over Aubrey Williams [deputy administrator] and I agreed that they should have been fired. I told you I had made some mistakes.

White—Well, I think confession is good for the soul.

Domestic Woes Chief Menace to United States, Says Borah

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A letter written by Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] reveals the position that will be taken by opponents of President Roosevelt's new war scare policy when the legislation calling for expansion of the nation's armed forces to resist aggressions of the foreign dictators reaches the senate floor.

Senator Borah.

In his annual message to congress last week, Mr. Roosevelt boasted that the country was prepared internally. "Never have there been six years of such far flung internal preparedness in our history," said the President, referring to the accomplishments of his own administration.

Denounced as Smoke Screen.

The senate opposition, including Republicans and many conservative Democrats, takes the position that the only immediate danger to the United States is the state of that very "internal preparedness" of which Mr. Roosevelt spoke. The new war scare hysteria will be denounced in senate debate as a smoke screen to shield from public attention the domestic failures of the New Deal.

Senator Borah, former chairman and ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee, expressed this attitude in a letter to Dr. Fred A. Moss of Washington, D. C., who had asked the senator to discuss the possibility of a foreign invasion of the United States in a nation-wide radio address.

Chief Troubles Domestic.

"Ninety per cent of our troubles are domestic, rather than foreign," said Senator Borah.

"We will have some ten or eleven million unemployed and perhaps half of our population living upon the bare necessities of life. That is a situation which to me is more menacing than any foreign problem. We have also the agricultural problem still awaiting some satisfactory solution, old age pensions, the railroad problem, and perhaps a dozen other problems, all of which are pressing for adjustment.

"If we can successfully cope with these, our own domestic problems, and bring back contentment and prosperity to our own people, we need not trouble ourselves about foreign propaganda. We need not torture our minds with these strange and sinister doctrines which spring up in discontented lands.

Way to Defeat Isms.

"Neither need we fear that the 'isms' which are at war with every tenet of free institutions will take root in American soil. The real danger to this republic lies in these distressing, demoralizing conditions and the aptitude and ability of foreign 'isms' to take advantage of them.

"If no dictator cursed the earth these conditions, if long continued, would destroy the republic.

"The terrific forces against which free government must guard are not so much armies and navies, but systems and ideologies, marching, as it were, in the wake of hunger and distress, and a confused and broken national spirit. The source of totalitarian power and success is in a demoralized and broken down political, economic and social life."

Refers to European Conquest.

Referring to the changed face of the European continent in recent months, the senator said:

"We should not, of course, wholly ignore or carelessly consider the matter of military preparedness. The danger from that source is remote, not very probable. The danger from our conditions at home is here, immediate, pressing, and I would deal with these subjects upon that basis.

"If we can remove the suffering and distress in our own country we will at the same time remove much of the threat from abroad. But if these problems are not adjusted and the people relieved of this frightful situation, you cannot put enough battleships on the sea nor enough planes in the air to give contentment and security to democracy."

FIGHT BREWING ON NEUTRALITY ACT PROVISIONS

Plan to Widen President's Powers Attacked.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A heated congressional battle over so-called neutrality legislation was foreseen today as expiration of provisions of the present neutrality act neared.

The neutrality act will offer a new front for the conflict which has arisen between legislative and executive authority. It will center upon the administration's efforts to broaden the President's powers under the act and the insistence of the conservative congressional bloc that congress maintain the present restrictions on his authority.

Clash on Cash Clause.

The immediate bone of contention is expected to be the "cash and carry" provisions of the act. These provisions require belligerents to pay in cash for nonmilitary purchases and to transport them in ships flying their own flags. The act requires the President to place an embargo on war materials when he finds a state of war exists.

The administration will seek to vest more discretionary power in the chief executive, so that he could apply the "cash and carry" provisions against countries which have violated peace treaties with the United States. This would enable the administration to discipline Germany, Italy, and Japan for their activities in Spain and the far east.

Seek Lifting of Embargo.

There has been a mounting demand in Washington from radical organizations that the administration lift its embargo on Spain to benefit the loyalist forces and hamper the rebels which are being aided by Germany and Italy. The shipping of nonmilitary materials in American ships, which would be possible if discretionary power on the "cash and carry" provisions were vested in the President, would be considered a step toward lifting the embargo against the communist loyalist forces.

Hope that the United States would lift the embargo on munitions for loyalist Spain today was expressed by Fernando de Los Rios, the Spanish ambassador to the United States. The ambassador said his government has the man power but is lacking munitions; has the money to pay cash for military supplies; could find the means for transporting the munitions, and if the embargo were lifted it would be of great assistance to loyalist Spain.

Message Reveals Plans.

In his message to congress the President indicated he will seek more power when he asserted that the present legislation might operate unfairly. Although he has as yet sent no specific orders to Capitol hill, he is expected to instruct administration leaders to ask for enlarged powers.

As a first step toward seeking the enlarged powers and toward furthering his increased national defense program, Mr. Roosevelt sent Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, and William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, to a secret joint meeting of the senate and house military affairs committee. The two envoys were reported to have told committee members that a European war is in the making and to have presented an alarming picture of the dangers of an invasion of this country by Nazi and Fascist forces.

Fail to Call Wilson.

Hugh R. Wilson, ambassador to Germany, who was recalled in one of the administration's brushes with the German government over Jewish persecutions in that country, was not sent before the committee. Today it was learned that he could not be counted upon to conjure up hobgoblins.

Unlike his colleagues, Kennedy and Bullitt, Ambassador Wilson is not a political appointee. He is a career man in the diplomatic service and owes his position to long and able service. He could not be counted upon to color his testimony to suit the administration's programs.

At the state department the official reason given for Wilson's failure to appear before the joint committee was that he had not been invited. When it was reported by members of the committee that neither Kennedy nor Bullitt had been invited.

WPA CUT OPPONENTS WAGE LOSING FIGHT; VOTE EXPECTED SOON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—House leaders fought desperately today to muster voting strength to overcome a 150 million dollar slash in the WPA appropriation which was recommended by an appropriations subcommittee. They reported little success.

The house begins consideration of the WPA appropriation tomorrow with an agreement to conclude debate Friday afternoon.

President Roosevelt asked for 875 millions to carry on the work relief agency from Feb. 1 to June 30. The appropriations subcommittee reduced the appropriation to 725 millions. Attempts to cut the fund to an even lower figure were defeated with difficulty.

A bill designed to eliminate from politics all federal employés and those of states who receive federal aid funds will be pushed in the house civil service committee, according to Representative Robert Ramspeck of Georgia, the chairman. It would place all such publicly paid employés under civil service.

ORDNANCE CHIEF TELLS NEED FOR WAR MACHINES

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Mechanization of armies is as American as baseball, but we will have to be a lot better if we want to win the pennant, Maj. Gen. C. M. Wesson, chief of ordnance of the United States army, told members of the Society of Automotive Engineers today. He said, however, that American automotive ordnance is first class in quality and performance.

"The mechanization of armies will give the United States an immense advantage when trouble comes, because we lead the world in manufacturing," he said.

"Basically the mechanization of land warfare rests on the fighting tank, aided by certain accessory and auxiliary combat vehicles."

He said that the tank must lay its own track, because only the track-laying machine has a tactical or off the road mobility roughly equivalent to the foot soldier whom it must usually assist, and more and more often replace.

FEAR OF DISEASE HAUNTS CAMP OF SHARECROPPERS

Short of Food, 1,000 Sit Along Roads in Cold.

Sikeston, Mo., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A ragged army of homeless men, women and children anxiously scanned overcast skies today and wondered how soon predicted rain or snow might fall on their open air camps in southeastern Missouri.

Already shivering from near freezing temperatures, more than 1,000 members of sharecropper families huddled in blankets about their few possessions or despairingly tried to erect makeshift shelters.

The campers, many of them flood refugees two years ago, blamed their present plight upon operation of the federal AAA crop benefit laws. They moved out of their shanties yesterday in a mass demonstration against wholesale evictions in winter.

Fear Outbreak of Disease.

Along 150 miles of two major southeast Missouri highways—U. S. routes 60 and 61—they spread their blankets, erected tents if they had them, and sat down to wait for rescue or whatever fate has in store for them.

Health authorities studied the danger of an epidemic outbreak and expressed fear the health of the farm families, particularly of the children, will be undermined by exposure. Lack of milk for infants is a common problem, and only small stores of food remained for any one.

No disorder was reported at the hundreds of camps. Policemen toured the roads along which campfires burned brightly through the night, offering assistance and guarding against trouble.

Blame Crop Control.

The sharecroppers — about one-fourth white and the others Negroes—blamed their circumstances on the federal farm program of restricting the acreage of cotton, the main crop in this "boot-heel" Missouri country.

With the expiration of tenant contracts at the end of the calendar year, farm owners were unable to continue hiring workers and their families on an annual basis because of the requirement that they limit their cotton crop.

The sharecroppers say landlords plan to hire casual labor. This will permit them to keep for themselves the government crop benefit payments they otherwise would have to share with the tenants.

KELLY SENDS WPA PLEA TO ILLINOIS UNIT IN CONGRESS

Mayor Kelly yesterday urged members of congress from Illinois to fight against a cut in the federal unemployment relief program. In a telegram sent to Senator James Hamilton Lewis and Senator Scott W. Lucas and to each Illinois member of the house of representatives, he warned that there will be a serious crisis in Chicago if work relief projects are decreased.

"Unemployment is greater now than it has been in similar periods in the last three years," the mayor's message stated. "The WPA employment has decreased from 121,200 in October [the month before the election] to 109,000. More than 10,000 have been shoved on direct relief.

"Last month the number of relief cases was 103,000 and it is increasing. Work relief must be increased if we are to avoid another collapse. There is every indication of an unfortunate and disastrous situation."

10 MILLION ALIEN AGENTS AT WORK IN U. S., SAYS DIES

Red Inquisitor Reveals Foreign Bloc Plots.

Representative Martin Dies of Texas asserted last night in a speech in Lyons township that foreign governments have sponsored sympathetic blocs and groups in the United States. He said they now have 10,000,000 members working to involve the United States in the next European war.

Rep. Martin Dies.

Dies, who is chairman of the house committee on un-American activities, announced that he was carrying his fight for funds to continue the investigation to the people.

"Why should we be denied $25,000 or so—and that's all we've had for this important work—when the government appropriated $165,000 to count the trees in Cleveland?" he demanded.

Addresses Employers Tonight.

The remarks of the congressman were cheered by a capacity audience in the Lyons Township High school auditorium. He spoke there under the sponsorship of the La Grange Legion Sunday Evening club. He will address the Employers association in the Stevens hotel this evening, and 2,000 reservations for that appearance have been made.

In discussing the insidious propaganda of foreign groups, Mr. Dies said they have two definite objectives. One is to change the whole structure of our government, by intrigue or violence, to conform to a foreign ideology. The second is to insure the involvement of the United States in the approaching European war.

He added that one of the biggest lobbies in history was working in Washington to see that his committee did not make an extended inquiry into subversive activities.

Compares Lobby to Locusts.

"They have descended on congress like a swarm of locusts," he said. "That they are going to such lengths shows that they have good reason to fear an honest exposure. Their success in infiltrating the labor movement, governmental activities, and so-called liberal organizations demonstrates that their strength cannot safely be minimized.

"I don't have the time," he continued, "nor you the patience to go into all the details to illustrate how these foreign governments by their emissaries in the United States were seeking to gain control and influence in America. Suffice it to say that they set up certain so-called front organizations.

"They take an organization like the American League for Peace and Democracy. They set it up for the express purpose of deceiving many well intentioned people. It holds for decent democracy.

"Every one is for that. Yet those who joined it did not inquire into the facts or they would have known that when the League for Peace and Democracy, which was merely organized as a league against war and Fascism, was set up at a world congress in Amsterdam of well known communists, that it was simultaneous in all democratic countries on express orders from Moscow, and that it boasts of a membership in the United States of 4,000,000 people.

Recalls Chairman's Words.

"We produced the first chairman of that organization, the man who helped organize it in the United States. He submitted his credentials in the form of letters and telegrams that passed between him and communist leaders of the United States and other countries. He testified in detail how the plan was to set up this league in the United States to secure millions of members, for the communists to stay in the background to occupy the strategic positions where they could use this organization to further the interests of communism in the United States and undermine the faith of our people in the American system of government. They denied they were communists.

"The other day when they opened their convention in Washington for the purpose of beginning a bombardment of propaganda against continuation of a fearless investigation a resolution was ordered to place them on record as condemning communism the same as Fascism. They almost had a riot because when it was suggested that the organization ought to condemn communism 99 per cent of the delegates who attended were in sympathy with communism and refused to condemn it.

Assails Workers' Alliance.

"Not only did they set up that organization," Dies said, "but they likewise set up the Workers' alliance. It was a merger between the unemployed council, a well known communist organization, and the Workers' alliance. David Lasser, a former member of the Socialist party, and Herbert Benjamin, well known communist leader, are the guiding geniuses behind that organization. They claim to have secured 800,000 members in the United States.

"There are other organizations of equal importance that I would like to tell you about, but I do not have the time. Suffice it to say that the genius of the communist strategy is that an organized minority is able to outmaneuver a disorganized or unorganized majority. That has been true since the beginning of time and it will always be true. Whenever you have an organized minority, clever, fanatical, actuated by hate, working tirelessly night in and night out and day in and day out, that organized minority is a threat to the safety and happiness of the country."

FRANKFURTER FACES QUIZ BY SENATE GROUP

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Felix Frankfurter, President Roosevelt's nominee to the Supreme court, will appear before a senate subcommittee at its request tomorrow and it is expected that he will answer witnesses who accused him of radicalism. Frankfurter previously had expressed a disinclination to go to the hearing.

The decision to call the nominee was made at the end of a day of testimony in which Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, author of the "Red Network," bracketed Frankfurter, President Roosevelt, Glenn Frank, and other leaders together as dangerous radicals.

Over the objections of Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], Allen Zoll of New York City, expressed the opinion that confirmation of Frankfurter would "fan a wave of anti-semitism" in the United States.

The nomination of James P. Pope, former Idaho senator, to be a TVA director, won the approval of the senate agriculture committee today but an objection by Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.], appeared likely to delay senate confirmation. Bridges, consistent critic of the TVA, announced that he would object on the ground that there is no vacancy on the board.

Missing 8 Days

MISS WINSTED ARNETT.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Search for Miss Winsted Arnett, missing from her home here for eight days, shifted today to Albany, where a woman resembling the attractive brunette was reported to have been seen several days ago. At Atlanta, the federal bureau of investigation reported it had been requested by the Arnett family to aid in the search, and that it had distributed information to certain sources that might be productive. Miss Arnett, member of a socially prominent Macon family, wore jewelry valued at $1,000 when she disappeared.

SPY TELLS GANG THREATS AFTER PLOT BETRAYAL

"Just Too Bad for You," Is Warning.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

A story of the grim threats made by gangsters as they realized they were being betrayed in the breakup of an alleged $500,000 forgery plot, was told yesterday to a jury before Judge James F. Fardy in Criminal court.

Attorney Emile Van Bever, 50 years old, did the telling. He is the state's star witness in the trial of George [Bugs] Moran, prohibition era gangster; Frank Parker, formerly known as the airplane bootlegger, and Frank Hicketts, alias Ross. The three are charged with conspiracy to forge and pass travelers' checks of the American Express company.

Advises Police of Plot.

On Tuesday Van Bever told of being approached by Parker to enter the conspiracy to distribute the fraudulent paper. Van Bever said he let the defendants believe he was working with them while actually he was advising police and express company officials of the progress of the plot.

Yesterday he testified to threats being made against him when the conspiracy was nipped on April 21, 1938, with the arrest of Frank Quigley in Pittsburgh, Pa. Quigley had attempted to pass one of the bogus checks there. He is now in jail in Pittsburgh.

"I met Parker on April 21," Van Bever said under questioning of Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright, "and he told me of Quigley's arrest. He asked me for a bundle of the bogus checks which he had given me a few days before. I got them from my room in the Medinah club and gave them to him.

"Just Too Bad for You."

"Then Parker said: 'George [Moran] and I have just talked and we believe you are the —— who tipped this off. If you did it's going to be too bad for you.' I told Parker he was mistaken.

"We went to a tavern and Parker made a telephone call. He returned and said: 'I just talked to George again. He's on his way down. I don't know how you're going to get out of this — I don't know what George will do.' Moran, however, did not appear.

"I assured Parker again that I had nothing to do with it and hoped Quigley wouldn't talk. Parker made several trips to the washroom with the bogus checks. As we were leaving the tavern, Parker said: 'What are you so nervous about? Charlie Erbstein would turn over in his grave if he saw you as yellow as you are now.' [Van Bever was once an associate of Erbstein, noted criminal lawyer]."

Find Checks in Hole.

Two days later—on April 23—Van Bever returned to the tavern with express company investigators and Sergt. Walter Paradowski of the detective bureau. He said he found a bundle of the spurious checks hidden in a hole in the wall of the washroom.

"On April 24," Van Bever continued, "I met Parker again and he said: 'We've made a check and I'm tickled to death that it's not you who made the tipoff. We've got Ross [Hicketts] pegged as the man. You certainly are lucky. They were going to take you the other night. I squared it all, and Ross is going to get his tonight.' [Apparently, however, nothing happened to Ross.]

"Two days later I saw Parker and Moran in an office at 520 North Michigan avenue. Both said there was nothing to worry about concerning the Pittsburgh arrest."

Gets $150 in Marked Bills.

Earlier in the day Van Bever told of receiving two fraudulent express checks, one for $50 and one for $100 from Ross, on April 14. The witness took them to the express company. He received $150 in marked bills from the company.

On April 19, Van Bever said, he gave the $150 to Parker and received $1,050 in bogus paper from the defendant. The paper was to have been bought at 15 per cent of its apparent face value. Van Bever said he asked why he was given an additional $50 in checks.

"'O, that's for you,' Parker told me," the witness continued.

Van Bever also told of several meetings in a Division street saloon owned by Harvey [Speedy] Anderson. On Parker's instructions he gave Anderson one of the forged checks, the witness said. He added that Anderson had once mentioned having seen Yellow Kid Joseph Weil, notorious confidence man. This reference was stricken on the objection of Defense Attorney Harold Levy.

Meets "The Big Shot."

On April 20 Parker invited Van Bever to dinner at his [Parker's] apartment at 3270 Sheridan road to meet the "big shot."

"There I was introduced to a Mr. Hanley," Van Bever said, "and recognized him immediately as Moran."

On cross-examination Defense Attorney James Burke brought in the name of Edward R. Litsinger, once a member of the old county board of review and former Republican leader.

"Did Parker ever tell you he had any litigation with Edward R. Litsinger?" Burke asked.

"Yes," the witness replied. "After I met Parker in 1937, he told me that Litsinger had stolen the Bismarck and Roosevelt breweries from him and there was litigation in the matter pending in Superior court. Parker said his other lawyers had been negligent in the case."

Ran Errands for Parker.

"Were you ever retained to do legal work for Parker?" Burke inquired.

"I believe I represented him in some matter when there were threats to take him back to Colorado in a deal," Van Bever said. "I looked up some court records in the Litsinger case for him. But I only ran errands for Parker, I was never regularly employed or ever paid by him."

OPERATING CHIEF DISCOUNTS CRIES FOR SUPER NAVY

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Admiral W. D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, today took issue with supernavy advocates who demand American sea power of such proportions that it could give this country full protection in both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans simultaneously against possible combinations of foreign powers.

Speaking at a thirty-sixth anniversary luncheon of the Navy League of the United States, Admiral Leahy said a gigantic two ocean navy is unnecessary at the present time. He called for an orderly rounding out of the present authorized fleet and the construction of essential air and submarine bases in continental United States and in Alaska and island possessions.

Completion of ships and airplanes already authorized, he said, should give this country a navy sufficiently large to provide a safe defense against attack on our shores by any single foreign naval power with the ships now in its possession, building or authorized.

REPUBLIC BORN ON FRONTIER IN VIRGINIA HILLS

Creed of Liberty Written by Hardy Pioneers.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—From the Mecklenberg declaration of independence:

"That we do hereby declare ourselves a free and independent people, that we are and of right out to be a sovereign, self-governing people under the power of God and the general congress and to the maintenance of which independence we solemnly pledge to each other our mutual coöperation, our lives, our fortunes, and our most sacred honor."

Behind all great events are premonitions, preludes, promises. The bursting of the cocoon of the American republic was occasioned by such preludes as that indicated above, dated May 20, 1775, a year before the Jefferson paper. It shows that the pressure, the idea, first took form where the mountain waters sing, in the valleys of the "Daughter of the Stars" [the Shenandoah] and the Yadkin, where Daniel Boone was nurtured.

Never Proved Historically.

"This Mecklenberg declaration has never been proved historically, but if it was a lie, it was a good lie, as Aunt Polly said when Tom Sawyer after his pirate expedition swore that he had left her a message of love on a shingle. The genuine sense of America at that moment was never so well expressed before nor since, John Adams said in writing about this document to Jefferson.

There had been forged during a century or more of pioneering in the great valley of Virginia, which runs like a peninsula from Pennsylvania down to Georgia, a race of men new in the world, transmuted in the fight with nature and natives, molded by their sense of religion and democracy into centers of energy ready to fight for their freedom and their dream.

Frontier Born Experiment.

This was noted first in the annals of Augusta county, Va., which once reached from the sea to the northwest wilderness. It is a regional movement, a frontier born experiment in uniting religious sentiment with political freedom, as a base from which this new nation could rise to the stars.

It was not on the Mayflower or the ship that brought Capt. John Smith to Virginia that the American republic was born. The new order came from these hills and mountains. Here was the first voice raised to dissolve all connections with Great Britain. Not from the Puritans, the Dutch of New York, or the planters of Virginia, but from these Scotch-Irish, Germans, and French who met in a broad stream that was to overflow frontier after frontier until the continent was theirs.

Colony of Free Humanity.

"Thus was founded," said Carl Schurz years later, "the great colony of free humanity which has not old England alone but the world for its mother country. And in the colony of free humanity, whose mother country is the world, they established the republic of equal rights where the title of manhood is the title to citizenship.

"My friends, if I had a thousand tongues and a voice as strong as the thunder of heaven, they would not be sufficient to impress upon your minds forcibly enough the greatness of this idea, the overshadowing glory of this result. This was the dream of the truest friends of man since the beginning; for this the noblest blood of martyrs has been shed; for this has mankind waded through seas of blood and tears."

New Dream in Hearts.

Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists, Catholics—fed by streams of old world humanity of many races, beaten and harried and lost, but with this new dream in their hearts—united to build a better world. Land speculation, yes, but the spiritual must not be overlooked. In those days tyranny had come close and God and freedom were something worth fighting for.

"This then is the heritage of pioneer experience," says Frederick J. Turner, ". . . a passionate belief that a democracy was possible which should leave the individual a part to play in free society and not make him a cog in a machine operated from above; which trusted in the common man, in his tolerance, his ability to adjust differences with good humor, and to work out an American type from the contributions of all nations."

Men in Foothills Speak.

It was while cautious voices were still being raised in the Continental congress that the men of the foothills spoke. They had fought bears and panthers and Indians. They had rebelled against the tidewater aristocrats in an earlier day, and they knew the kind of a government they were capable of building. Now they were to drive the English colonial governor into the sea. The battle of Lexington inflamed them and they resolved:

"That whosoever directly or indirectly abets in any way, form or manner, or countenances the invasion of our rights as attempted by the parliament of Great Britain, is an enemy to his country, to America, and the rights of man.

"That we, as citizens of Mecklenberg county, do hereby dissolve the political bands which have connected us with the mother country, and absolve ourselves from allegiance to the British crown, adjuring all political connection with a nation which has wantonly trampled on our rights and liberties and inhumanly shed innocent blood of Americans at Lexington."

Seek New Government Form.

They passed further resolutions relating to laws and government in interim and resolved to "use every exertion to spread the love of liberty and of country until a more general and organized system of government be established."

In their thought, leading them out of the old world wilderness as Moses was led to the Land of Promise, was that which Thomas Mann has expressed today as a lone voice in the same old world tyrannies:

"We must define democracy as that form of government and of society which is inspired above every other with the feeling and consciousness of the dignity of man."

All this was in view of Gov. Alexander Spotswood and his company of gentlemen explorers when they reached the crest of the Blue Ridge in 1716 and looked down upon the western waters. But they did not see it. The governor lived in the palace at Williamsburg and scorned the rough frontiersmen. The French held the northwest, the Spanish the southwest.

Paid in Latin Verse.

The college of William and Mary waited on the governor bearing two copies of Latin verse, their annual spring offering for the land that had been given it.

The Knights of the Golden Horseshoe toasted their achievement in champagne as they camped by the singing waters. Who could look ahead? Who could see that in a few years Cornwallis would be waiting here while the men of the valley and those that were to rise in the dim forests beyond the Alleghany line were to attack and overwhelm and end the British power at King's mountain?

And who can look ahead today, when tyrannies arise in new form, all through the world? It happens that the Charlotte News, which recently published a 122 page golden jubilee edition, has a prophet on its staf, who writes of the Charlotte of 1988, looking back at this time.

Editor Looks Ahead.

Research shows, he says, that fifty years ago [today] only four planes a day came to Charlotte, and these were small airliners carrying no more than twenty-one passengers. These gave way to planes carrying 125 passengers at 300 miles an hour.

"Today ships [1988] landing in Charlotte every hour, accommodate more than 200 passengers each in addition to freight and connect with international termini for overnight flights to Europe and South America."

"In 1938, it is astonishing to recall now, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who was elected for his second term in 1936 and was, for his day, considered progressive, called the south the nation's economic problem No. 1."

Vast Development Ahead.

"Of course, no such geographical term as the south could be applied today, but it seems odd that comparatively such a short time ago the most prosperous area of the nation should have been dubbed backward. The sudden development of gold mines, diversification of agriculture, elimination of cotton tenancy, and swift rises in wage levels came about less than thirty years ago, and marked the turning point in this part of the world.

"At the same time the city of Charlotte doubled, then trebled, its industry, especially in the field of hosiery manufacturing, in all textiles and in the use of cotton by-products.

"The city today, old photographs reveal, is in physical appearance in great contrast with the old Charlotte. The center rises in smooth, towering spires surrounded by traffic runways and saucered with landing roofs for private and commercial planes."

State Rights Defended.

The Charlotte Observer, expressing sentiment on the November election says:

"This newspaper would be in agreement with any school of political thought which insisted that, instead of nationalism, which Mr. Roosevelt favors, being consonant with liberalism, it is, on the other hand, consonant with the rankest sort of reactionaryism.

"To ignore the rights of the states, the rights of lesser political subdivisions of constitutional authority, even the primary rights of the individual, in favor of the development or a super-authority in Washington, is the kind of reactionary and enslaving government that the American colonists ran away from in order to set up a procedure of liberal democracy in this country.

Dangerous to Democracy.

"Broadly, any philosophy of government which considers the constitution as outmoded, which would establish in America a nationalized control of the affairs of our free people and which would trespass upon the simple processes of a liberalized democracy, is, in our opinion, unacceptable and dangerous to the preservation of that democracy.

"It may be that this lies behind the revolt of the people indicated in the Tuesday voting, and that they are slowly moving away from a leadership which, in their judgment, is too threatening to their basic liberties."

[The third story of this series will deal with the men and the forces, spiritual and physical, which met at King's mountain.]

NANCY FAIRCHILD.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Miss Nancy Bell Fairchild, granddaughter of the late Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, was married today to Dr. Marston Bates of the international health division, Rockefeller Foundation. Dr. Bates' headquarters are in Tirana, Albania, where he and his bride will go after Jan. 21.

REPUBLICAN HOUSE MEMBERS GET FREE HAND ON SALES TAX

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—No united action by the G. O. P. bloc against extension of the 3 per cent sales tax is planned, it was announced today by Robert J. Branson, Republican majority leader in the Illinois house.

Bills to continue the levy and use the third cent for relief were passed by the Democratic controled senate yesterday. They will be placed on second reading in the house next week, and unless the recess until Jan. 24 is canceled, probably will be brought to a vote late this month.

Branson said that action on the proposed tax continuance will be left to individual members. If the Democrats have only 74 votes in the house, they would need the aid of a sizeable group of Republicans to give the bill the 102 votes it must receive to pass as an emergency measure.

School Principal Named District Superintendent

Miss Angela M. Cylkowski, principal of the McCormick Elementary school, 2700 South Sawyer avenue, yesterday was named a district superintendent of schools by the board of education. She succeeds John A. Bartky, who was chosen president of the Chicago Teachers' college last year. Harry F. Yates, principal of the Oglesby Elementary school, 7646 South Green street, was named principal of Harper High school, succeeding Arthur G. Deaver, retired.

HUNGARY CLAIMS CZECH REGULARS MAKE NEW RAIDS

Budapest Warns Invasion May Be Consequence.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A series of reported attacks on Hungarian border villages by Czecho-Slovaks kept the capitals of southeastern Europe on edge today.

One newspaper, Az Est, said several Czecho-Slovaks were wounded when regular troops attacked at Barkaszo on the border of Carpatho-Ukraine [formerly Ruthenia], the eastern province of Czecho-Slovakia. Other newspapers reported six attempts by Czecho-Slovak machine gun units to cross into Hungary in the vicinity of Ungvar.

The official news agency asserted thirty carloads of "Ukrainian terrorists" arrived in the vicinity of Ungvar, former capital of Carpatho-Ukraine before the town became part of Hungary in the Vienna award of Nov. 2. These reports followed a warning from Hungary that new violations of the frontier would bring a Hungarian invasion.

[Czecho-Slovaks in Prague said sixty to eighty "Hungarian terrorists" attacked with hand grenades, machine guns, and rifles in a three hour battle at Bervinkos and two Czechs were wounded.]

Refugees to Receive Aid.

PRAGUE, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A quarter of a million refugees who fled into the interior of Czecho-Slovakia to escape the triple squeeze of Germany, Hungary and Poland last fall learned today they will be aided in leaving the country soon in a "humane manner."

The emigration bureau, established by the Czecho-Slovak government, announced that emigrants from Germany and Austria will be assisted first. The bureau will aid approximately 13,000 democratic Germans who fled from the Sudetenland before it was annexed by Adolf Hitler, and then 2,000 German communists and nearly 15,000 German Jews.

Arms Factory Sold.

The Czecho-Slovak government has sold most of its interest in the 120,000,000 crown [$4,080,000] Czecho-Slovak Arms company at Brunn [Brno] to a private industrial and banking group.

The banking group consists of the Anglo-Prago bank, Zivnostenska Banka, and the Explosia company. Anglo-Prago bank recently took over the majority of Skoda holdings from the French arms concern, Schneider-Creusot. Imperial Chemical Industry, Ltd., of London is interested in the Explosia company, Czecho-Slovakia's greatest chemical-armament firm.

72 MORE ELIGIBLES CALLED BY ALLMAN TO FILL POLICE JOBS

Willard J. Falvy, 7841 South Wolcott avenue, was No. 326 on the list of 3,162 who passed examinations and became eligible for police department jobs. Last fall 325 were selected and Falvey settled down for another long wait before he got his star and uniform.

But yesterday Police Commissioner Allman asked the civil service commission to certify seventy-two more men for the department, and Falvey's name led the list. The recruits will raise the force to its full quota of 5,650 patrolmen, replacing men lost through death or retirement.

HITLER EXPECTED TO GET PLAN FOR EXODUS OF JEWS

Bank Chief Will Present Resettlement Program.

BERLIN, Jan. 11. — (AP) — George Rublee and Robert T. Pell, American officials of the intergovernmental refugee committee, today obtained Reichsbank President Dr. Hjalmar Schacht's promise to consult other members of the government about the committee members' requests for an agreement to resettle German Jews abroad.

This was taken to mean that he would present the views to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, No. 2 Nazi and chief of the four year self-sufficiency plan.

Early Decision Expected.

Rublee and Pell conferred for an hour and a half with Schacht and Karl Blessing, a reichsbank director. Afterward Rublee appeared confident they would hear shortly, perhaps tomorrow, from Germany's chief financier on the negotiations.

They were understood to involve the removal of 400,000 or 500,000 of Germany's nearly 700,000 Jews over a period of several years.

Dr. Schacht was reported to feel that the Jewish issue was one demanding quick and energetic treatment, so the German economic structure might return to normal as soon as possible.

Two Moves Contemplated.

A plan that Schacht outlined before the refugee committee in London recently was said to contemplate two main moves by other nations in return for German coöperation.

These were a large international loan to be secured by property confiscated from Jews in Germany, and the lifting of unofficial boycotts on German products to allow an increase in German foreign trade.

An unannounced part of the returns from such increased trade would go to meet interest on the proposed loan, which would be used for resettling Jews and would be in the hands of those who raised it. If such a scheme proved successful, Germany would get rid of most of her Jews, keep their fortunes within Germany, and increase her foreign exchange reserves.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ocheltree.

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The little Indian girl student from the University of Oklahoma who fled from New York last Saturday on the eve of her marriage to Arthur Ocheltree, concert singer, was back today. And she revealed the interrupted wedding was carried out last evening.

The bride, 19 years old, was Bonnie Bee Berryhill. She met Ocheltree in Norman, Okla., where he was appearing with a group of Wagnerian singers. Bonnie Bee, a journalism student, came to interview Ocheltree.

"It was love at first sight," her husband said today.

BOY SCOUT DOES HIS DAILY DEED; RESCUES A MAN

Trowbridge Grose, 14 years old, was on his way to a Boy Scout meeting last night when he heard cries for help from the sanitary district canal at Lincoln street in Evanston.

He ran down the steep canal bank, waded out into the chilly water, and dragged in a man who was struggling there. In a nearby home the rescued man was identified as William A. Risberg, 43 years old, of 1061 Rosemont avenue, an accountant. Unable to make a coherent statement, he was taken by the police to the Evanston hospital. It was not determined whether he fell or jumped intentionally into the canal.

Young Grose, who lives at 1305 Lincoln street, Evanston, went on to the Scout meeting when the excitement subsided.

GIRL, 13, MISSING; MOTHER IS TOLD OF ADMIRER, 30

Police searched for a Mozart elementary school girl 13 years old last night in the fear that she has been lured away by a man of 30. She is Anna Fiezer of 3751 Belden avenue. When she failed to return from school yesterday her mother, Mrs. George Fiezer, asked the police to search. They learned the girl had told schoolmates that she had $4 and was going away with the man, who the schoolmates said has been walking to and from school with Anna.

Search was being made for another missing schoolgirl. She is Evangeline Callis, 17, of 2649 Thomas street, a student at Wells High school. Her mother, Mary, said she vanished Tuesday.

GIFTS TO JEWISH CAMPAIGN ASKED BY EDDIE CANTOR

Eddie Cantor, radio and screen actor, yesterday called upon Chicagoans to contribute to the Jewish Welfare Relief fund. He spoke before a campaign rally in the Standard club. The freeing of thousands of persecuted persons in Germany depends on the raising of $20,000,000 in the United States, Cantor said. Chicago's quota is $2,000,000, of which $1,200,000 has been pledged.

GERMANS ACCUSE JEWS OF HOLLAND SNIPER ATTACKS

Report Firing of Shots at Nazi's Home, Legation.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—[Thursday].—(AP)—Shots reportedly fired at a German consular official's home and a legation secretary's work room in Holland today caused an outburst of fury in German papers. The papers unanimously assumed that the culprits must be Jewish.

Parallels were drawn with the slaying Nov. 7 of Ernst von Rath, legation secretary in Paris, by Herschel Grynszpan, Polish Jew.

Reports printed here said the shots were fired at a German consular's private home in Amsterdam last Friday, and at the work room of a secretary of the German legation in the Hague last Monday. No one was injured.

Hitler's Paper Blames Jews.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, said that no doubt the bullets were fired with murderous intent and that "the fact they were fired from ambush shows only too clearly that Jews are at the bottom of the affair."

The Boersen Zeitung said: "Holland has been selected by international Jewry as the new basis of operations for inflammatory and murderous schemes." The paper called on the Netherlands to put a stop to Jewish agitation, adding: "If not, it will bear the sole responsibility for anything that may happen afterward."

[An Amsterdam dispatch last night said the German minister had called attention of the Netherlands foreign minister to the shots and an investigation had been promised.]

Nazis Clamor for Change.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—Commenting on the opening today of conversations among British and Italian leaders in Rome, the Deutsche Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz, mouthpiece of the Nazi foreign office, said: "The status quo in the Mediterranean is far from being an immutable reality. There are a number of sensitive spots in the Mediterranean which are far from being satisfactory."

To emphasize the importance official quarters in Berlin attach to these utterances, the news was printed on pink paper instead of white. This happened only once last year when Adolf Hitler's government made known its attitude shortly before the Czecho-Slovak crisis came to a head.

Emphasizes Friendship.

"The new Italian nation is certain of the support of her strong friend [Germany]," the Korrespondenz said. "The world cannot close its eyes to the fact that Italy has become an entirely different factor in the Mediterranean and that she, therefore, can put forward different demands. Especially in view of attempts at disturbing the atmosphere coming from other continents, Germany can only express her hopes that the Rome talks will have results satisfying the expectations of her Italian friends, and at the same time paving the way to a new order in the interests of all."

Official circles admitted that they fail to see any way leading to a solution satisfying to all interested parties, including pan-Germany whose southern frontier lies, they said, "only fifty miles away from the Mediterranean."

"However, Germany puts her trust in the sense of reality Chamberlain showed at Munich [when Germany was awarded Sudetenland] and on previous occasions," the officials said.

Reach Pact with Rumania.

Germany, meanwhile, is missing no oportunity to further cement her strong position in southeastern Europe.

The Nazi press published an agreement reached by Armand Calinescu, Rumanian minister of interior, and Fritz Fabritius, leader of the German minority. Under it Germans of Rumanian nationality will join the newly formed "front of national resurrection."

Germany expects to start building a railway and automobile highway linking East Prussia with Germany next March. Poland was believed to have ceded to Germany for this purpose an extraterritorial strip of land three miles wide. The Polish corridor separates East Prussia and Germany.

Nazis Ban N. Y. Paper.

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The German language Daily Staatszeitung und Herold of New York City came under an official ban today with circulation in the reich forbidden until further notice.

INQUIRY IN SLOT MACHINE RACKET TURNS TO JOLIET

A state-wide investigation of the slot machine racket, begun after three gang murders of persons connected with it, will center in Joliet today. The trail of the killers last night swung northward from Pekin and Peoria.

T. P. Sullivan, state superintendent of criminal investigation and identification, has been assigned to the case by Attorney General John L. Cassidy. Sullivan was in Peoria yesterday seeking clews to the murder of Anton J. Miller there Monday. Miller, a locksmith and professed foe of slot machines, also manufactured keys by which they could be robbed.

Sullivan questioned three Joliet hoodlums, seized for a holdup in Pekin. Acting on information supplied by them, he and Chief of Police Leo F. Kamins of Peoria will go to Joliet today.

John Balma, hoodlum and muscle man for a slot machine syndicate, was killed in Joliet Saturday. Robert Lewison, member of a gang of slot machine robbers, was slain near Hinsdale Saturday night.

Italian Official of Peking Held for Ransom by Bandits

PEKING, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Frank Poletti, an Italian and postal commissioner of Peking, is being held by bandits in the hills twenty miles north of here, it was learned today. Poletti, a White Russian companion and three Chinese servants were seized while on a hunting trip Sunday.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

ARMOUR EXPERTS TAKE MILLIONTH SECOND PHOTOS

Picture Steps as Bullet Shatters Glass.

Scientists at the Armour Institute of Technology have succeeded in taking photographs in the infinitestimal exposure period of one millionth of a second.

Demonstrating their elaborate technique yesterday for the first time, Dr. F. W. Godwin and Dr. A. O. Walker produced pictures of a bullet in flight at 1,000 feet a second. The speeding bullet is used to make the exposure of the photographic negative.

Successive pictures revealed the bullet in various positions—first leaving the muzzle, next approaching a plate of glass, which it was shortly to shatter; next piercing the glass, with cracks spreading outward, and then as it passed entirely through the pane, which still maintained its form. The final picture showed the glass bursting into a thousand fragments.

Sets Off Spark Gap.

Because shutter speeds of the fastest conventional cameras permit exposure of only about one 1,500th of a second, shutters are eliminated. A .22 caliber pistol is set up about twenty inches from the glass to be shattered. About a foot from the pane two poles of a spark gap are erected so that the bullet will pass just below the poles. The hot gas from the firing of the bullet, washing behind it, completes a circuit which sets off the spark gap.

The spark gap provides the illumination by discharging 38,000 volts in a partial vacuum in a tube similar to the conventional neon tube. The picture is taken in a darkened room, the shutter of the camera being left open. Pictures of the bullet in various positions in flight are obtained by altering minutely the relative positions of the spark gap poles. Thus the moment of discharging the tube can be advanced or retarded enough to photograph the bullet at any position desired. A miniature camera is used with an f.2 lens.

Expect Use in Industry.

This technique in speed photography, its developers believe, will be useful in industry. It may be utilized in photographing high speed mechanisms, revealing faults and flaws in operation.

"As an example, our apparatus might be adapted," said Dr. Godwin, "for taking pictures of a crank shaft revolving at a high speed. Pictures might reveal distortions due to centrifugal force. Or it might be used to photograph breaking tests to determine where the first failure occurred."

Text of Toasts at Mussolini's Banquet

ROME, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Following is the text of the toast given by Premier Mussolini tonight at the Palazzo Venezia banquet in honor of Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain:

"Mr. Prime Minister: I am happy to give you and Lord Halifax [foreign secretary] my cordial welcome and that of the Fascist government in Italy and Rome, which in greeting you as guests and representatives of a great and friendly nation wishes to assure you of the sympathy with which the Italian people have followed and follow your work and that of your government.

"Your spirit of comprehension and the firmness with which you have personally cooperated for an equitable solution of the problems which were weighing down on the life of Europe during September and the tenacity with which you have pursued a program of conciliation and peace have found a most sincere appreciation in my country, which has always believed in peace founded on justice, which has been and is the ultimate goal to which the policy of Fascist Italy has been and is directed.

Tells of Friendly Relations.

"The Italo-British accord, which entered recently into force, has placed the relations between Great Britain and Italy on a solid basis, and not only has reconstituted upon a new basis of understanding and in a new Mediterranean and African reality the friendship between the two countries but also has opened a way to collaboration, which, being a necessary element for the peace of Europe, we hope will be both lasting and fruitful.

"With this wish, to which I add my most sincere sentiments of friendship for you personally, I raise, excellency, my glass in honor of his majesty the king of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British dominions beyond the seas, emperor of India, to your health and to the greatness and prosperity of your nation."

Toast by Chamberlain.

Following is the text of Chamberlain's toast:

"I have been greatly touched by the cordial sentiments which your excellency has just expressed toward myself and my country, and both the foreign secretary [Lord Halifax] and myself have been deeply moved by the warmth of the reception accorded to us on our arrival in the capital of the Italian empire.

"It is a real pleasure to both of us to revisit this country and this city which, through the ages, has notably inspired much of man's highest thought and achievements, to see with our own eyes the new Italy, powerful and progressive, which has arisen under your excellency's guidance and inspiration.

"I have come here in pursuit of the policy for which I stand—the policy of friendship with all and of enmity with none and a policy directed to a just and peaceful solution of international difficulties by the method of negotiation. I am happy to think our two governments have been able to give concrete expression to this policy, for it was in this spirit they concluded last spring the Anglo-Italian agreement which has just been put into force.

New Chapter of Friendship.

"It is noteworthy that as one of the first fruits of this agreement our two governments were able yesterday here and in London to proceed to the exchange of military information which it provides.

"Convinced as we are that our interests in the Mediterranean while of vital importance to us both yet need in no way conflict with one another, we believe that agreement has opened a new chapter of friendship and confidence between us which should prove fruitful for the future stability of Europe.

"It is as a representative of a great nation whose desire it is to remain on close, friendly, and even intimate relations with another great nation that I am here today.

"Your excellency has been good enough to refer in flattering terms to my part in finding a solution of problems which last September were weighing upon the life of Europe. I should like to repeat what I have said before, that we are all deeply indebted to your excellency for your help and coöperation which contributed so decisively to the peaceful result of the Munich conference.

"Assuring your excellency that I value highly your expressions of personal friendship and with the hope that our two nations may together cooperate in the task of securing lasting peace in Europe, I raise my glass to his majesty the king of Italy and emperor of Ethiopia and to continued welfare and prosperity of the peoples over whom he rules."

REBELS TAKE KEY TOWN IN DRIVE ON TARRAGONA ROAD

Loyalists Shell Foe's Rail Line in West Spain.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Jan. 11.—(AP)—Spanish rebel dispatches to the border tonight said the entire government position north of Tarragona had been turned by the capture of Montblanch and an after dark advance to within fifteen miles of the coastal city.

Fighting through a soupy fog, Navarrese troops virtually surrounded Montblanch, formerly a town of 5,000 inhabitants, earlier in the day and then by a frontal attack drove out the defenders.

Montblanch is the heart of a network of roads for southern Catalonia and about eighteen miles northwest of Tarragona, principal seaport of southern Catalonia. Tarragona is about fifty miles southwest of Barcelona, government capital.

Threatens Isolation of Many.

At the same time the position of Tarragona was further menaced by rebels advancing from the southwest, near Falset. Gen. Francisco Franco's men were reported by their commanders to be within four miles of Falset and about twenty-six miles from Tarragona. Rebels asserted the loyalists had ordered the evacuation of Falset. Falset is only twelve miles from the sea.

The twin drive threatened to cut off all lower Catalonia and isolate government militia guarding the lower Ebro river line around Tortosa.

Rebel dispatches said Montblanch fell after nearly twelve hours of one of the most furious assaults of the current campaign that started on Dec. 23. The rebels' heaviest artillery, tanks, planes, mortars, and crack infantry units were pressed into the battle. Encircling Montblanch from the north they first took Solivella on the northwest, Pira on the north, and then Barbera on the northeast.

Railroad Under Fire.

On the southwestern front the government forces reported they had brought the direct rail line connecting Seville, southern headquarters of the rebels, with Burgos, their northern capital, under the fire of heavy government artillery.

Dispatches from the government side said the offensive, which began on Jan. 5 and was designed to offset Gen. Franco's big drive in the northeast had been carried to within eight miles of Llerena, one of the main stations on the railway.

The city lay within range of the government's heavy artillery, these advices said. Llerena is about fifty miles east of the Portuguese border.

The government air force was extremely active in trying to hinder arrival of rebel reinforcements, it was reported from Madrid. Forty trucks carrying fresh troops were bombed on the road between Pueblo Nuevo del Terrible and Penarroya, near the base of the government's salient into the west. The airmen also bombed military objectives at Penarroya and Belmez. Belmez, Penarroya and Pueblo Nuevo del Terrible are clustered in an important mining district some forty miles east of Llerena.

Could Use Second Line.

Cutting of the Burgos-Seville rail connection would not destroy all rail communications through the fifty mile corridor held by rebels along the Portuguese border. There is a second line about twenty-five miles west of Llerena. The rebels were reported preparing to shift their heavy trafic to the second line which adds nearly 100 miles to the route.

On either flank of their deep salient, the government reports said, the principal points of rebel resistance were being encircled. To the south, the militiamen were said to have captured the heights dominating Penarroya, leaving only a narrow corridor open to the southwest. On the north, Monterrubio, where the rebels had massed reinforcements, was reported three-fourths encircled.

IL DUCE'S GRASP ON ITALY SHAKEN BY NAZI INROADS

Revolt Against Fascism Sweeps Nation.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—In the background of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's visit to Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy are essential factors which supply the key to the situation in the Mediterranean, according to stories which diplomatic and other observers have been bringing from censor-bound Italy during recent weeks.

The first, said a reliable informant of THE TRIBUNE, is a revulsion against Fascism and Premier Mussolini's policies, especially in northern Italy.

The second, he said, is widespread German Nazi penetration into Italy, which is giving Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler increasing influence there.

Nazis Overrun Italy.

The second factor, as described by THE TRIBUNE'S informants, is perhaps the more significant. The Germanization of Italy has reached an advanced stage. Nazis are overrunning the country. The reasons are military. Hitler wants to be certain that no dissensions against the Germans break out in Italy in case the Rome-Berlin axis powers get into war with England and France.

There is said to be talk of Gleichschaltung of Italy—the same as of Austria some years ago.

[Gleichschaltung literally means putting in like or equal circuit and here implies attaining harmony with Nazi principles in Italy.]

The Germans have established party organizations in all large Italian towns and have sent out specialists who influence Italian policy in matters of war material manufacture, secret police, the armed services, industries, and banks and commerce.

Three Germans actually sit on Premier Mussolini's commission for defense of the race. German technicians are in munitions factories.

Germans Weed Out Suspects.

Gestapo [secret police] experts are instructing members of Premier Mussolini's OVRA [organizatione vigilanza reservata sulle asseiciazone, or secret police].

The Nazis insist on weeding out any one suspected of being anti-German, the same as of any one suspected of being anti-Fascist. Fear that this anti-Germanism might develop into sympathy with anti-Fascism seemingly is the reason.

Furthermore, German specialists in Italy were said to be working out various reforms, and it was asserted that Fascist party purges actually have been at the insistence of Nazis.

2,500 Nazis in Country.

In all, about 2,500 Nazi technicians, specialists, and agents are in Italy. They are distributed as follows: Rome, 296; Trieste, 250; Milan, 250; Bolzano, 250; Brescia, 180; Genoa, 180; Spezzia, 150; Naples, 150; Florence, 100; Cagliari, 100, and in other towns, about 600.

Nazi propaganda, my informant said, is in full swing in Bolzano and the Tyrol, where Hitler's portrait has a place of honor in public places, and the Tyroleans again are speaking German and talking about the time they will be rejoined to the reich.

A severe investigation also is being made of enemies of the régime by the Fascist police. It was said that one Italian, returning from a visit to Nice, France, remarked on the train that prices were cheap in France. He was arrested and charged with uttering remarks defaming Fascist Italy.

Despite this vigilance, a deep reaction to Fascism is occurring among all classes of Italians. Fascism, my informant said, probably reached its peak just after the Ethiopian war, when every Italian thought he soon would become a millionaire out of the wealth gained from the land of Haile Selassie.

Disillusion has set in now, however. There is whispering everywhere that the Ciano family [Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, his Italian foreign secretary], is cleaning up big fortunes.

Economic, political, and sentimental causes explain the recession from Fascism. The working classes in Italy are getting poorer and poorer. Taxes on income and wages, and levies on capital are becoming unbearable. Autarchy is killing industries which once were sound.

Nazi Supremacy Distasteful.

Political causes, such as the Anschluss [union of Germany and Austria], detached many adherents from Fascism. Italians cannot get used to Germans at the Brenner Pass or to German expansion in central Europe. They do not like Mussolini's playing second fiddle to Hitler in the Rome-Berlin axis.

Other causes of widespread revolt and discontent were described as: Failure to exploit Ethiopia, whose conquest must begin all over again, and intervention on behalf of the rebels in the Spanish civil war, which has cost Italy 13 billion lire [currently $684,125,000] to date.

The Spanish adventure is considered Mussolini's capital error. Returned soldiers are spreading stories and describing themselves as badly paid mercenaries.

Flight of Capital Continues.

Two things show the disarray and confusion that have invaded all social classes. They are:

FIRST—The continued flight of capital from the country, despite the danger of severe punishment. Fascists themselves are guilty of this, although the Jew is blamed.

SECOND—The severest penalties have been exercised against youths of 14 to 16 years of age who dodge what is known as pre-military service. So numerous have desertions become that eight day jail sentences have been passed on boys who prolong their absences from pre-military courses.

High officers and the upper military set also are turning a cold shoulder on Fascism, as are middle class intellectuals and certain circles of big industry and business not tied up with trusts directed by the régime.

Jewish Persecution Disliked.

The campaign against the Jews has reacted unfavorably against the régime, because Italians generally refuse to harbor hate for race or religion. In addition to these errors Mussolini has made the mistake of declaring war on Catholicism again.

In this situation Fascism's expedient is to organize a diversion in foreign politics. The ruse has succeeded several times before. The trick is to stir up artificial agitation, which draws attention from worries at home and inspires the conviction that these miseries are not due to the régime but to foreign devils who prevent Italy from taking its place in the sun. Some times this foreign devil is German, some times he is Jugo-Slav, and at other times he is British. This time he is French.

Scheme Long Planned.

At this juncture the European agitation is likely to center on Spain and the Mediterranean rather than eastern Europe, where Hitler will be quiescent until he helps Mussolini get his share of swag. The scheme has been planned for some time.

Hitler and Il Duce agreed that after the Munich conference [in which Germany obtained French, British, and Italian consent to absorb the Czecho-Slovak Sudetenland] it would be Italy's turn. If Prime Minister Chamberlain comes back to Britain from Rome with his shirt he will really be good. So said my informant, anyway.

Wedding Postponed

[Acme Photo.]
PRINCESS MARIA.

ROME, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Princess Mafalda, second child of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena of Italy, was reported to have passed through a crisis today in an illness which for a time seemed to threaten her life. The princess is suffering from an attack of bronchial pneumonia which developed from influenza. A person close to the royal household said her condition was considered encouraging tonight. She is 36 years old.

Officials repeatedly denied persistent rumors of her death and reports that her death was being kept secret so as not to interfere with festivities of the visit of the British prime minister, Neville Chamberlain.

Princess Mafalda's illness caused the royal family to announce postponement of the wedding of her younger sister, Maria, to Prince Louis of Bourbon-Parma. The wedding was to have been Sunday. A new date was not set.

ITALIANS FORBID U. S. BROADCASTS ON ROME PARLEY

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Two American radio chains reported tonight that Rome authorities had made impossible scheduled short wave broadcasts on the Mussolini-Chamberlain talks. Correspondents were to have broadcast at 5:30 p. m. Chicago time.

The National Broadcasting company said that shortly before its correspondent was to have spoken he cabled, "Facilities denied."

The Columbia Broadcasting system's speaker cabled, "Broadcast impossible," a half hour before he was to have gone on the air.

The radio offices said no further explanation was given. They said British Broadcasting company talks were allowed.

NINE VENIREMEN ARE INDICTED IN BROOKLYN QUIZ

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Nine men were indicted today, the first in the investigation of official corruption in Brooklyn. All nine were members of the special panel from which the indicting extraordinary grand jury was chosen.

The nine ex-veniremen were indicted for perjury, Special Prosecutor John H. Amen revealed. They are charged with making false statements under oath in reply to a questionnaire concerning their fitness for jury duty.

To the questions "have you ever been criminally prosecuted?" and "have you ever had trouble with the authorities?" the nine swore in the negative. Investigation revealed, Amen said, that they had been arrested or convicted for a variety of crimes ranging from grand larceny to renting rooms for immoral purposes.

KULA ECONOMICS

By CALEB

OFF TO the north and east of New Guinea is a ring of islands whose natives indulge a peculiar custom called the Kula. Practiced since time immemorial, its interest for moderns lies in the fact that here is a "pagan economics"—the very reverse of modern—yet one suggesting a principle of industry we ourselves might well revive and seriously reconsider.

The Kula procedure is found to be deep-rooted in savage myth and tradition. Its motive force is wholly tribal, social and religious—with an actual mode of expression so picturesque that it might have originated in Hollywood. At stated periods, always brief, the inhabitants of a given island receive from their neighbors to the left necklaces of red shell, and give to those same neighbors bracelets of white shell. Simultaneously, to their neighbors on the right, they give red shell necklaces, and from them receive white shell bracelets. Not promiscuously, in either case—but from one certain partner to another. In Kula, red necklaces and white bracelets are kept circulating in opposite directions throughout this island group.

Both bracelets and necklaces have specific prestige values, as well as fixed equivalences. They are highly prized; and their histories are tales excitedly told and retold among the Kula's followers. In order to span long sea-distances between some of the islands, canoes have to be built, and barter in articles necessary to existence is, of course, inevitable. BUT—the unique feature of the Kula throughout is that its human, social and religious maintenance is primary; the matters of trade and traffic are entirely subordinate. Outsiders might easily assume the exact opposite.

Such, then, is the economics of Kula: interesting because it creates collaboration solely through social, instead of commercial, incentives—assuming that if the tribal, religious rituals of Kula are rigidly observed, economic and trade problems will solve themselves.

"Amusing" is the modern businessman's first comment. Yet our own advanced public relations practitioners are already supporting this same idea of a "social structure" in business which, in the interests of profitable management, must be recognized. Kula was the pagan's way of putting people ahead of problems. Suitably administered, it may also prove to be civilization's sanest approach to problem-solutions in business.

BLAME YOUR LIVER IF—

If your liver doesn't secrete 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day into your intestines—constipation with its headaches, mental dullness and that "half-alive" feeling often result. So you see how important it is to keep bile flowing freely! And what finer aid could one desire than Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, used so successfully for years by Dr. F. M. Edwards for treating his patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile.

Olive Tablets are unsurpassed in effectiveness because they stimulate liver bile to help digest fatty foods, they tone up muscular intestinal action at the same time help elimination. Being purely vegetable, Olive Tablets are harmless. Test their supreme goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. All drugstores.

GOV. HEIL RAPS REORGANIZATION ACT IN MESSAGE

Outlines Objectives for New Legislature.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—In plain but hard hitting language that struck particularly at the reorganization act which was pounded through the legislature last year by the La Follette administration, Gov. Julius P. Heil late today called upon he new Wisconsin legislature to work with him in driving politics out of the state service. He asked the lawmakers to assume their responsibility in bringing about an efficient, economical administration.

Gov. Heil spoke at a joint session of the senate and assembly shortly after they had completed organization procedure.

Hits Duplications.

Without recommending specific legislation, the new governor, who heads the first Republican administration in Wisconsin since 1930, outlined half a dozen broad objectives which he said were elementary to the sound conduct of the state service.

"We must spend the taxpayers' dollars with as much care as we would spend our own dollars," Heil said. "We must not tolerate useless duplication of services. We must wipe out every state activity that is not productively serving an actual need of the people, no matter whose toes are stepped on in the process. We must find ways and means of safeguarding the state service against manipulation for personal and political purposes.

State Service in Turmoil.

"Let me remind you that there was a special session of the legislature in 1937 which violated every principle of representative government, as we have known it, and jammed through by blackjack methods and gag rule tactics a drastic rearrangement of the government which since has left the state service in turmoil. There is much to indicate that this rearrangement, if left fully in force by this legislature, will both reduce the efficiency and raise government costs.

"I suggest, therefore, that it will be the part of wisdom to take much of the legislation off the statutes at once and return the state service to its former basis."

Slaps Lame Duck Appointments.

The new governor suggested that some headway could be made toward protecting the state service against manipulation for personal or political purposes by enacting a law prohibiting after Nov. 1 of an election year "any lame duck appointments by an outgoing governor, except to fill vacancies to keep a vital state service in efficient operation.

The Republican and Democratic coalition today organized the legislature, scoring a victory over the Progressive bloc not unlike the coalition victory in November.

Democrats joined Republicans to elect Edward J. Roethe, Fennimore Republican, as president pro tem of the senate; Lawrence R. Larsen, Democrat of Racine, as chief clerk, and Emil Hartman, Republican of Madison, as sergeant-at-arms. In the house the coalition elected Vernon W. Thomson, Republican of Richland Center, as speaker. John J. Slocum, Wausau Democrat, was elected chief clerk and Robert A. Merrill, Republican of Chippewa Falls, seargant-at-arms.

DODD, EX-ENVOY, SUED FOR $25,000 IN AUTO MISHAP

Leesburg, Va., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Sherif E. S. Adrian of Loudoun county said today he had posted on the door of former Ambassador William E. Dodd's home near Round Hill a notice of motion for judgment for $25,000 damages, returnable in court Monday. The action was filed by James Grimes, father of Glois Grimes, 5 years old, who was injured when allegedly struck by Dodd's automobile.

Dodd, former ambassador from the United States to Germany, is at liberty under $2,000 bonds for his appearance Jan. 16.

Death of Night Club Girl Under Car Called Accident

A coroner's jury found yesterday that the death of Mrs. Harry Simmons, 25 years old, 735 Junior terrace, was accidental. Under the name of Ivy Lee, she was a dice girl in a night club at 885 Rush street. Mrs. Simmons was found dead on Dec. 31 under the wheels of her automobile after it had struck a post at Stockton drive and Dickens avenue in Lincoln park.

Jury Urges Manslaughter Charge Against Motorist

A coroner's jury recommended yesterday that Francis Schimnek, 55 East 34th street, be held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. Schimnek was driving an automobile that struck and killed Adam Zyzniewski, 5803 Michigan avenue, near his home on Aug. 5. Witnesses testified that Schimnek was speeding.

CLEARS STUFFY HEAD

Helps Prevent the Development of Colds, too

NOW, it's easy to relieve head cold discomfort. Just put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril and feel the tingle as Va-tro-nol's stimulating medication reduces the swollen membranes, clears away the clogging mucus, helps to keep the sinuses from being blocked by the cold—lets you breathe again.

NEXT TIME, don't wait until your head is all stuffed up. At the first warning sneeze or sniffle, use Va-tro-nol at once—it helps to prevent many colds from developing.

Va-tro-nol is specialized medication—expressly designed for the nose and upper throat where most colds start. Used in time, it stimulates Nature's own defenses to fight off many a cold, or to throw off head colds in their early stages.

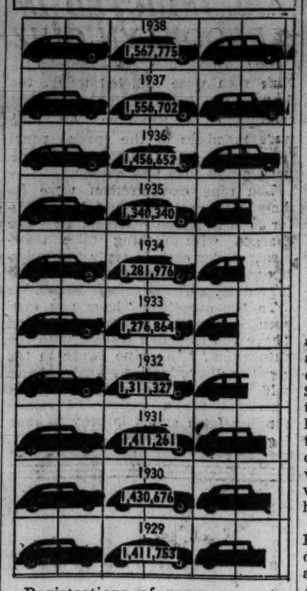
Licenses Increase



Registrations of passenger automobiles in Illinois, 1929 through 1938.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Hughes this afternoon announced that 1938 passenger car and truck registrations established a new Illinois high. Plates were sold for 1,567,775 passenger cars, compared with the best previous figure of 1,556,702 in 1937. For trucks, 222,582 sets of plates were sold, an increase of 1,943 from the 1937 total.

The secretary turned $21,152,879 into the road fund from 1938 license fee collections, compared with $20,861,021 for 1937. In addition to passenger car and truck licenses, this money included fees for 202,532 drivers' licenses, 23,396 trailers, 6,848 motorcycles, 4,199 dealers, and 88,974 chauffeurs.

INDIANA SENATE VOTES TO MAKE TEXTBOOK QUIZ

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Lieut. Gov. Henry F. Schricker left the rostrum in the state senate today and led a successful fight for a senate committee investigation of the purchase of state school textbooks.

After Paul V. McNutt became governor in January, 1933, he took over control of the letting of school book contracts, installed a state-wide purchase of textbooks, and awarded numerous contracts to his close friend and lieutenant, Paul Feltus, Bloomington publisher.

Schricker, a Democrat, declared on the senate floor: "Next to the liquor racket in Indiana, the biggest is the textbook racket."

The school book inquiry resolution was submitted by Senator O. Bruce Lane [Bainbridge, R.]. Senator E. Curtis White of Indianapolis, Democratic floor leader, tried to sidetrack it to the committee on education.

BROKER'S WIFE FOUND SHOT IN WAUSAU HOTEL

A woman identified by police as Mrs. Miles J. Hall of 2823 Simpson street, Evanston, was found near death from bullet wounds last night in her room in a hotel at Wausau, Wis. Hall, a stock broker, left for Wausau upon learning of the shooting.

Police said the woman had shot herself with a revolver found in the room. She registered at the hotel Monday as Mrs. Gladys Hall. Hall told the police his wife had recently suffered a nervous breakdown. She had been spending several days at their summer home north of Wausau before she went to the hotel. The Halls' son, Thompson, 16 years old, ran away Jan. 4. He was found at the summer home two days later.

H. W. CRANE DIES AT BELVIDERE.

Belvidere, Ill., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Henry W. Crane, 88 years old, retired carpenter, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edward H. Peters.

AN AUTO VICTIM IS MUTE WITNESS AGAINST DRIVER

Speech, Hearing Gone; Motorist Sentenced.

Benjamin Ruplankus of 3515 Lowe avenue said never a word yesterday against the other driver. Yet that other driver, Maurice Trout of 5225 South Halsted street, was sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell for reckless driving. Ruplankus' attorney told Judge Jay A. Schiller in Safety court that Ruplankus, 22 years old, was injured so severely in a collision with Trout's car that he had lost his speech and his hearing.

Other sentences: John Jones, 3115 Franklin boulevard, 90 days, reckless driving; Richard Cook, 5445 Drexel avenue, 10 days, drunken driving; Anthony Kalotek, 3223 West 104th street, 10 days, reckless driving. Judge Schiller reduced a $50 fine previously assessed against George Eddy Jr., 20, to $10 when Eddy said bad weather caused the accident on which the fine was based. Eddy lives at 1235 Ridge avenue in Evanston.

HE HAS RICHES, BUT CAN'T SEE HIS SON ALONE

Joseph Bosch has half a million dollars, but he is not allowed to see his son, Joseph Jr., 4 years old, unless the boy's mother is present. In his love for that boy rests Bosch's only hope of conquering drink, his attorney, Fred Bartlit, told Judge Robert C. O'Connell yesterday. The attorney asked Judge O'Connell not to forbid Bosch to take Joseph Jr. out alone, although the boy's mother said she feared Bosch's drinking made Joseph Jr. unsafe in his hands.

But the judge forbade Bosch to take the boy from Mrs. Elsie Bosch's home at 5555 Sheridan road unless she goes, too. Bosch, who is 44 years old, lives at 850 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Bosch is suing for divorce because of Bosch's drinking. Her attorney, Ferre C. Watkins, told the judge Bosch drinks one to two quarts of grain alcohol a day.

ARREST BROKER'S DAUGHTER; AUTO CRASHES IN CHASE

Miss Mary Louise Pierson, Lake Forest High school pupil and daughter of D. Robert Pierson, broker, will be tried before Police Magistrate Edward Burgess tonight on charges of speeding and reckless driving. She was arrested late Tuesday night by Lake Forest police. They said that when a police squad started pursuing her, Miss Pierson, who is 17 years old, turned out the lights of her father's car. Then, swinging a corner at Illinois and College roads, in Lake Forest, she lost control of the car and it crashed into a vacant house. The girl and three companions were uninjured.

ARREST AUTOIST AFTER PURSUIT; PEDESTRIAN HURT

Albert Weissman, a WPA worker, was pursued by police last night and arrested on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident after his car had injured a pedestrian at Lawrence and Sacramento avenues. Weissman, who is 62 years old, lives at 4878 Broadway. He told Policemen Charles Kuecker and Henry Laue he became excited and fled after the accident. The pedestrian was William Sakol, 35 years old, of 3737 Argyle street. He was treated and taken home.

Robert McAlmon, 46 years old, colored, of 3517 Vernon avenue, died yesterday in Provident hospital of injuries suffered when he was struck by a truck Tuesday at State and 35th streets. The driver was Harold Lentz, 2355 Fullerton avenue.

Raphael Margliano of 2920 Polk street died in Mother Cabrini hospital of injuries suffered Jan. 5 when he was struck by an automobile at Sacramento avenue and Polk street. He was 56 years old. The car was driven by Sol Hoit, 1432 South Karlov avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday forty-eight persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of this number thirty-seven were killed in Chicago, where 686 were injured in the same period.

BARE GANGSTER'S $65,000 LOAN TO 'LOTTERY KING'

Abraham F. Zimmerman, alleged lottery king, once borrowed $65,000 from the late Walter Stevens, notorious Chicago bootlegger, labor slugger, and gangster, to start a La Salle street finance company. Zimmerman so testified yesterday before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan and a jury which is trying him for the alleged evasion of $65,000 in taxes on an income of $499,000, largely derived from lotteries in 1929, 1939, and 1931.

Zimmerman said he borrowed $40,000 in 1929 and $25,000 in 1930 from T. W. Stephens. Government agents identified Stephens as Walter Stevens, the gangster, who died in 1931 at the age of 70. Arrested more than 300 times and questioned in sixteen murders, Stevens served only one short term in prison for shooting a policeman before being pardoned by former Gov. Small.

Zimmerman said he invested the borrowed money in the Empire Finance company, which he operated. It was liquidated several years ago. Zimmerman said he repaid the loan to Stevens and to Stevens' widow. Mrs. Stevens substantiated his statement in her testimony.

KELLY SPONSORS TO OPEN DOUBLE DRIVE ON MONDAY

Mayor's Ward Strength Shown at Luncheon.

BY PARKE BROWN.

There were simultaneous announcements yesterday that the two general branches of the campaign for the renomination of Mayor Kelly will go into action next Monday. They are the regular Democratic organization with headquarters in the Morrison hotel, and the All-Chicago committee, with headquarters in the Conway building.

All organization matters will be handled from the Morrison. Because of the illness of both Chairman P. A. Nash and Vice Chairman J. M. Arvey, Secretary Joseph L. Gill probably will be in charge. Activities of the All-Chicago committee, of which Col. A. A. Sprague is chairman, will follow independent lines.

Courtney to Open Soon.

State's Attorney Courtney, who is opposing Mayor Kelly for the nomination, has not set a date for the formal opening of his headquarters. They will be in the Hotel Sherman and probably will be opened next week.

The announcement that the regular organization is ready for business came in connection with a private luncheon which, while it was not intended for that purpose, produced a display of Mayor Kelly's ward strength. Six wards whose committeemen have not declared themselves for Kelly were represented by other leaders who will carry on the fight for the mayor.

These shifts, brieky described, were as follows:

Fifth ward—Committeeman Horace G. Lindheimer, candidate for city clerk on the Courtney ticket, was replaced by David Eichner.

Eighteenth ward—Committeeman Peter J. Brady of Courtney's own ward was replaced by State Senator John M. Lee.

Twenty-seventh ward—Committeeman John Touhy, who is with Courtney, was replaced by Frank J. Howe, general manager of a hosiery company.

Twenty-ninth ward—Committeeman Martin J. O'Brien, who has not declared himself, was replaced by James C. Denvir.

Thirty-third ward—Committeeman Clayton F. Smith, who has not declared himself, was replaced, at least temporarily, by Anthony C. Prusinski, chief deputy coroner.

Forty-seventh ward—Committeeman Joseph H. Donahue, who is with Courtney, was replaced by Richard Sheridan.

No Mudslinging, Says Mayor.

Mayor Kelly told the ward leaders at the luncheon, that the campaign will be free from mudslinging on his part.

Secretary Gill, who presided, announced that the subcommittee on nominations is ready to receive names proposed for city treasurer and city clerk.

The announcement from the All-Chicago committee said that on Monday a public reception will be held from 2 to 4:30 p. m. Chairman Sprague and Mayor Kelly will speak.

A list of thirty names mentioned in the announcement was headed by these: Attorney Harold V. Amberg, Edward Eagle Brown, president of the First National Bank of Chicago; Robert H. Cabell, president of Armour & Co.; Peter B. Carey, former president of the Chicago Board of Trade; William C. Cummings, president of the Drovers' National bank; John F. Cuneo, president of the Cuneo Press, Inc.; Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of Northwestern university medical school; Karl Eitel of the Bismarck hotel, Nathan Goldblatt of Goldblatt Bros., Inc., and Walter L. Gregory of the State Street council. The others also were widely known.

15 FACE ARREST IN 24TH WARD VOTE FRAUD QUIZ

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Christenson said yesterday that fifteen precinct election officers in the 24th ward would be arrested today on charges of assisting in fraudulent voting or counting at last April's primary. He did not disclose which precincts were under suspicion. The 24th ward is represented in the council by Jacob M. Arvey, who is chairman of the council's finance committee.

Twenty-five more precincts in the 1st, 20th, and 24th wards are now being investigated, Christenson announced. He said that if evidence of fraud is discovered arrests in these precincts will be made soon.

G. O. P.'S YOUNG VOTERS ENLIST BEHIND GREEN

Mayoral Candidate Tells Them His Program.

Young Republicans of Chicago began intensive campaigning for Dwight H. Green, last night, after the G. O. P. mayoral candidate addressed their organization meeting at 458 Parkside avenue.

Green presented a gavel to James P. Economos, chairman of the Cook County Young Republican organization. Economos assured him that the young men and women of the city will be increasingly active in his campaign.

"Many of you are first voters," Green told the young people. "All of you are comparative newcomers, just as I am, to the field of politics. From your ranks will come the leaders of tomorrow. From your ranks must come the men and women who will bring our city and our country back to soundness in government.

Job for Young People.

"Your fathers and your mothers, your grandfathers and your grandmothers, and their fathers and mothers, for generations have done a magnificent job of building America. The work must be carried on. Rehabilitation of the wreckage left by years of depression and years of unbusinesslike government, must be carried on in Chicago. I repeat—this will be a job for young men and young women. I repeat, also, that it be will be work.

"The founders of the Republican party and the men who directed its course through many generations did not elevate it to its high place in American history by sitting idle. They worked.

"My generation and your generation face the task of putting all districts of Chicago on an equal basis. We face the task of taking politics out of the school system. That is more than a task. It is a solemn duty. We owe it to the generations which will follow ours.

Wants Tax Rate Cut.

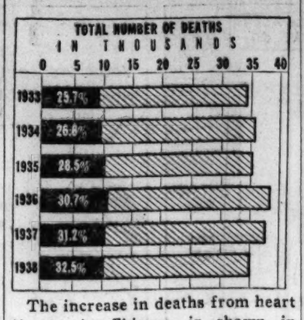
"We face the task of ending waste and extravagance in government and of thus bringing about a lower rate of taxation. The tax rate has been climbing and climbing. We of this generation must pass to the new generation, not a bigger tax burden, but one which has been reduced to a size that that generation can handle.

"Our generation can make many contributions to Chicago. We can and will build it to greater strength and to greater prominence than it has ever held before."

Tonight Green will discuss taxation and the schools before an audience in State's Attorney Courtney's home ward—the 18th. He will address voters at a meeting in Carpenters' hall, 6414 South Halsted street, called by the Republican ward commmitteeman, George M. Fisher.

Yesterday afternoon Green took a holiday from campaigning and was host to 175 war veterans from Hines hospital at the Shrine Winter Circus in the International amphitheater.

Heart Deaths



The increase in deaths from heart disease in Chicago is shown in chart. Number of deaths from all causes, with the number and percentage of heart disease deaths (black portion of bars) for each year, 1933 through 1938, is depicted.

Heart disease caused nearly one-third of all deaths in Chicago during 1938, the Chicago Heart association reported yesterday. Of approximately 35,000 deaths in the city from all causes, 11,381, or 32.5 per cent, were due to heart ailments.

This was the highest percentage registered in the last six years. A decline in the number of heart disease deaths did not keep pace with a drop in the general death rate.

In its efforts to educate the public to the dangers of the disease, the association is supported chiefly by the annual sale of Valentine stamps. This year's sale opened last week and will continue through Valentine day, Feb. 14. The association offices are at 203 North Wabash avenue.

WOMAN TO HEAD JAMES CABINET IN PENNSYLVANIA

New Administration Will Take Office Tuesday.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—For the first time in the history of Pennsylvania a woman was appointed secretary of the commonwealth today. That top position in the cabinet of Republican Governor Elect Arthur H. James went to Miss S. M. R. O'Hara, former deputy attorney general. James will take office next Tuesday.

The post, officially called the department of state, has much to do with corporations in issuing charters and keeping records. The bureau of elections also is part of the department.

The secretary's duties will bring her into close contact with the governor, as nearly all transactions of the chief executive pass through that office. In the past the post often has gone to the state party chairman. The secretary also is a member of the board of pardons.

Lawyer for 25 Years.

Miss O'Hara, white haired and a resident of Wilkes-Barre, has practiced law for twenty-five years and has been active in Republican women's organizations for some time. She was deputy attorney general for eight years in the administrations of Govs. John S. Fisher and Gifford Pinchot.

Although Miss O'Hara is the first of her sex to hold the high position, she is not the first woman to serve in a Pennsylvania governor's cabinet. The present state secretary of health is a woman, Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter, who was appointed by the outgoing Gov. George H. Earle.

James has filled ten places in his cabinet. Four remain to be filled. It is expected all of Miss O'Hara's co-cabinet officers will be men.

Retains Job on Bench.

Speculation increased today as to how and when James will resign his Superior court judgeship. It has been said he will hold the post until an hour before his inauguration.

Observers wondered whether he would quit in time to let Gov. George H. Earle, a Democrat, appoint his successor to the $18,000 bench job, or if he would be able to retain it until virtually the last minute and select his own successor.

Some lawyers maintain James would not have to quit the bench, that his judicial seat would automatically be vacated by his succession to the governorship. James ignored Democratic demands that he quit the bench during his campaign, and has kept his plans secret.

[ADVERTISMENT]
MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.
Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

VOTE TO INDICT HEINTZ LAWYERS IN ROBBERY CASE

Balky Woman Witness Is Jailed for Contempt.

The strange case of Hubert Heintz, son of a wealthy Winnetka broker, who tried to escape identification as a robber by dyeing his hair, brought two developments yesterday.

Two former assistant district attorneys, who were retained to defend Heintz, were reported named by the grand jury in true bills charging them with conspiracy to obstruct justice and being accessories after the fact of robbery. They are Francis J. Kennedy and Edward Albert Fisher.

Meanwhile, Miss Christine Conzo, 28 years old, 21 South Menard avenue, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail for contempt of court for refusing to testify. It is alleged that Miss Conzo purchased the hair dye used by Heintz, at the direction of Attorney Kennedy.

Balks Before Grand Jury.

Miss Conzo appeared in the Criminal court before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley at the direction of Assistant State's Attorney Morris G. Myers. She refused to go before the grand jury on the ground that her answers might be incriminating. Judge McKinley ruled that the question of whether or not she knew Kennedy could not possibly infringe on her constitutional rights.

Members of the jury congratulated Lieut. Kyran Phelan, whose persistence resulted in the eventual solution of the case.

Heintz, who is 30 years old, was arrested for the robbery of the Household Finance corporation, 3150 Lincoln avenue, on Nov. 4, in which $62.50 was taken. Witnesses who viewed him seventeen days later said Heintz resembled the robber in every respect, except for his hair, which is now blond, and a mustache.

Heintz was freed in Police court. Lieut. Phelan, nowever, continued the investigation. He was convinced Heintz was guilty, particularly after he found witnesses who said Heintz formerly had dark hair.

After he fled to Virginia Beach, Va., with his wife, Josephine, Heintz was surrendered by his father, Philip Heintz, member of a loop brokerage firm. The younger Heintz confessed and was indicted.

The father said young Heintz's hair disguise was arranged by Attorney Kennedy. Later, the father said, Kennedy's associate, Fisher, tried to obtain a larger fee after he had paid $2,300.

PEACE PLAN ENDS TRUCK DRIVERS' STRIKE IN BOSTON

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11.—[Special.] A compromise proposal today ended a strike of 5,000 greater Boston truck drivers which was marked by the death of a truck helper and had paralyzed many of the city's terminals for a week.

The proposal was accepted by an overwhelming vote of acclamation after Gov. Leverett Saltonstall appeared personally before a meeting of 1,500 strikers and advised them to halt the strike in the interest of the commonwealth.

The compromise agreement failed to give the strikers their demand of $40 for a 40 hour week, but included concessions from employers. The wage scale agreed upon kept the workers on a 48 hour week, but gave them $39 for this period, with overtime allowances. They received $37 for similar work under the old contract.

RULE OVER AUTO WORKERS' PAPER LOST BY MARTIN

Hostile Board Delays Convention Call.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The influence of Homer Martin in the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers of America, of which he is president, was curtailed today by a hostile executive board which removed him from the editorship of the union's weekly newspaper.

By resolution, the board set up a publications committee to supervise all material published in the U. A. W. paper. The move is one of a series of setbacks given to Martin since he started a purge of communists from the union membership.

The executive board of twenty-four members, with Martin, also includes Richard T. Frankensteen, Ed Hall, Wyndham Mortimer, and Walter N. Wells, vice presidents, and George F. Addes, treasurer, all of whom Martin ousted last summer on the charge that they were communists or sympathizers. Several others since have been accused of the same charge. The five were reinstated a few months ago.

Threatened with Ouster.

The young president, who has been the target of attacks and threatened with ouster, now is involved in another policy row which has brought the official family of the U. A. W. near the breaking point.

Martin yesterday requested a convention show down and challenged his foes on the international executive board to submit all union offices to the vote of representatives of the union membership. He pledged himself to accept the verdict of such a vote.

The executive board indicated some favor for Martin's request that a special convention be held in Detroit not later than March 1 to end once and for all the union's squabbles, but withheld actual approval.

Expect Early Agreement.

The board admitted that certain questions are best settled by such a convention and added that agreement should not be hard to reach on the proper time for a meeting.

Disregarding the risk of offending John L. Lewis, Martin demanded dissolution of the U. A. W.-C. I. O. coordinating committee which was created to settle the fight over Martin's removal of the five officials of the executive board.

Martin charged that the committee failed to end the union's factional war and deprived it of autonomy.

APPEALS JUDGE'S DISSENT UPHOLDS OUTSIDE PICKETS

It is not illegal for an outside union to picket a business where there is no dispute between the owner and his employés, Associate Justice John M. O'Connor of the Illinois Appellate court said in a dissenting opinion filed yesterday. The court Tuesday denied a rehearing of a case in which it had restrained such picketing.

Justice O'Connor, in disagreeing with the two other justices of the court, held that the Illinois 1925 anti-injunction law is not limited to disputes between employer and employés. The 1925 act limits the injunction powers of the courts in labor cases.

The case before the court involved the picketing of a beauty shop at 5558 North avenue by the Hairdressers' and Cosmeticians' union. The Appellate court restrained the union from picketing the establishment because there was no dispute between the owner and his employés. The case is now on the way to the state Supreme court.

Justice Brandeis' Condition Is 'Entirely Satisfactory'

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—(AP)—The condition of Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis, who is suffering from the grippe, was reported today to be "entirely satisfactory." He was taken ill late last week.

LABOR EXAMINER MAKES REPORT IN HEARST CASE

Henry W. Schmidt, trial examiner for the National Labor Relations board, yesterday filed an intermediate report in the case brought against the Hearst newspapers in Chicago by the C. I. O. Chicago Newspaper guild.

The report recommended that management of the newspapers be required to cease interference, in violation of the Wagner act, with union activities of employés. He recommended dismissal of complaints that two employés, Harry C. Read and Harold Sullivan, had been fired for union activity, but recommended reinstatement with back pay of a third employé, Howard L. Mayhew.

Examiner Schmidt held that all three unions active in the newspapers' editorial and commercial departments are labor organizations within the meaning of the Wagner act, which prohibits company unions. These are two American Federation of Labor locals, Newspaper Commercial Associates and the Chicago Editorial association, and the C. I. O. guild. He recommended that the board sustain the charge that the management had discriminated against the guild in favor of the commercial union, but recommended dismissal of a similar charge of discrimination in favor of the A. F. of L. editorial union.

The report now goes to the board at Washington. Before the board acts on it all parties to the case may file exceptions to it, supported by written briefs and oral arguments if necessary.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

"HISTORY IN THE MAKING"

GO OVER SCHOOL BUDGET AT LONG PUBLIC HEARING

Civic Leader Praises It; Warns of Increases.

The 1939 Chicago school budget, calling for appropriations of $80,715,553, was submitted to public discussion yesterday at a hearing before the board of education. For more than five hours, forty-one representatives of thirty-six civic organizations and groups voiced praise and criticism of the budget and offered recommendations.

Bertram J. Cahn.

The 400 persons who crowded the hearing room listened attentively as Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, read an analysis which called the budget the most satisfactory prepared in recent years.

Praises Budget Form.

The present form of the budget is clear and understandable, said Cahn, adding that the manner in which all funds, assets and expenditures are explained is a vast improvement over past practices. However, he deplored the anticipated increase of $1,700,536 in the educational fund and the possibility that it might be driven $6,773,000 higher by restoration of pay cuts.

"It is unthinkable that any such possibility should be considered under present economic and industrial conditions," he said. "We must seriously consider the danger of getting back into the sad condition of payless paydays as the direct result of imposing higher taxes than can generally be paid."

Cahn then urged that the budget be reëxamined and that all items not vitally necessary be taken out. In this connection he urged that the board slow up on its Public Works administration building program, to reduce the building fund levy.

Group General Remarks.

Other recommendations and complaints were grouped into seven general classifications. Speakers were heard in turn, each having given a summary of what he would discuss. Board members replied to some of them. The remarks were classified as follows:

1. Full restoration of teachers' pay—which is 7½ per cent below the basic rate—was urged by many of the speakers. [James B. McCahey, president of the board, has found that this would cost 4 million dollars.]

Some of the speakers agreed with Cahn that a slowing of the PWA building program would cut expenses. They urged that this saving be applied on salaries.

McCahey replied that there is great need for more and better buildings in the school system. "We can get those buildings now through PWA at 55 cents on the dollar," he said.

Ask Ten Month Term.

2. There was strong sentiment for restoring the ten month school term which has been cut to nine and a half months for economy. [This would cost $2,775,000 additional, according to McCahey.]

3. Restoration of four major subjects as the average program for high school pupils also was advocated. [The number was cut to three by Superintendent William H. Johnson, who said that four were too many for most children. Last fall he announced that the new plan had increased high school enrollment—that fewer children were dropping out—and that pupils able to carry four major subjects would be allowed to do so.]

4. Wider use of school buildings for social and neighborhood affairs in certain communities was vigorously urged. The board now is allowing use of certain high schools for dances one night a week. This policy was praised, but the speakers were insistent it should be broadened.

Criticize Sanitary Conditions.

5. Criticism of sanitary conditions at certain schools was stressed by speakers for Parent-Teacher groups. No soap or towels are supplied, they pointed out. [The cost of soap and towels would be prohibitive, according to McCahey.]

6. Complaints of overcrowded conditions in certain schools and the need for new buildings in various neighborhoods were noted by board members.

7. Vigorous protest was made by George A. Patterson, representing the Steel Workers' Organizing committee of the Congress for Industrial Organization, that the South Side Trade school which is to be built this year at 87th street and Chappel avenue is designed to be a source of cheap labor for the steel industry.

Defends Trade School.

Bernard L. Majewski, member of the board, replied that the school is to be for children who need to learn trades, and not for the board, or the steel industry. He referred to the C. I. O. as communistic and was booed.

When the five hour hearing ended, McCahey announced that the budget would be put into final shape by Jan. 24. It will be presented to the state legislature with a request for a pegged levy.

In Marital Suits

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Earl M. Weymer (left) and his wife, Ann, principals in marital suits, as they appeared in hallway near courtroom yesterday. They did not meet, however.

TELLS A WIFE'S REASONS: CASH AND NEW LOVE

Lawyer Testifies for Earl Weymer.

When Ann Weymer left her husband, Earl, last June, it was because of money. She wanted more. But when she left him in late November, and filed suit for separate maintenance, it was because of "some one else."

This was the testimony yesterday of William L. Bourland, business attorney for Weymer, before Judge Philip J. Finnegan. Mrs. Weymer, 27 years old, is charging nonsupport and cruelty, while Weymer, whom she divorced in March, 1938, and remarried last January, has filed a crossbill for divorce charging adultery and cruelty. He is 50, and head of an ornamental iron construction company.

Wife Sets Five Terms.

Bourland, questioned by Benjamin H. Ehrlich, who succeeded him a month ago as Weymer's counsel in the suit, said Mrs. Weymer first came to him June 28. She had left Weymer twelve days earlier.

She would go back, she said, on five conditions. She wanted charge accounts in the leading department stores. She wanted $50 a week spending money instead of $25. She wanted a membership in the Chicago Athletic club, membership in a golf club and a home in the suburbs.

"And I said," Bourland testified, wagging his silver head, "Well, I think you kids are foolish! You should go back and try to get along."

Weymer acceded to one request, the athletic club ladies' card, and she returned to his home. On Nov. 8, however, she went to see Bourland again. Weymer, she told Bourland, had stopped her allowance. She was obliged to pilfer anything she could find from his pockets.

Stays Out All Night.

"Weymer said it was because she had been staying out all night," Bourland testified, "so I asked her if it were true. She replied, 'Yes, with a couple of girl friends.'

"I said, 'Ann, you shouldn't do that. No husband is going to believe you weren't out with a man. Do you want a divorce?'"

Mrs. Weymer, he said, replied: "Yes, I do, but it will cost him plenty before I get one."

"So I said," he continued, with a glance at Mrs. Weymer, demure in black caracul, black and white turban and pale lips, "Ann, what is the real trouble? Is there some one else?"

Her reply, he said, was "Yes."

Bourland said he advised Weymer a dozen times "to get rid of her," that he was "a fool to take her back." But Weymer's reply, he said, was that he was hopelessly infatuated. Mrs. Weymer is his fourth wife.

Tennessean Is Executed for Dynamite Deaths of 3

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 11.—(AP)—White Miller Tollett, 28 years old, was executed today for the dynamite deaths of three little girls. Tollett was convicted with three other persons of dynamiting the home of Harmon Gouge near Elizabethton, Tenn., last January. Gouge's three children, Sonia, 9 years old; Luena, 7, and Roma Jean, 5, were killed. The prosecution charged the plot was an effort to kill Gouge, who had admitted he shot Tollett's brothers to death.

How hard do you work your secretary? Instead . . give her an EDIPHONE

Edwin C. Barnes

Is your secretary dog-tired at evening? Does she work furiously on her typewriter the final two hours of the day? Does she frequently finish up tomorrow? Why ask her to do her work twice—in shorthand and on the typewriter? An EDIPHONE, at your elbow, would take all you can talk, all day long; would repeat clearly to your secretary, while she types; would save her time, hours of it; would give her chance to be a real secretary.

The EDIPHONE is as easy to use as your telephone

GREAT

"My husband, the children and I depend on REM for cough relief. I think that it's great!"

Mrs. Clarence J. Hertzog
8555 American Ave., Detroit

Sure!

So many families emphasize that word "depend." They've found REM a cough medicine they can rely on . . . for every member of the family. There are definite reasons why REM is so very effective:

(1) REM is made specifically for coughs resulting from colds.

(2) REM is a real cough medicine, not just a "tickle stopper."

(3) REM is thorough, because it works two ways . . . not only in the throat, but also systemically. That's what makes it so very much more effective.

So if you have a cough resulting from a cold, don't fool around with it! Go after it with a real cough medicine like REM.

HOW TO AVOID BALDNESS

Watch these danger zones

DEFINITE warning signals always precede baldness. When your scalp itches or is laden with dandruff, and when your hair falls abnormally in the "danger zones" (forehead and crown) you are being warned that baldness is approaching. You must act at once if you wish to avoid baldness.

Do what a quarter-million other men have done — consult Thomas. Thomas treatment is proved by almost two decades of success — is reliable, dignified, and inexpensive. It ends dandruff, stops abnormal hair loss, and promotes hair growth on the thin and bald spots. Call today for a complete scalp examination. No charge is made for the examination nor for consultation and if you do not come within the scope of Thomas treatment you will be promptly told.

TO EASE SORE THROAT

Accompanying Colds Try the Simple Way Shown in Pictures

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If Throat is sore from cold, dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in ⅓ glass of water and gargle.

3. If temperature does not go down—If throat pain is not quickly relieved—Call your family doctor.

Relief from Painful Discomfort Usually Comes in Minutes—Make Sure You Get Genuine Bayer Aspirin

HERE is a bit of sensible advice on what to do to relieve the symptoms of a cold the moment you feel a cold coming on.

Just follow the pictured directions above: Take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a full glass of water — instantly. Next — dissolve three Bayer Aspirin tablets in one-third of a glass of water and gargle with this mixture twice. Do this at once to relieve the pain, rawness and symptoms of sore throat accompanying colds almost immediately. THEN — because any cold can lead to serious consequences . . . SEE YOUR DOCTOR. He will tell you what treatment to follow.

In all probability, he will tell you to continue with the Bayer Aspirin because it acts to relieve the painful discomforts of a cold with remarkable speed. And because it acts to reduce fever.

This simple treatment has largely supplanted the use of strong medicines in the treatment of cold symptoms. And thousands will tell you it is the simplest and most effective method yet discovered.

When you buy, always ask for "BAYER ASPIRIN" by its full name — never ask for "aspirin" alone. Take this precaution to be sure you get the genuine Bayer.

PAINS—Fast-acting Bayer Tablets are used by millions on doctors' advice for fast relief of Headache — pain from Rheumatism, Neuritis, Neuralgia.

HEY, GUYS! LAMP THE GENT WID A SUIT LIKE GOLD

Designers Say It's Fresh from Hollywood.

Maybe you'll see him Saturday night and be considerably puzzled, if not downright alarmed: a good looking young man, apparently normal, wearing a gold-hued suit coat, black trousers with a gold stripe, a gold shirt and tie, a gold hat and socks of gold.

If you do see him, pretend not to notice, because he'll probably be just as embarrassed as you are surprised. He'll be on his way to the showing of new men's styles in the La Salle hotel, where the International Association of Clothing Designers is holding its fifty-eighth semi-annual convention.

Dullness on Way Out.

Ordinary people, the designers admit dejectedly, are not going to wear such an outfit in its entirety, for ordinary, or even extraordinary, occasions. But the gold-colored suit and accessories are to be seen in Florida and on the west coast, they say. The whole thing means that color will be in this year and dullness out.

Michael E. Thomas, president of the Chicago Club of Clothing Designers, and Robert Stanton, a committee head, declare that the trend in suits is toward streamlining intended to make even the slenderest man look powerful. Shoulders will be broad, coats long, and trousers full in the thighs and knees, but narrow at the bottom. The trousers may bring back faint memories of the old peg-top ones your grandfather or your father wore.

The influence of movie stars and Santa Anita can be seen in the fact that gold, all shades of green, and pastel shades will be popular, especially in sport wear. If you want to wear a LOUD sports coat, with black and green hound's tooth checks, and trousers that are yellow indeed, that will be all right.

The Dress Cape Influence.

Evening clothes [and did you know that probably not more than one-tenth of one per cent of the men in the United States own them?] will be longer and of softer material, with wide shoulders. The up to the minute topcoats to wear with them will have raglan shoulders, short peak lapels, slash pockets and a breast pocket. They lean, definitly, toward a dress cape, Mr. Thomas says.

REFEREE DAVE MILLER TO FACE COURT TODAY ON GUN TOTING CHARGE

Dave Miller.

Dave Miller, the boxing referee, is scheduled to appear in State street police court this morning on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Police said they arrested him at Chicago and Milwaukee avenues early yesterday in a car without taillights. Between the two front seats they found a loaded .38 caliber revolver. Miller, who lives at 540 Briar place, was accompanied by Jack Feingold, 3052 Logan boulevard. Both were released on bond.

FAMILIES OF TWO SLAIN IN TAVERNS GRANTED AWARDS

Juries in the Circuit court ordered yesterday that damages be paid to the relatives of two men who lost their lives in tavern brawls. The suits were filed under the Illinois dram shop law and the owners and landlords of the taverns were defendants.

In the first case, tried before Judge George Bristow of Paris, Mrs. Nora Zaharek was awarded $2,000 and her son, Richard, $500. Theodore Zaharek, her former husband, was killed July 30, 1937, when he was shot in Steven Procop's place at 1559 Milwaukee avenue. Mrs. Zaharek had been granted a divorce a week before his death, but claimed damages because she had an alimony agreement for herself and her son. She lives now in Madison, Wis.

Before Judge Michael Feinberg a jury returned a verdict giving Mrs. Clara Vasconcellos, 7530 South Sangamon avenue, $6,300 from Anton Cukur; his wife, Veronica, and his brother, Vincent, operators of a saloon at 732 Cermak road. Her husband, James, was injured fatally Sept. 2, 1938, in a fight in the Cukur place.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

John Kuhnle, 70 years old, died yesterday of a heart attack in his home at 400 West 60th place.

STRAWBERRY POINT'S HORSE THIEF SLEUTHS DECIDE TO CARRY ON

Strawberry Point, Ia., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The Strawberry Point Horse Thief Detective association, one of the oldest organizations of its kind still active in the middle west, entered its 73d year today. At the annual meeting here the 48 members decided to continue the organization, formed in 1866. New officers and riders were named for 1939. Recently the constitution was changed to include chicken thefts.

Catch Two Movie Struck Girl Runaways in Omaha

Two Chicago school girls with tickets to Hollywood found that their journey stopped at Omaha last night. They were taken from a bus there at the request of Chicago police. The girls are Camille Granato, 15 years old, of 3232 Jackson boulevard, and Mary Amadeo, 18, of 3343 Harrison street. Their parents had reported them missing. Omaha authorities reported that Camille had $249.

TERRORIZE 6; TAKE $500.

Three masked robbers terrorized two women and four men with guns, then took $500 yesterday at the Wimp Packing company, 1127 West 47th place.

INDICT PAROLEE FOR THEFT THAT MAY JAIL SON

Frank Welch, 41 years old, an Illinois parole violator who was trapped through the fake arrest of his son, was indicted yesterday on three charges. They are larceny by embezzlement, confidence game, and obtaining money under false pretenses.

Welch's son, Robert, and a friend, James Kehoe, both 18, were tried for burglary in December, 1937. Kehoe's father, Lawrence J. Kehoe, 724 Englewood avenue, produced $56, which the victim agreed to accept as restitution in lieu of prosecution. It was given to the elder Welch, who had made the arrangements, to be turned over to the victim.

Welch fled with the money. The boys were put on probation with the provision that Robert Welch must inform police if he learned of his father's whereabouts. A few weeks ago Parole Agent Edward Connors suspected Welch had returned to the family home at 1449 West 72d place. When he couldn't find him, he arranged the arrest of the boy on New Year's eve. The father called the Woodlawn station and the call was traced.

Now a warant has been issued for young Welch as a violator of probation because he didn't keep faith with the court.

Mystery Bomb Damages Basement Door of Church

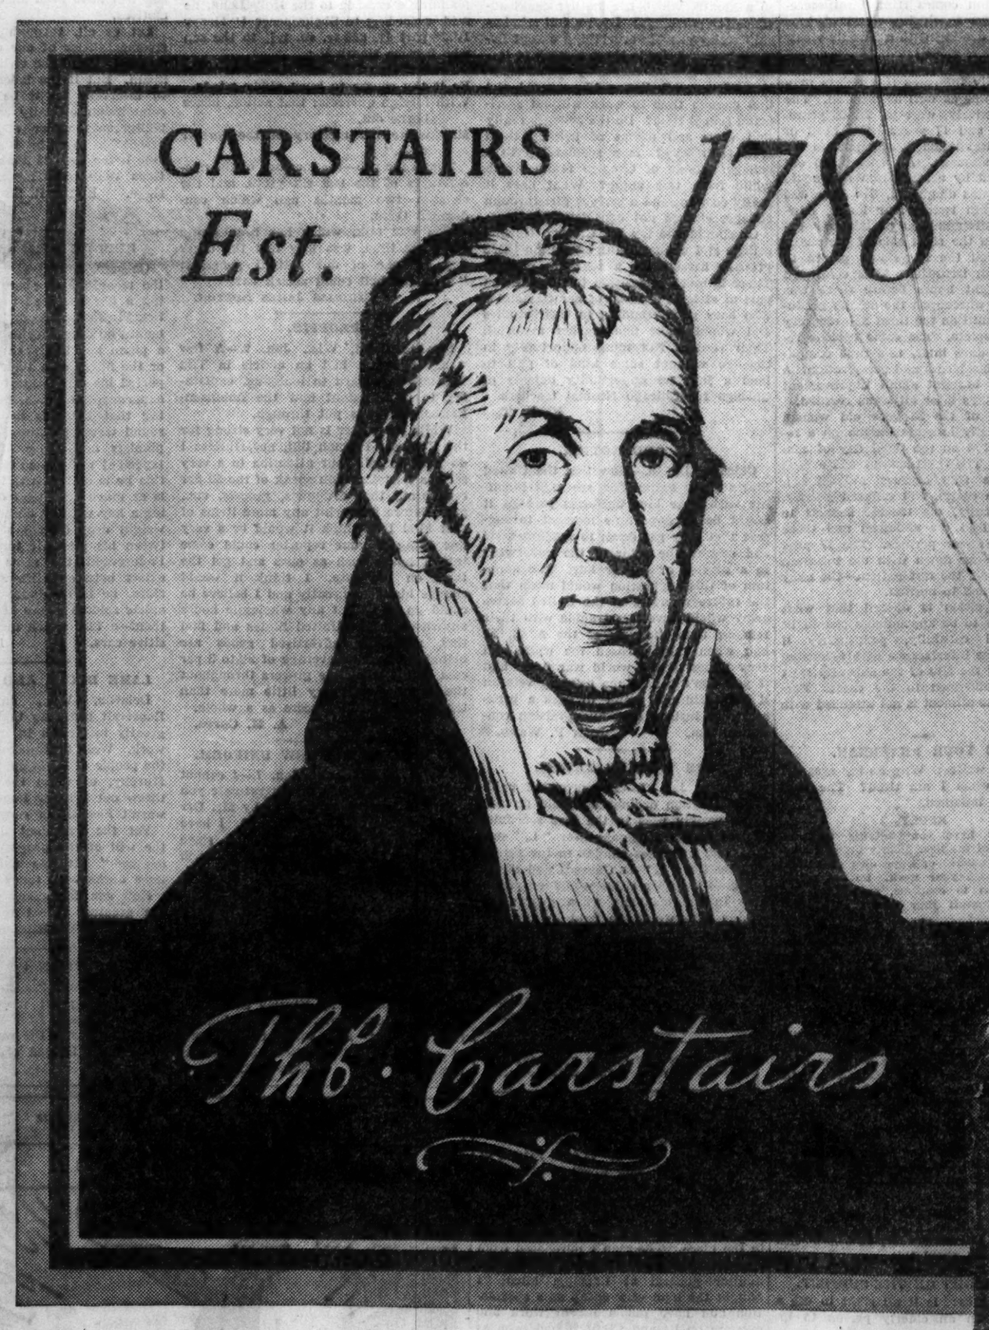
A black powder bomb exploding against a nearby shed damaged the basement door yesterday at the Church of the Redeemer, 200 South Sacramento boulevard. The shed is at the rear of a house at 144 South Sacramento boulevard occupied by two families. They could offer no explanation, nor could the Rev. Ralph A. Mautone, pastor of the church.

CARSTAIRS
created for "The Man who Cares"

WHO IS "THE MAN WHO CARES"? Well, take your friend Ed Stafford,* for example. You like to go to his house, for you know you will be well entertained. His cigars may not be the most expensive, but they will be good. His silverware may not be ornate, but it will be in excellent taste.

Whatever Ed serves in meat or drink you will enjoy with confidence and relish. You can't remember ever having had indigestion after a meal at Ed's.

Stafford is not a rich man, as you know. But he has found it is both pleasant and profitable to seek, within his means, the better things of living. It helps him in the opinion of others. And, what's more, it helps him in his own good opinion of himself. Stafford is a "man who cares".



Thomas Carstairs, so goes the family tradition, was a distinguished architect in Colonial days; a man of high attainments, and a gracious host, he became the friend of Washington, Jefferson and other notables; in 1788, Carstairs' talent for hospitality led him to open an establishment in Philadelphia, for purveying spirituous liquors to "men who cared".

Since Thomas Carstairs' time his heirs and successors, for generations, have carried on his high traditions.

The Carstairs Whiskey at your neighborhood store or favorite bar today keeps faith with the time-honored Carstairs standards. A superbly balanced blend of fine whiskies, every one of them 4 or more years old. Carstairs is rich and full in flavor; yet exceptionally light in body. You may drink or serve it always with confidence and relish.

Carstairs is 86.8 proof. It is a blend of several fine whiskies, every drop 4 or more years old. The straight whiskies in this product are four years or more old. 57½% straight whiskey and 42½% other whiskey four years or more old. Carstairs Bros. Distilling Co., Inc., New York City, N. Y.

*The name "Ed Stafford" is not intended to refer to any specific individual; but merely to a type; the type of "man who cares".

DRUMMING UP THE NEXT WAR.

Ambassadors Bullitt and Kennedy, our diplomatic agents in France and Great Britain, entertained the house and senate military affairs committees, meeting in secret joint session, with the war alarms which of late have been sounded in the White House. Information which leaked under the closed doors was that the two ambassadors thought war was next to inevitable and that the United States could hardly expect to keep out of it if it were anything more than a brusque attack quickly ended.

Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Bullitt apparently told the congressmen that Hitler and Mussolini are almost invincible and that, knowing their strength, would stop at nothing to make their wildest dreams of aggression come true.

Mr. Roosevelt has made it plain enough that he intends to base his 1939 program upon a war scare and use it to justify an increase in federal spending, to defeat retrenchment, to add greatly to the national debt, and to stop his critics and his opponents by enlarging upon the national dangers. Whatever the jeopardy of European countries may be, a common sense view of America's situation would tell us that the preoccupations of the war lords not only in Europe but in Asia are such that they will leave America alone if America will just give them the chance to do so. If the United States wants to keep out of war until it is given an unavoidable cause for one, this would seem to be the time when neutrality would be easy to maintain. Neutrality, however, is not a political asset for the White House in the year 1939. Our own domestic affairs should be predominant in the United States, and even if there were a substantial and visible menace to American security, a thoughtful and prudent government would want to get American economy and finance in good shape as a first step in turning a formidable front to whatever enemy.

The present administration, however, has no use for the neutrality of which so much was heard a year or so ago, but seeks to offer affront to every nation with which it can find the makings of a quarrel. Consequently in Japan, in Germany, and in Italy the tone is rising and the animosities which can be so easily manipulated by the dictators are being created. If this procedure should be successful here the New Deal politicians might be justified in thinking that they had the critical period of their program bridged over and that they would not be called to an accounting. Reports from the meeting of the military affairs committees indicate that the congressmen are skeptical and doubt the good faith of the effort to divert the nation's attention and prevent the correction of evils here.

SOVIET JUSTICE.

Soviet justice made a contribution to the holiday jollity by convicting and executing a batch of comrades accused of framing charges against innocent persons. The accused were operatives of the NKVD, the new name for the commissariat of internal affairs, which in turn is a name for the secret police, the old GPU. The agents were found guilty of extorting confessions of counterrevolutionary activities from innocent people.

In accordance with customary Russian judicial procedure the accused confessed that they extorted the confessions and the death sentence followed upon this evidence. The guilty operatives, if guilty, may have had a moment in which even they thought the episode was funny, because for the last three or four years the principal judicial activity in the soviet republics, so-called, has been the framing of Russian politicos whom Stalin regarded as potentially dangerous rivals.

The Georgian dictator himself set the example of dealing with personal opponents and the operatives who have been executed were only following the official formula if they were using their police authority to dispose of people they didn't like.

Furthermore, if there are to be secret police there necessarily must be counterrevolutionaries so that the great numbers of provocateurs can keep their jobs. There is, of course, the other incentive of blackmail and extortion. No one in communist Russia is safe if the secret police or their stool pigeons wish to bring charges. Innocence has never been a protection and the confession of guilt is easily obtainable because it represents the outside chance the victim has of escaping the death penalty.

If the confession pleases the prosecutor and the police the accused may get off with ten years' imprisonment or so. For that reason every accused person who appears before a Russian court is guilty and has said so before he confronts his judges. It is an insignificant fact that the rules of Russian judicial procedure stipulate that a confession unsupported by corroborative evidence is insufficient for conviction. The prosecutor never tries to get any corroborative evidence.

Another curious development in soviet justice is reported by Donald Day, who learns that the soviet criminal code is being revised, ostensibly to permit fair trials. The comment in soviet circles upon this change is almost a give-away because it is virtually admitted that the notorious state trials by which Stalin judicially assassinated the founders of the soviet union were frame-ups in which no consideration was given to the question of innocence or guilt. The convictions and executions were political, as is apparent from any reading of the transcripts. Defense attorneys were merely assistant prosecutors whose participation in the judicial ceremony was only to make the case of the accused more hopeless.

The soviet announcement now is that hereafter convictions must be based upon evidence, that defense lawyers must undertake to defend the accused, and that the accused are not to be convicted because they represent certain types of people. The announced reform will be received with due incredulity, but nevertheless it does reveal that soviet justice feels it has been too careless in the frankness with which it used judicial procedure for political assassination.

THE AIRPORT EXPANSION.

The way is now said to be clear for another step in the enlargement of the Chicago airport. the Illinois commerce commission having approved the city ordinance providing for the removal of the C. & W. I. tracks now cutting the landing area in half. The C. & W. I. has sixty days to accept or reject the ordinance, but as its representatives coöperated with the council airport committee in formulating the ordinance and the railroad trustees have already signified their assent to its terms it may be expected that acceptance will be prompt. Certainly the community will appreciate any promptness which can be introduced into proceedings which have dragged along in irritating contrast to the celerity that marks the development of air transport wherever and whenever the industry has been free to exercise its own splendid initiative and energy. The need for the enlargement of this airport has been and is urgent and every day counts.

The next stage of the process is acquiring the land for the new track and switching system, and it is said 90 per cent of the present owners are willing to sell at a fair price. The other 10 per cent may have to be dealt with in condemnation, which it is hoped will be pushed energetically. It is estimated at least six months will be taken in completing these transactions. It may take less if the property owners concerned will consider the interest of the community in getting the airport enlarged as soon as possible, which in the long run, and not a very long run at that, is their own interest. Public spirit among these citizens and energetic action by the authorities will cut the time substantially. The authorities representing the public interests have seemed to be suffering from hookworm and we hope the affliction will not continue through the final stages of the project.

BACK FROM LIMA.

Mr. Hull is back from Lima and he says it was a grand and helpful conference. He returns with "the conviction that its results will be of real and permanent value." That is to be his story, even if it overlooks some conditions which superficially as they meet the eye were not all that the altruist could wish. The American delegation did not have the best of times in Lima, but is willing to forget a great deal, and probably wisely so. If reports are true Peru was not everything a guest might reasonably expect of a host. It is said that the secret police were entirely too much interested in the movements and even the baggage of the American delegates. The censorship of reports from this gathering of good neighbors could hardly be ignored, even by the best disposed guest.

The principal demonstrating was by the Germans, Italians, and Japanese; the greatest display of flags was of the Nazi swastika, and the rudest outfits were the German and Italian correspondents. It is apparently the Fascist idea that to seem powerful one must be disagreeable and that the way to command the respect of the other fellow is to push him off the sidewalk. Naturally the Latin-American countries, both for their self-interest and the gratification of their pride, are not unwilling that a number of the great powers of the world should be so solicitous for their good opinion and their coöperation. It has been observed by one of the returning travelers that, although the Nazis seemed to be making the greatest display and disturbance, they were with their customary ineptitude overdoing it and giving offense to people who are punctilious on many points which escape Nazi appreciation. The communists are craftier and getting further.

The United States apparently must keep up a smiling front among the good neighbors because it cannot entirely be written out of the probabilities that some Latin-American dictator, for his own advancement and to assert his complete independence in a moment of pique or pride, may make a very disturbing alliance with some Fascist state and he might do it just for the hell he would raise. In the end the course taken by the South American countries will be dictated by what they think are their interests and, if these are intelligent and enlightened self-interests, that is as much as the United States can expect. It wouldn't be to the long run good of any considerable South American country to tie itself up with a foreign dictator who, if he found the opportunity, would be very little patient with any obstruction to his will or deviation from his demands.

UNITED STATES LYNCHINGS IN 1938.

[Des Moines Register.]

Though the Tuskegee institute's report that lynchings were fewer in this country during 1938 than during any of the three preceding years is heartening, it is perhaps equally encouraging to note that fifty-three persons were saved from probable death at the hands of mobs during the last twelve months.

In forty-two instances officers of the law prevented lynchings and none of the six victims of mass violence was in custody when seized by the murderers and put to death.

This is at least some gain over the old precedent of the sheriff's alibi that he was "overpowered by persons unknown" and forced to deliver his prisoner to their savagery.

One other fact stands out conspicuously in the Tuskegee statistics for 1938. Three of the six victims, all of whom were Negroes, were charged by their assassins with murder, one with failure to complete payments on a funeral bill, one with "insulting remarks to a woman," and only one with the "offense against womanhood" customarily cited by lynch law apologists in its defense.

Mississippi, which led all other states in lynchings in 1935 and 1936, with a total of nine such murders for the biennium as compared with Georgia's seven, staged three of the 1938 lynchings; Florida, Georgia, and Louisiana, one each.

MR. PEPYS TAKES THE VEIL.

Jan. 11.—This day I did feel somewhat fretful of spirit, what with the wits and fellows about the town saying to me on all occasions, when I would be meditating or taking mine ease in mine inn, "Mr. Pepys, here is a jest for your column," and "Mr. Pepys, why did you not publish that poem of mine about the game of bridge?" and "Mr. Pepys, you should put more about yourself in the paper, and tell people about the greatnesses you have met at court, and the name of your little dog, and what is your favorite flower." And eke, "Mr. Pepys, you should omit all verses," and "Mr. Pepys, you should work seven days of the week instead of six," and "Mr. Pepys, what do the Duke and Duchess of Bakrak look like and does their title descend from the Norman conquest?" And Mr. Pepys this and Mr. Pepys that, when I would be eating and drinking or reading my book or playing sweet tunes on my piccolo.

So I did tell myself I would be Mr. Pepys no more on this day, at least in public, and I did get myself a pair of great blue goggles and a brigand's hat and a long black Spanish cape and donned them, and Lord, I would not have known myself in this rig. So I walked down Michigan avenue, seeking an obscure ordinary for my noonday meal and saying, "They can't get you now, Peeps, old boy."

But behold, soon I found a crowd following me and gazing and muttering and pointing. I slipped into a public house and withdrew to a dark corner, but some of the people followed in, and presently I did hear a bedizened young wench say to another of that ilk:

"It's Robert Taylor, but I didn't know his hair was gray."

Omitted from recent lists of names that can be given to babies born on Christmas: Navidad for girls, from the Spanish. She can be called Vida for short, and the proud father can speak of himself as a Navidaddy.

SI, SI, MODESTA.

(Answering her verses to Don Farran, 1-11-'39.)

Yes, I have trod the crooked roads,
The little roads and far;
I've clung against a rail awash;
In wattle-hut and bar
I've seen their skins of black and white,
Dusty brown and yellow . . .
And found that man's in any clime
Just a simple fellow.

But you who'd wear a blue sarong,
Swathe yourself in satins,
Garb yourself in shorts or slacks . . .
You are never Latins!
For yours the cold and studied way
That fetters up our feet
And makes us break our hearts along
A crowded city street.

For men are taught (and damn well taught)
To buy the things you want;
No matter how the seagulls scream
And how the spring winds taunt;
Because you will have the comforts
Demanded by your sex . . .
And what you make of us is worth
A silver dollar, Mex.

What matter if a gypsy heart,
You say, is warm in you?
Nursery rhymes are what you sing!
No matter what you do
To bind the bonds more tightly there,
A man must keep his dream
Of seeking for a wilderness . . .
You're never what you seem!

Speaking of Hobbies.

Discovered on exhibition in the Reynolds club at the University of Chicago: A collection of bars of soap from hotels scattered all over the United States, in original wrappers. This represents a hobby of George S. Monks, a physicist. . . . But you haven't heard anything yet; the Linemaster once knew a man who collected bird cages, and with such avidity that he finally had to rent a warehouse for storing his rare items.

ENGLISH LAKELAND.

Unearthly beauty dwells by England's lakes:
An elfin loveliness, "a sense sublime"
Of something touched by neither tide nor time
That from a source eternal springs, and takes
Its being; hills tree-crested; light that shakes
And shimmers on the mystic Windermere;
A mountain crag, where water trickles clear,
And, falling in surprise, wild protest makes.
Here Wordsworth heard the cuckoo's wandering voice,
Here Coleridge far in fairyland could dwell
To seek out Kublai Khan and Christabel;
And Ruskin's beauty-craving soul rejoice;
Here Southey heard the Cataract of Lodore
Go clamoring down the steep with wail and roar.

"DEVIL'S GRIP" OR PLEURODYNIA.

Do we face occasionally a previously unknown disease or may we explain the discovery of a new malady on the ground that physicians nowadays are more alert and understanding, better able to interpret the true meaning of symptoms?

Within recent years medical men have conceded the fact that a peculiar ailment has come upon us. Characterized by intense suffering and appearing in epidemics—it is not appendicitis, pleurisy, or rheumatism, although it may mimic all three. When a Norwegian physician first described pleurodynia or "devil's grip" in 1874 he was accused of "seeing things"—specters which did not exist. However, since 1932 scientific evidence has been forthcoming to prove that the earlier observations were correct. The ailment attacks youngsters chiefly.

Distress comes on suddenly in the region of the stomach and shifts to the chest and shoulders within a few hours. Nausea and vomiting are usually present and the fever ranges from 99 to as high as 105 degrees Fahrenheit. There are frequent relapses whereupon the victim will again experience the same sequence of manifestations.

Pain is the outstanding attribute. There may be no fever at the outset although within an hour or two the temperature will begin to rise. The agony does not abate until the normal level of body heat has been restored. Severe colic is complained of, which is further emphasized by deep breathing and the slightest movement. Because of the discomfort the diaphragm will be used as little as possible. This means that shallow breathing is practiced as a matter of self-defense. Sometimes the skin will be tender to the touch. Some comfort will be afforded by strapping the chest with adhesive tape or through the application of a firm binder. X-ray plates have not proved helpful in determining what is wrong.

Seventy cases reported recently disclose the fact that in about 50 per cent the temperature mounted. No microbes were found in the blood although there was an increase in the number of white cells. Organisms were obtained in great profusion from the nasal passages and the throat, but these were not typical and—other than the hemolytic streptococcus—no significant bacterium was identified. As far as can be ascertained communication comes from nasal secretions and the conclusion seems obvious that we are dealing with a filtrable virus.

Another article dealing with five cases in one family indicates that adults may become victims as well as children. The ages, respectively, were 26, 27, 26 years, 15 months, and 17 years. The head of the family was taken ill with pain in the pit of the stomach. An attempt to eat was followed by accentuation and acute indigestion was diagnosed. No fever was noted. Within twenty-four hours, however, the soreness was particularly excruciating in the right side of the chest. X-ray showed the lungs and pleura to be free from irritation. This continued for forty-eight hours before there was any let up, whereupon the aching gradually faded until on the third day recovery seemed complete. The same episode recurred five days later, this time complicated with headaches and perspiration. A sweat bath brought about improvement and three days later all signs receded.

The case of the 26 year old woman was practically indentical although a relapse occurred on the third day of convalescence. The third patient had a high temperature [103 degrees Fahrenheit], developed a cough, and suffered greatly. With the baby, the trouble seemed to be localized in the abdomen and there were two similar periods. The 17 year old nurse came down with the infection ten days after the last patient—the baby—had returned to normal.

The suggestion is offered that what may appear to be appendicitis should be investigated carefully, particularly if there is some interference with breathing and, should the site of the difficulty shift from the abdomen to the chest. Fortunately, the ailment is not attended with fatalities.

SEE YOUR PHYSICIAN.

M. A. L. writes: Why do my eyes get bloodshot when I am tired? The rims are always inflamed.

REPLY.

You may have conjunctivitis with inflammation of the lids. Poorly fitting glasses may be responsible or some dust or irritant associated with your work. Do not permit the condition to continue, as sight is too valuable. Consult your family physician.

MAY BE EITHER

Mrs. G. B. writes: What causes pain in the toes, especially the large ones? Could it be anemia or arthritis? The patient is 29.

REPLY.

It may be either. The most common cause is lack of circulation. If this is normal it would be advisable to have a thorough examination to rule out organic disease. Occasionally the trouble will be brought on by some deformity of the toes, caused by poorly fitting shoes.

GRITS TEETH.

M. K. writes: Is there any known way to stop a person from gritting his teeth during sleep?

REPLY.

This is a nervous habit and, for a time, small doses of bromides may be helpful. Ask your physician about this.

MORE LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT.

B. E. writes: Is it all right to use a sun lamp on an elderly person to increase resistance?

REPLY.

Not only all right, but advantageous. Care must be exercised not to burn the skin.

Test Your Facts

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, turn to page 32 in the Want Ad section for the correct answers, and mark your score:

1. How many Presidents of the United States have been born in Ohio? [a] Three, [b] one, [c] seven.
2. What does a hectare cover in the metric system? [a] Water, [b] air, [c] land.
3. With what sport do you associate Stella Walsh? [a] Tennis, [b] track, [c] skating.
4. Where is Sitka? [a] Alaska, [b] Japan, [c] China.

A GIRL IN NEED OF COUNSEL.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—What advice would you give to a girl not yet 17, finishing high school this month, tenth high in a class of almost 400, if you had to guide her destinies, taking into consideration that her widowed mother is the sole support of her and a younger child?

Should she try for a scholarship? Is there such a thing as an opportunity for a girl of her age being actually self-supporting in college except for about $5 or so a month, which her mother could advance for personals? Does a full scholarship really provide everything except living expenses? Or is there a catch to it—additional tuition necessary for completion of course? Can a 17 year old girl find enough time to work without sacrificing school time? Do the colleges really find ways and means of helping them earn their way? Is a scholarship to a college outside of Chicago really worth while from this angle? What does it really cost to send a serious girl through college, clothes not considered?

Or should she try for Chicago Normal college and upon gaining admission there prepare herself for a teaching course? There is much opposition to this idea on part of at least a dozen of her classmates who have good standing in their studies and would make fine teacher material. Their reason: Not much opportunity in Chicago without some kind of pull to land a job; no opportunity outside of Chicago for Chicago Normal teachers.

H. B. T.

AN ODD NOTION.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Now that the United States army authorities are experimenting with slate blue uniforms perhaps it might be an opportune moment to suggest that they get down to fundamentals and change the color of the underwear to a similar or darker hue. The adoption of this suggestion would mean that the future warriors of the United States army would have less trouble with their reading than the vets of the A. E. F. had when they perused the white and gray issues of the world war days, and if you don't believe me ask any veteran if he would not prefer to pack a backscratcher instead of a hump-raising condiment can.

JOHN P. WARD.

FOR WEEKLY PASSES.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—The proposed unification traction ordinance should provide for a weekly pass in the fare schedule. A pass good for passage over "L," surface, and bus lines similar to the passes sold by the "L" in Chicago and street car lines in other cities would be profitable to the company as a guaranteed weekly fare would be paid in advance, riding would increase and, as it would eliminate the necessity of thousands of passengers paying fare daily, requesting transfers, etc., car operation would be speeded up. The pass is a convenience and a time saver.

WARRANTY DEED.

Niles, Mich., Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was given a warranty deed for a piece of property, [1] ten acres in all, and I gave a mortgage for $1,500, and when we surveyed this said property [2] there was only three acres in the piece. The man I purchased from said it was a tax deed given him by the auditor general at Lansing, Mich. I bought the land very cheap as a speculation and have put a lot of work and expense on it, and [3] if it had been as represented to me I could have realized $5,000 for it now. As it is, [4] they say the [5] warranty deed is no good, because [6] it was a tax deed and sold by the auditor general.

M. H.

1. If you are asking us to construe the wording of the warranty deed, obviously we cannot do so without having the wording before us.
2. See 1. It is difficult to understand how you would not be chargeable with notice of such a glaring discrepancy as that between three acres and ten acres.
3. On such facts it would seem worth while to have a personal interview with an attorney.
4. The antecedent of this pronoun is not clear.
5. It is true that no deed convers a better title than the grantor has. The only additional protection of the warranty is that it would entitle you to recover damages for defects of title.
6. See 4. You have stated to us that the deed to you was a warranty deed. We would understand this to mean that it was not the original tax deed.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TO BUSY GIDDY MINDS.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—In his message to congress the President "pulled," as the modernists write it, "very old stuff."

It will be 526 years next March, over three-quarters of a century before Columbus sailed, since Henry IV, of England, when there were "great poverty and heavy taxation," recommended war talk to distract the minds of the people from the failures of administration at home. Just before his death, when he had been planning a crusade to the Holy Land, he said, according to Shakespeare ["Henry IV.," part II, act iv, sc. iv], to the son who became Henry V.:

"Therefore, my Harry,
Be it thy course to busy giddy minds
With foreign quarrels; that action, hence borne out,
May waste the memory of the former days."

That's the rub—the memory of the miscarriages of the last six years, and the election two months ago which condemned them.

The war talk, which has been rising for some time, was fitly met the other day by one of our retired generals: "Who the hell could attack us?"

THOMAS JAMES NORTON.

PROFITS.

Stevens Point, Wis., Jan. 9.—A few weeks ago you had an article in THE TRIBUNE in regard to lobbying, explaining to some extent how the Robinson-Patman bill was put through.

While the writer is not very strong for the Robinson-Patman bill, nevertheless I do want to call your attention to a very serious mistake. You speak of the 50 per cent profit that druggists, grocers, etc., get. Before you print any more items of that kind I do think it would be a very fine thing if your reporter could come into a house such as ours and get the facts on the case. I think it would change his ideas greatly and I believe he could go in almost any wholesale house anywhere in the United States and find that nationally advertised goods are bringing about an average of 2½ to 3 per cent to the wholesale grocers throughout the country and very little more than that to the retail grocers as a whole.

A. M. COPPS.

F. D. R. IN HIS NEW UNIFORM.

New Preston, Conn., Jan. 7.—I cannot resist the temptation to congratulate you upon the front page cartoon by Mr. Orr in your issue of Friday, Jan. 6. I have seen nothing so apt and good since Punch's "Dropping the Pilot" much more than a generation ago. Your attitude toward the New Deal and all its grotesqueries and follies finds a warm echo in my heart. More power to you.

H. T. NEWCOMB.

THE TAP ROOT.

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 9.—I wish to congratulate your own Philip Kinsley on his article, "History Shows U. S. as Refuge of New Liberty." It is surely the tap root of our American liberties and institutions.

GEORGE R. HILL.

FOOD FOR SPAIN.

West Baden Springs, Ind., Jan. 9.—There would be grim irony in the event if the President's humanitarian project of flour shipments to Spain were to be exploited to the political and military advantage of one of the belligerents. Grim irony, because human suffering will be prolonged, not shortened, by the prolongation of the war. Grim irony because the exalted plea of humanitarianism will have been smirched by polluted motives.

Let us all, through the available instrumentalities of our choice, contribute to the relief of the civilian population in Spain. But if the federal government is to intervene let it be under a federal commission officially accredited to both belligerents under stipulations equally acceptable to both. It would be lamentable if the President's sympathetic intentions were to suffer an odious miscarriage.

EDGAR R. SMOTHERS, S. J.,
West Baden College.

REPLY TO SIR JAMES JEANS.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—People familiar with the technique of piano playing are having a big laugh at the renowned scientist, Sir James Jeans, for his saying: "It makes no difference as to results whether a piano key is struck with an umbrella or the finger of a Paderewski." He supported his contention by referring to the experiments of American scientists showing that there is no difference in the sound waves produced by the playing of pianists and those made by dropping [specific] weights on the keys. In saying this he is oblivious to the fact that there is as much acoustical difference in striking a key with an umbrella and letting a weight drop on the key as there is between his pianistic touch and that of a Paderewski—the same difference which exists between stiffness and ease. Besides, he is no doubt unaware that pianists seldom strike keys; pianists press them—a fact which means much to sensitive ears.

MUSIC STUDENT.

LAME DUCKS AND DEMOCRACY.

Delavan, Wis., Jan. 8.—President Roosevelt professes in his oratory to be greatly interested in making democracy work. Wasn't democracy working when the people of Michigan repudiated Frank Murphy, or when the voters of Idaho threw out Senator Pope? Certainly this wasn't Fascism or communism.

Yet the President deliberately defies the will of the people in a "public be damned" attitude and rewards these lame ducks with fancy public jobs.

How can democracy work and who is the greatest threat to democracy anyway?

MERLIN C. WHARTON.

QUESTION OF TACTICS.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—How would you go about finding out whether or not that speech we heard from Washington a few days ago wasn't the state of Mr. Roosevelt's mind instead of the state of the nation?

GEORGE E. SCOTT, STEEL COMPANY PRESIDENT, DEAD

Suffers a Heart Attack in Rochester, Minn.

George Eaton Scott, president of the American Steel Foundries, died last night of a heart attack at Rochester, Minn., where he had gone for a throat operation after an illness of a month.

Mr. Scott, who was 65 years old and a bachelor, lived at 1100 Lake Shore drive in Chicago and at 40 East Onwentsia road in Lake Forest. He came to Chicago from St. Louis in 1901 and in 1905 became vice president of the American Steel Foundries, a position he held until he was made its president in 1929.

Red Cross Official in War.

He was general manager and member of the American Red Cross war council from 1917 to 1919 and a member of the Red Cross executive council since 1919.

At the time of his death Mr. Scott was a director of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, the Chicago Daily News, H. Cannon company, Griffin Wheel company, and the Personal Loan and Savings bank.

Member of Several Clubs.

He was a member of the Chicago, Commercial, Industrial, and Old Elm clubs in Chicago; the Metropolitan club in Washington, and the Recess and the Boone and Crockett clubs in New York.

The body will be returned today from Rochester for funeral services.

Three sisters, Miss Cornelia Scott, Mrs. Margretta Lawler, Miss Mary Porter Scott, and two brothers, Julius P. Scott and William D. Scott, all of St. Louis, survive.

PROF. OLIPHANT, 'ACE AMONG BRAIN TRUSTERS, DIES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Herman Oliphant, one of President Roosevelt's most trusted advisers and a member of the New Deal's inner circle left wingers, died today in Naval hospital. He had been in the hospital less than a week following a heart attack. He was 54 years old.

Herman Oliphant.

Officially Oliphant was general counsel of the treasury department. But his real job, it was understood throughout the administration, was to supply ideas to the President's personal group of intimates among whom are counted Thomas Corcoran, Ben Cohen, and Leon Henderson.

While Oliphant had a hand in building most of the alphabet machinery, he primarily was responsible for enactment of the controversial undistributed corporate profits tax in 1936.

WORLD'S BIGGEST CARILLON TAKES SHAPE IN CHICAGO

One of four master bell tuners in America, employed by the J. C. Deagan company here, yesterday began tuning the world's largest carillon. It will take him several days to perfect its tone.

The carillon, which weighs 25 tons and includes 75 tubular bells ranging over two chromatic octaves, can be played as easily as a child's toy piano. Its small electrical keyboard can be set up at any distance from the bells. It can also be played automatically.

When completed it will be assembled eventually in a campanile on the banks of the Suwanee river at White Springs, Fla., as a permanent memorial to the composer, Stephen Foster. Meanwhile, it will be exhibited in the Florida State building at the New York World's fair.

Charles A. Morrow, Head of Contracting Firm, Dead

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Charles A. Morrow, 70 years old, head of a leading Baltimore contracting firm, died today. He was active in rebuilding Baltimore after the fire of 1904 and built the Aberdeen proving grounds when the United States entered the world war. His firm built the Nebraska state capitol at Lincoln and the Ford Motor company plant at Cleveland.

PIPE DOWN! IT'LL SAVE YOUR VOICE, DOCTORS ADVISE

Be a little more quiet if you want to save your larynx, or voice box. This advice comes from Drs. Chevalier Jackson and C. L. Jackson of Philadelphia, Pa., writing in the current issue of Hygeia magazine. Constant talking, they say, is the worst possible thing for the voice box.

Shouting, forceful singing, yelling over the telephone, talking in noisy places and cheering at football games may result in little hemorrhages on the vocal cord. These, in turn, may develop into various kinds of tumors. Alcohol, even in the smallest quantities, also is injurious to the larynx, the article says, and the "whisky throat" is no myth.

Joseph J. Ott, Founder of Rubber Company, Dies

Dubuque, Ia., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Joseph J. Ott, 82 years old, former president and organizer of the now defunct Ott Rubber company, died today. Mr. Ott was a pioneer lumberman in this section. He was a former vice president and general manager of the John Kaiser Lumber company of Eau Claire, Wis., and later he held similar titles with the Stinson Tractor company there.

SHOWS FRONTIER HUMOR OF U. S. IS STILL FUNNY

Franklin Meine Opens His Collection.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

"Mrs. A—— lighted the fire with kerosene oil on Wednesday morning. The handles of her coffin cost $13.75."
—Mark Twain.

Robust laughter—robust at least for the hushed precincts of Newberry library—rang last night through the stately edifice at 60 West Walton street. The occasion was the opening of Franklin J. Meine's collection of American humor.

Franklin Meine.

Mr. Meine, who is a Mark Cresap research fellow in American literature at Northwestern university and an author in his own right, had started out to prove that Mark Twain did not create the brand of humor for which he was famous; that he was, instead, the genius who was able to put American humor on paper. He did prove it.

But more important, Mr. Meine established, with the aid of his distinguished audience, that the humor of our frontiers is just as funny in the Newberry library as it was in the fragrant bars of Mississippi river steamboats and the roaring south and west of the 1850s. Funnier probably.

What Made Them Laugh.

"The Big Bear of Arkansas," published in 1841 by T. B. Thorpe, Esq., of Louisiana, was presented by Mr. Meine as an ancester of Mark Twain's famous jumping frog story.

And the Big Bear stopped the show. This story, the speaker declared, is a blending of the things that made people laugh in those rowdy days: realism and fantasy, exaggeration and understatement, irreverence and ridicule.

It deals, among other things, with the dangers of planting in fertile Arkansas. The corn came up with such devastating suddenness that the percussion killed a hog; the hero chased a bear eighteen miles once, chiefly to heat him up so the oil would mix with the lean, and when he finally shot the crittur steam shot ten feet into the air—the bullet had busted its boiler. But the BIG bear; when the hunter finally had his chance he missed. But the bear fell dead. It was an unhuntable bear—one that died naturally when its time came.

Must Be Told Aloud.

In this atmosphere of frontier story telling Mark Twain was reared. But the stories had to be told aloud to be funny. Mark Twain could make them screamingly funny on paper. A few others could do it occasionally; he could do it consistently.

When Mr. Meine got around to the famous jumping frog last night he decided to follow a suggestion of Roark Bradford: that it would be useless to try to improve on it or detract from it among those who have read it; and a waste of time to discuss it with those who haven't.

Mr. Meine's collection of American humor is one of the most complete that is privately owned. It begins with a broadside of "Yankee Doodle," which appeared in 1775.

Many Early Chicago Works.

There are Mark Twain first editions, humorous pamphlets more than a century old, Bill Nye firsts, rare cartoons of Lincoln, copies of Opie Read's newspaper, "The Arkansas Traveler," and many early Chicago works, including those of Finley Peter Dunne, George W. Peck, M. Quad, and others. The exhibition will be open daily—except Sundays—from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. until March 31 at the library.

It proves that the comic story is English, the witty story French, but the humorous story is American, born here and here to stay.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. George C. Otto.

Mrs. George C. Otto, 74 years old, 715 Ashland avenue, River Forest, died of a heart attack yesterday in the lobby of an Oak Park theater. Mrs. Otto was born in Dane county, Wisconsin. Her maiden name was Harriet Charlotte Overton, and she was the last of the Overton family which was prominent in Denver, Colo. Mrs. Otto once taught in the Denver public schools. She was a member of the Nineteenth Century club and of the First Presbyterian church in Oak Park, where she lived from 1906 until 1923, when she moved to River Forest. Her husband, an attorney, and a daughter, Mrs. Clayton Seaman of Wilmette, survive. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the First Presbyterian church in Oak Park.

Harold W. Anderson.

Harold W. Anderson, vice president of Anderson Brothers brass foundry, died yesterday in his home at 3833 Wilton avenue. He was 59 years old. The foundry, with which he had been associated for thirty-nine years, was one of the first in Chicago. Mr. Anderson's widow, Emma; a son, Harold, and two daughters, Mrs. Charlotte Olmsted and Miss Marguerite Anderson, survive. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 2341 Milwaukee avenue.

Rear Admiral S. A. Staunton.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Sidney Augustus Staunton, retired, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, died today at the age of 88 years. In the Spanish-American war Staunton was assistant chief of staf to Rear Admiral William T. Sampson. He retired in 1912, but in the world war was recalled to active duty and served in the ordnance bureau.

Col. Frederick Mears.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Col. Frederick Mears, 60 years old, assistant chief engineer of the Great Northern railway, died today. During a distinguished career in the army, he saw service in the Philippines, Panama and overseas. He surveyed the location and was supervisor of the new Panama railroad from 1913 to 1914.

Harry E. Smith.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Harry E. Smith, 55 years old, chief auditor in the far west for the Agricultural Adjustment administration audit section and the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, was found dead of heart disease in his apartment today. Smith formerly was with the AAA in Chicago.

Henry Chesterfield.

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Henry Chesterfield, 62 years old, executive secretary of the National Variety Artists, which provides for needy actors, died today while eulogizing over the body of his long time friend, Edwin C. Brandt, dramatic actor.

8,750,000 ATTEND CITY BEACHES; NO ONE IS DROWNED

Not one of the 8,750,000 persons who went to the municipal beaches and pools last summer drowned, according to the annual report yesterday of the department of public works. Vigilant life guards were credited with achieving this record. The bureau of parks, recreation, and aviation announced that 5 million persons frolicked at the city's forty-one public playgrounds.

In addition, the bureau reported that 30,000 dead, dangerous or objectionable trees had been removed during the year and that 10,000 shade trees had been planted.

Not to be outdone by these figures, the bureau of sewers made it known that it had flushed 8,718,650 feet of sewers and had cleaned 95,708 catch basins.

$100,000 INCOME OF POLICY KING'S BROTHER BARED

The transcript of a divorce action in June, 1937, was introduced before Judge Robert C. O'Connell yesterday to show that Ily E. Kelly, colored, had a $100,000 income that year. Kelly is a brother of Walter J. Kelly, the reputed policy game king in Gary, who was assassinated Sunday night at 31st street and Michigan avenue.

The transcript was presented in behalf of Ily Kelly's divorced wife, Jessica, who has asked that he be cited for contempt in connection with $525 in arrears on a $6,500 alimony agreement made at the time of the uncontested divorce. Besides his $100,000 income, which supposedly was derived from the operation of a black and tan club, Kelly had a string of race horses, sixty-five suits, and several hundred neckties, according to the evidence.

OPPOSE $220,000 U. S. TAX CLAIM ON $100,000 ESTATE

The government's attempt to collect $220,892 added income tax on the estate of Charles R. Street, Chicago insurance executive, was opposed in Washington yesterday by the City National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, executors. The bank, in a petition to the board of tax appeals, denied that Street had been paid $347,000 in connection with fire insurance rate litigation in Missouri. Attorney Walter Eckert, representing the estate, said in Chicago yesterday that the total estate was about $100,000. The amount in question, he said, represented checks which had passed through Street's hands, but were not paid to him. Street died last February.

APPROVE 5 FEET DEEPER SUBWAY THROUGH LOOP

Change Made for Future East-West Tubes.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Changes in the plans for the State street and Dearborn street subways were approved by the city council's local transportation committee yesterday on the recommendation of Philip Harrington, city subway commissioner. The council will vote on the proposed changes at its next meeting.

The principal changes concern the level and station arrangement of the two subways in the downtown business district to correct disadvantages of the plans proposed by the Public Works administration subway commission. The PWA plans, substituted for those of the city, would have made it impractical to build future east-west subways in the loop east of Dearborn street.

Level Dropped 5 Feet.

The level of the two subways is dropped approximately five feet under the changed plans. The stations, as previously announced, will be in the middle of each block instead of at the street intersections. Under the revised plans, the loading platforms will be approximately forty feet below street level. Escalators will connect the platforms and the mezzanine station level which is about eighteen feet below the street.

"Changing stations from the corners to the center of the block will have three principal advantages," Harrington told the committee.

"The changing will not foreclose the building of east west subways in the future. They can cross over the present ones. It will also make it possible to keep trafic open on the east and west cross streets during station construction. And there will be less interference with underground utilities' lines at the intersections."

Twin Tunnels Under River.

Another change affects the Dearborn street subway, which is to turn west in Lake street to Milwaukee avenue and then run northwest. Where it passes under the river at Lake street, the twin tunnels of the subway will be built one on top of the other instead of alongside each other. The west bound tunnel will be under the east bound.

The change is necessary, Harrington said, because there is not room enough between the abutments of the Lake street bridge to build the tunnels side by side.

Joshua D'Esposito, PWA project engineer on the subway job, last night discussed the effect of the subway building on Chicago business before a meeting of the Chicago Association of Credit Men in the La Salle hotel.

48 NAVY PLANES COMPLETE HOP TO CANAL ZONE

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A United States navy fleet of forty-eight patrol bombers completed a 3,000 mile flight from San Diego, Cal., today.

The last of the planes, which left San Diego yesterday, landed at the Coco Solo military airfield here this afternoon. They made the flight in thirteen hours and fifty-eight minutes.

All except three of the planes flew nonstop. These three, of Squadron seven, landed en route beside the United States aircraft tender Wright in the gulf of Fonseca, off the coast of Honduras.

Rain Prevents Takeoff.

Midland, Tex., Jan. 11.—(AP)—A rain sodden field today prevented the takeoff of eight planes bound from San Diego to war maneuvers in the Caribbean sea.

Affirm 3 Year Sentences of Loan Company Officers

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed three year prison terms imposed last July upon two former officials of the Devon Loan and Finance company, 6354 Broadway. They were convicted of using the mails in a $1,000,000 scheme to defraud 6,000 business and professional men. The defendants were C. Joseph Tamuel, president, and Frank D. Shobe, attorney and treasury of the company. Three agents were placed on probation.

Pistol Classes Arranged for 600 Reserve Officers

Six hundred Illinois reserve officers have enrolled for the pistol instruction, Capt. Leigh H. Hunt, president of the Reserve Officers' association of Cook county, said yesterday. After two months of practice, teams of the officers will compete for the Reserve Officers' association trophy.

"Hell Ship" Witness

COUNTESS DI FRASSO.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A federal grand jury was summoned here today to investigate strange happenings aboard the three-masted schooner Metha Nelson during a four month cruise to the South Pacific for sharks and buried treasure. The voyage ended when the vessel, storm wracked, was towed to port.

Reports of mutiny, of torture, of romantic love and of an outcropping of European political "isms" aboard the ship, gave spice to the proceedings. The inquiry is to center around the arrest of Charles Segal, Hollywood sportsman, and Abraham Kapellner, who left the ship in San Jose de Guatemala but were arrested by federal agents on mutiny charges when they returned here.

Hollywood notables are expected to testify, agents said. They include Marino Bello, former stepfather of the late Jean Harlow and director of the expedition; Evelyn Husby Bello, the nurse he married when the ship was three days out; Countess Dorothy di Frasso, heiress, and Richard Gulley, cousin of Anthony Eden, former British foreign minister.

UPHOLD FIRING OF POLICEMAN AS COMMUNIST

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday upheld the city's right to discharge a policeman accused of communistic activities while on duty. City officials had appealed from the ruling of Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher ordering the former policeman reinstated.

According to records in the case, th. policeman, Joseph P. Coane of the Shakespeare avenue station, approached a motorist on Navy pier on Sept. 28, 1936, and sold him a pamphlet entitled "A Labor Party for the United States," which bore on the fly leaf the inscription, "Compliments of a Chicago policeman who will not raise his club against a striker."

Coane was tried by the civil service commission and discharged on Feb. 3, 1937.

The Appellate court's opinion said: "This officer's conduct clearly indicates that he has a seditious state of mind . . . and that he should not be retained as a police officer."

HANGS SELF WITH BELT.

Freeport, Ill., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Wilbur A. Garman, 32 years old, associated with his father, Arthur Garman, as a building contractor, hanged himself with a lether belt in his room in the Y. M. C. A. Fellow roomers said he was despondent since his wife divorced him recently.

SECRET MUSICA RECORDS FOUND HIDDEN IN SHED

Expect New Revelations in Drug Fraud Case.

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The possibility that new and even more sensational revelations would be made soon in the McKesson & Robbins case was held out tonight as government officials examined the secret correspondence of the late F. Donald Coster-Musica and the personal ledgers he kept through the years of his $11,000,000 defalcations.

The papers and books, containing numerous entries in Coster-Musica's handwriting and the names of persons not yet mentioned in the investigation of his colossal fraud, were found hidden in an old shed outside the McKesson & Robbins plant in Fairfield, Conn.

Postal inspectors, on the job since Coster-Musica's suicide following his exposure as an ex-convict once involved in a million dollar swindle, turned up the documents. There were two bales, wrapped in brown paper, and an attempt evidently had been made to destroy them, Assistant United States Attorney Gregory F. Noonan, said.

Cover Many Years.

They give a fairly accurate picture of Coster-Musica's activities, Noonan said, from the time he vanished in 1920 from New York, where he was under indictment for subornation of perjury to a month ago, when his financial trickery came to light.

In that eighteen year period he had changed his name from Philip Musica to F. Donald Coster, given himself two Heidelberg degrees and American nativity—actually he was a native of Italy—and had become president of the great drug corporation, milking it of $11,000,000 and leaving fictitious assets of $20,613,000 on its books.

While Assistant State's Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall announced that his hearings into the corporation's affairs were virtually completed, federal officials indicated their investigation still had a long way to go. The blackmail phases, reports of wholesale bootlegging, reports of gun running, and other angles still are being scrutinized.

Two Brothers Freed; Arrested.

Meanwhile, two of Coster-Musica's three brothers, seized on a charge of violating the securities act of 1934 in connection with the filing of false financial statements with the New York Stock exchange and the Securities and Exchange commission, were released in bail from federal custody but arrested on state indictments.

The brothers are George E. Dietrich-Musica, head treasurer and an assistant vice president, and Robert Dietrich-Musica, head of the shipping department at Bridgeport.

George was released in $5,000 bail, Robert in $3,500. Both then were arrested by detectives from the office of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, who last month obtained an indictment charging them with grand larceny and fraud.

DISCIPLINE RESTORED AT OSWEGO SCHOOL, SAYS NEW PRINCIPAL

Clarence G. Salter.

Clarence G. Salter, new principal of the community high school in Oswego, southwest of Aurora, said yesterday he believed problems of school discipline had been solved.

"I am not expecting any further trouble," he asserted. "I look for affairs of the school to proceed smoothly and quietly."

A teacher and administrator of long experience, he was put in office Jan. 3 with orders to end the rowdyism that had upset the school for months. Melvin Attig, his predecessor, killed himself Dec. 14 because, it was charged, the older boys bullied him.

A week ago, after a false fire alarm at the school, Salter suspended nine boys. Two of them, including Andrew Pierce Jr., son of Oswego's mayor, were expelled Monday.

AIR LINE'S 25,000TH TRIP ACROSS U. S. TO SET RECORD

A new record in commercial air transportation will be set today when United Air Lines' 25,000th scheduled trip between San Francisco and New York arrives at 8:45 a. m. at Chicago airport. No other airline in the world has flown as far or made as many trips over a comparable route.

W. A. Patterson, president of the airline, said his company has piled up a total of 68,000,000 miles of flying in making the 25,000 coast-to-coast flights. Approximately half the trips have been made at night, which also is an international record, he said.

Capt. Jack Knight, who flew the first coast-to-coast passenger trip twelve years ago, will be the co-pilot of the Mainliner plane. Knight is now sales representative for the company but retains his flying ratings. On his first trip Knight flew a Boeing biplane and two passengers. Today the plane will carry eighteen passengers and a crew of three.

Three Artists Offer Exhibit of Great Merit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A stunning three man exhibition has opened at the Chicago Galleries association, 215 North Michigan avenue. In the first gallery are oils by Charles W. Dahlgren, whose water colors welcome you in the little entry hall. Among the water colors there are two superb examples of his skill, one a landscape on a stormy day and the other a man working in his garden.

Mr. Dahlgren is a veteran painter. He carries his years easily, but if the truth were allowed to slip out it must be confessed he has passed the seventh decade mark. As lightly as age has touched him physically, just so lightly has it touched his painting.

These landscapes are youthful in feeling and atmosphere. They are exquisitely finished canvases, revealing a genius that is at its zenith and in all of them is perceived a keen, quick sense of joy in beauty and composition. From the frosted field with corn in the shock and pumpkins on the vine to the delicate landscape near Taos with its little cabin nestled in the curve of aspen-covered hills, the high note of friendly happiness is clear. The landscapes run from Brown county to the Pacific coast and make the journey an epic of pure joy. No one should miss them.

In the larger gallery a similar theme is voiced. Tunis Ponsen had, one knows, a great deal of fun in painting his harbor scenes and high-keyed landscapes. Mr. Ponsen is a Chicago painter of fairly long standing and many of us know him as a member of the south side art group. His pictures are challenging in their clear pellucid blues and frank whites. The Gloucester series are especially brilliant. And the "Old Barn in Michigan" reveals one of the loveliest of casual pools, an entrancing scrap of water.

Ruth Van Sickle Ford shares the large gallery with Tunis Ponsen. Mrs. Ford paints in a gloriously big manner and her work is very effective. One of her finest canvases is "Summer Bouquet," a fascinating Victorian interior with the flowers a small item among the wealth of expressive details. "Cherry Lane" is remarkable for its foreground of pleasant people and "Hills and Shadows" has a sparkle to it that makes it unforgettable. The exhibition will continue to Jan. 28.

Quip.

John Tully, La Grange banker, recently returned from a European expedition with the news that there are no dentists in Germany or Italy. People are afraid to open their mouths.

Child Violinist.

Mention was made in this space recently of the little lad wearing a backless sun suit who sat on his father's lap at Orchestra hall the night Virovai played with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. He is a violin prodigy, we have heard since, and is being brought up according to the child rearing methods of a psychologist. A friend of ours encountered him on a recent cold day in the elevator in the Fine Arts building. He was carrying a violin case and was wearing a dark cape, apparently with nothing under it.

"Aren't you cold?" she inquired.

The woman with him spoke up.

"No. He is brought up on carrots," she explained.

The Teledate company, that keeps track of weddings, birthday and wedding anniversaries, recently was engaged by a client to remind him of alimony payment dates. Another client included Chinese New Year in the list of dates he wanted to be reminded of. . . . At the risk of further straining relations with the Fascist countries, it might be pointed out that Benito Mussolini's My Autobiography is an example of redundancy.

Question and Answer.

Albert S. Gardner was taking his children to the movies and, not wishing to enter in the middle of the feature, he stopped at the ticket taker's cage and inquired:

"What have you got on now?"

"Shorts," she answered.

Snuggle-Duckies.

When a new nephew arrived in the family of Columbia's Frank Rand he ordered for a gift for him, a kind of sleeping arrangement with zippers suggested by the baby's mother. When Mr. Rand's bill arrived the item was erroneously charged twice. The entry, "Dec. 9, One Snuggle-ducky," was made, with a similar entry two days later. Mr. Rand wrote to suggest an adjustment and added that since he was a bachelor 6 feet tall and weighing some 200 pounds, a snuggle-ducky didn't seem the thing to have on his bill, let alone two snuggle-duckies, and when an adjustment was made would they mind making the entry under another listing. His secretary was raising her eyebrows at him, he added. The store took his note seriously and made the adjustment. When he got his new bill it read, "Dec. 9, Sleepers."

Mr. Shaw Again.

Lucile Swan, recently returned from Peiping, whose exquisite drawings and sculpture are temporarily on exhibit at the headquarters of the American Institute of Decorators, tells a story of Bernard Shaw's visit to Peiping. He was in a gift shop that catered to English and American trade, admiring a jade exhibit that included many small pieces that came from the collection of the late dowager empress of China.

"How do you dare expose these treasures in this manner?" he inquired of the shopkeeper. "How do you know I won't pocket a few of them? And what would you do if I did?" he added.

"We'd be proud to say that Bernard Shaw had stolen some of our jade," retorted the shopkeeper.

"And there are a lot of people who would believe it, too," chuckled the elderly author.

Lovely Throat Insures Beauty for Every One

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"That plainer child will far outdistance the one their mamma thinks to be the beauty. Look at the throat line on Ann [the plainer one]." Thus spoke one of mamma's friends, and rightly, too. The so-called plain youngster's head was set beautifully on a slender throat. The so-called pretty one had a mess of blonde curls, shoulder length, with barely any neck at all, and a round little fat face spreading above it.

A right prediction from mamma's friend. It is doubtful if there is another single feature that bodes so well as the finely delineated throat line. The smartest adult women you see have throats that permit a fine, high carriage. What's more, their attractiveness lasts into the late years, because of the great distinction lent by the long, slender throat.

Much can be done for those born with short necks. That women do not realize this always is evidenced in the numbers of them who will wear the high neckline dress with "choker" necklaces. We speak of the women, too, who will keep their hair down shoulder length or near it. The whole effect is that of a hat that's been sat on. You want to pull it up and start over again.

Collarless coats or flat tailored collars, off the shoulder collars on furred coats, and scarfs worn crisscrossed to a V neckline are a few suggestions offered by those expert in dressing women of all sizes, widths, and shapes. Chokers, especially those twisted strands of short pearls, choke the style out of the type, they warn. The love of jewelry need not be foregone. A clip at the base of the V-line, two clips at the corners of a square neck, and graduated pearls are good.

A long bob or hair worn in a low coil adds to the weighted down and spread-wide look. Overwork the upline in hairdo and millinery, the latter interpreted in upturned brim, or brimless hats, at least.

The Housewife

It's easy to find a variety of lamps with light colored bases and shades to match, but have you ever gone sleuthing for one with a dark toned base? Sometimes a room needs just the touch of heavy, deep color afforded by the right kind of table lamp. We've found several of this sort recently and each has the merit of being simple, artistic, and well made.

Two types of base we liked especially were Italian pottery vases in a stunning terra cotta brown with a rough surface. One of them had decorative handles in off-white, the other similar handles in light yellow. The shades were a deep, rose-beige. The prices were well within the means of the medium budget.

Cajoling Child Won't Improve Eating Habits

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Of all the habit wreckage resulting from cajoling, I know of none worse than that connected with children's eating. I'm a believer in being tactful, jolly, and friendly about the countless physical routine things little children and almost babies have to do.

I believe bathing, dressing, and putting away toys, and toileting, and eating need to be invested with pleasantness and interest. Going beyond that, however, and resorting to general bribing and coaxing to achieve all these practical ends gets you into a jam and frequently turns your child into an unpleasant young person. But using cajoling to make a child eat each meal brings, I verily believe, the worst results of all. I've not only seen living—and horrible!—examples of this fact, but I've had hundreds of reports on it.

Cajoling a child into eating leads to the inch-by-inch meal. Or shall we call it the bite-by-bite meal? "Just take this little bite of carrots, darling, and I'll sing you a song. O, look! Margie's going to drink all the rest of her milk so she'll be a great, strong girl! Daddy, what have you got for a little girl who's going to eat all of her baked potato, now, open your mouth and pop, in we go!" This sort of thing, accompanied by stories, funny faces and other antics is not as rare as you might think. And it is ruination to good eating habits.

So, drop the cajoling-coaxing method where your child's feeding is concerned. Then, withdraw the desperate, anxious attention you've been concentrating on the process. This doesn't imply that you should feel indifferent, or be indifferent, but the tension of the other attitude defeats your purpose.

Try acting about your child's meals more as you do about those of the grownups in the family. This last is a better clue than you might think because, you see, it includes common sense and a relaxed atmosphere. Today's article is not for details, as you see, but for your state of mind. Tomorrow there will be more on the subject.

"Your Child's Eating Habits" is a leaflet of interest to parents and nurses. Send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Extraordinary House Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE FROCK.

There is nothing ordinary about this frock for the home. In fact, the pattern is, in our humble opinion, so chic that it might well be used for silks to be made into "date" dresses. Because of its flared skirt and V neckline the model is flattering to all ages and silhouette sizes. It may be made as severely tailored or as girlishly feminine as you wish.

The version sketched at the left has a soft rolled collar on the low, surplice neckline. The sleeves are puffed and long. The bodice is draped and there is a rather wide sash in the back. The skirt is molded at the hipline but wide below the knees. Washable fabrics in all colors and in prints are practical and smart for this version.

The latest crop of brides possibly will favor the version shown at the right, because of its essential youthfulness. The surplice neckline is given a wide collar that is edged with ruching. The latter may be self material or organdy. Lace may be used, too. More of the trimming tips the sash ends. The sash, by the way, matches the collar, as do the cuffs on the short sleeves. White, pastel pink, and light blue are nice color accents against dark cotton or silk.

Style No. 3201 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Breakfast cereals, many of them, make delicious cookies. Oatmeal cookies have been popular for years, but there must be at least a dozen different kinds of dry cereal which will produce delectable, crisp, or crunchy cookies at little cost.

Many of the very crisp breakfast cereals will make fine crum pie crusts, too, after the fashion set by graham crackers. But it's cookies I'm thinking about right now, for I've been reminded of three fine recipes for cereal cookies.

Crispy Cookies

[Four dozen small]

½ cup butter
½ cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar, packed
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup quick-cooking oatmeal
1 cup rice krispies
½ cup shredded coconut

Add the sugars to the softened butter and cream together thoroughly. Beat in egg and flavoring. Sift flour, soda, baking powder, and salt together. Add to oatmeal, rice krispies, and coconut. Blend with creamed mixture. Shape into small balls on a greased baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees for about 15 minutes, or until brown.

Coconut Flake Cookies

[About five dozen]

1½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups grapenuts or cornflakes
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar, packed
2 unbeaten eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups coconut

Sift flour, measure, and resift with baking powder and salt. Add dry cereal. Cream butter or margarine thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and beat together well. Add eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Add vanilla. Add flour and cereal mixture and mix well. Add coconut. Drop from a teaspoon onto an ungreased sheet and bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, for 12 to 15 minutes. A half cup of chopped nuts may be added to dough before it is baked.

Among the most popular of all cereal-made cookies are date filled oatmeal goodies, always welcome at meals or between them.

Date Filled Oatmeal Cookies

[About three dozen]

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar, packed
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 cups quick-cooking oatmeal
½ cup thick sour milk

Cream shortening and sugar. Sift flour, salt, and soda, and add to oatmeal. Work dry ingredients into creamed mixture alternately with milk. Roll dough out thinly on a lightly floured board and cut into rounds. Spread half the rounds with date filling and top with the other rounds. Press the filled cookies together at the edges with the tines of a fork. Bake at 400 degrees until browned. The rounds may be baked plain and put together sandwich fashion with filling afterwards.

DATE FILLING FOR COOKIES: Combine 1 pound pitted, chopped dates with 1 cup water and 1 cup sugar. Cook and stir the mixture until it becomes thick as jam. A little lemon juice may be added after it has cooked, if liked. This filling is delicious if made with orange juice in place of water.

Raisins, figs, apricots, prunes, or mixed dried fruits may be used for a filling such as this.

City's Lecture Fans Dig in for a Busy Month

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT is a good thing Chicagoans are lecture minded, else some of the affairs scheduled for this month might not be as well attended as their sponsors hope they will be. Chicagoans do love lectures, however, just about as much as every one is supposed to love a parade.

So probably all of those arranged for the next few weeks will be listened to by as many as can be crowded into the places in which the lecturers will hold forth.

The officers of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations are holding the luncheon meeting at which Jan Masaryk will speak in the largest hotel ballroom in the city, that of the Stevens hotel, instead of in their usual meeting place, the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. The change was made in order to accommodate the large numbers who undoubtedly will want to hear Mr. Masaryk, until recently ambassador of Czecho-Slovakia in London.

Mr. Masaryk is the son of the founder of the Czecho-Slovakian republic, so what he will have to say when he discusses "Democracy in Peril" will be of great interest. This is not his first visit to Chicago, and he has many friends and several relatives here. Mrs. Charles Butland of Highland Park, the former Garrigue Gallagher, is his cousin. Mr. Masaryk's mother was a Garrigue of Boston.

The council luncheon at which Mr. Masaryk will speak will be held on Friday, Jan. 20, at 12:30 o'clock. This week, on Saturday, the council is having a luncheon meeting at the Palmer House at which Graham Hutton will give a "Survey After Munich." Mr. Hutton was until recently assistant editor of The Economist in London.

English Union Will Hear Paul Shinkman.

A young journalist who lists Jan Masaryk as one of the most interesting world figures whom he interviewed last summer, is Paul Shinkman, who will speak on "Peace for Our Time" before members of the English Speaking union next Wednesday afternoon. The affair will be a sherry-tea party at the Arts club, starting at 5 o'clock. Mr. Shinkman will be the guest of Durand Smith in Lake Forest while he is here.

Mr. Shinkman, who for some years was a correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in London, and Mr. Smith lived together when the latter was working on the London News-Chronicle. Mr. Smith introduced his friend to Miss Betty Benn, daughter of Sir Ernest Benn, and in July, 1935, after the two young men had returned to this country to live, Mr. Smith went back to England with Mr. Shinkman for the marriage of Miss Benn and Mr. Shinkman. Mr. Smith was best man at the wedding. The Shinkmans now live in New York. His wife is not accompanying him to Chicago.

President of Yale to Speak in City.

Another distinguished speaker soon to be heard in Chicago is Charles Seymour, president of Yale university. He will make his first visit here as president when he addresses the annual banquet of the Yale club on Thursday, Jan. 19.

Announcements of the annual meeting and dinner on the 19th were in the mail a day or two ago, but to the chagrin of the committee in charge the meeting was announced incorrectly for next Tuesday.

The Chicago Junior league has announced a meeting at 11 o'clock Monday in the Tower room of the Drake hotel. Jerome Kerwin of the department of political science at the University of Chicago will speak on "Our Local Political Circus." Luncheon will be served in the French room following the lecture.

Mr. Kerwin's talk is the first of a series sponsored by the public affairs committee. Three other talks will be given on succeeding Tuesdays, start-

Charlotte Hubbart Is Bride

MRS. PETER FORTUNE

In a candlelight ceremony at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph DeGolyer Hubbart, in Evanston, Miss Charlotte Hubbart became the bride of Peter Fortune, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Fortune of Chicago. Msgr. Joseph Morrison read the service before an improvised altar of greens, flanked by standards of calla lilies and white candles.

The bride, who is tall and slim, was stunning in a white velvet gown trimmed with seed pearls. A rope of pearls held a long tulle veil to her black curls. She carried calla lilies. Mrs. Hans Schweizer, who was her sister's only attendant, wore a handsome gown of copper and white brocade and carried bird of paradise flowers. Tiny Heidi Schweizer, who was flower girl, wore a floor length frock of paler copper satin, and a huge poke bonnet of copper tulle tied with matching velvet streamers. Her flowers were forget-me-nots and roses tied in a small nosegay.

John L. Fortune Jr. was his brother's best man. Mr. Fortune and his bride will sail Saturday for a two months' honeymoon abroad. They will be at home on the near north side after March 15.

Housewives Protest Sales of Unmarked Cold Storage Foods

Housewives protested yesterday against the practice of retailing cold storage eggs, butter, and other foods without plainly marking them as such. The complaints were made at a joint meeting of the Chicago Housewives' league and Woman's City club.

Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, who presided, pointed out that a state law requires the labeling of foods that have been in cold storage.

Louis Salinger, attorney for the food and dairies division of the state department of agriculture, told the women that the law is not being enforced because it is obsolete and unworkable.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

If we believed everything we saw and heard in the movies, "Thanks For Everything" would sure make doubting Thomases of us so far as contests are concerned. BUT, fortunately we do not, and so this comedy hinged on a situation wherein a young man, rightfully entitled to $25,000, as winner of a contest, is gypped of his winnings, will be to us just one of those things in which everybody is only kidding.

While this piece isn't nearly as clever as some movies in which young Mr. Haley has appeared—"Wake Up and Live," for instance—it provides the likable young fellow with plenty of opportunity to keep you chuckling. . . .

As Henry Smith he is used by an advertising agency as a "guinea pig" after winning a contest in which he has correctly guessed the likes of the average American citizen as regards food, toothpastes, etc. By hook and crook they do him out of his winnings, feeling that, once possessed of a bank roll, he'll lose his "average" perspective and be of no benefit to them.

Subsequent happenings are merry, mad and muddled. Mr. Haley is amusing—and pathetic—as the put upon young man. Arleen Whelan is charming as his devoted sweetheart. . . . Jack Oakie and Binnie Barnes qualify as employés of the advertising agency that does the hero dirt, and Adolphe Menjou is characteristically smooth as head of the concern.

Tony Martin lends a touch of sunny distinction as a melodiously singing and speaking radio announcer. . . . The tunes he sings—"Thanks For Everything," "You're the World's Fairest," and "Puff a Puff."

Film's not too long and action is speedy.

See you soon.

Eureka Students to Take One Subject at a Time

Eureka, Ill., Jan. 11.—(AP)—President Raymond F. McLain announced today that Eureka college would be the second college in the United States to have students devote all their attention to one subject for nine weeks and then pass to another. President McLain said it would permit students to get more individual attention. Hiram college in Ohio has used a similar plan for five years.

Slim Gray Suit Is Smart with a Winter Coat

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Want something to wear under a fur coat; something new and different and smart enough to pick up a drooping wardrobe, yet moderately priced? Then try the fitted, young looking suits; jackets have high cut necklines, and the flared skirts keep the flare under control. These have a general streamline of sleek distinction. These suits are the finds of the week. Neutral colors that give you a subtle contrast are outstanding buys, with all shades of gray getting the spotlight. The grays are effective under all kinds of fur coats.

Expertly tailored details and fine lines that flatter distinguish these suits. Materials are sturdy woolens but soft, flexible, and feminized. The old time hard masculine outlines are gone. These have dressmaker softness without losing any of the crisp sleekness of tailoring. The necklines are new and high fashion; they are high, smooth, and expertly fitted. Great improvement has been made this season on the fit of collars and collarlines, the one tell-tale detail of any improperly tailored outfit.

Black, dull sage green, some unusually good looking soft dull blue tones, and smart caramel beige, together with a few high colors such as sherry red, old gold, carbon blue, and kelly green complete the newly unpacked collections of the season.

These will revive a wilting winter wardrobe and can be worn under a fur or cloth coat. All prices are moderate, with some rather exceptional price tags featured under the twenty dollar limit. Also ready for the mid-season rush for something new are the abundant showings of separate jackets and skirts that can be mixed as to color and pattern to serve as the same stimulant for a winter wardrobe.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

The Mirror.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 11.—Fannie Brice will be one of the girls in the Charlie Chaplin film! . . . Eleanor Whitney will become Mrs. Fred Backer shortly. . . . Oddly enough, they'll live at 29 East 64th street, in New York, which is where this reporter used to live. . . . Eddie [M.-G.-M.] Mannix, feeling a lot better, preparing to spend five weeks with Nick Schenck at Miami.

Olivia de Havilland will see "Wings of the Navy," with Howard Hughes. . . . The Max Factor Jr. stork will make a landing any minute. . . . Mary Carlisle, with Junior Laemmle, who is a nice little guy. . . . Tony and Renee de Marco have reconciled, the money angle being all straightened out. . . . Ruby Mercer, Metropolitan soprano, flew back east in the private plane of Col. William Neblett, stormy petrel of California politics. . . . Carole Lombard in a brown beret at the Vine Street Derby, George Burns in a blue beret: She is much prettier.

Sign of change: At the La Brea and Sunset studios, where Charlie Chaplin will make his satire on dictators, technicians installing sound equipment on the stages. . . . Hollywood discovered sound in 1929; Chaplin is discovering it ten years later.

Baritone John Dickson will pinch hit for Nelson Eddy. . . . Now it's Hedy Lemarr and Eddie Norris. . . . Alan Mowbray, reëlected head of the British war veterans, plans an Anglo-American banquet at the Masquers. . . . The British war vets probably are the only organization in this country which opens all of its affairs by drinking a toast to the President of the United States. . . . The toast to the king follows.

Judith Barrett and Matty Fox carrying on. . . . Jinx Falkenberg showing Bob Taplinger something about tennis. . . . Reason that Ellsworth Vines had trouble getting started against Donald Budge was a tennis elbow. . . . He has to have it treated after every match.

Grace Hayes, former vaudeville headliner and still an eyeful, has made a tremendous success of her unusual club on Ventura boulevard. . . . Miss Hayes sank her last penny in fashioning an intimate room [it's the only night club in the world with an open fireplace] and it clicked immediately. . . . She and her son, Lynn, big league mimic, supply the bulk of the entertainment. . . . Novelty most appreciated is when he calls on guests in the room to do a parody on a "Gone with the Wind" script.

The guests read the lines of Scarlett, Rhett, and Papa O'Hara into a mike and then the wax record is played back so that the room can hear it. . . . It is good for plenty of laughs and the amateurs love the sensation of being actors.

The motif is extended to the rest rooms. . . . Over the entrance to the ladies' lounge is the sign "Scarlett" and the men's lounge is indicated by the placard "Rhett." . . . Charlie Foy, Neville Fleeson, Margaret Young, and whatever celebs are in the place let down their hair and supplement the regular entertainment. . . . It's a lot of fun.

Kay Francis and her Baron Barnekow at the "Jesse James" preview, Kay very stunning. . . . The former Viola Dana at House of Murphy with Hubby Jimmy Thompson, long hitting golf pro. . . . At an adjacent table, Bill Frawley entertaining the Horton Smiths. . . . Betty Compson with Max Marx. . . . Iris Winters looking soulfully at Red Golden, M.-G.-M. assistant director. . . . Eddie Judson and Rita Hayworth.

Mrs. Ross Clark, now in Pittsburgh with her mother, will rush back to be with her hubby. One of the better Bel-Air golfers. . . . At least he took Director Bill Seiter and yours truly over the hurdles yesterday. . . . Russell Swan a big hit at the Ambassador with his sleight-of-hand. . . . Patsy Kelly and Tommy Riley. . . . Federals arriving to examine thirteen movie stars in the Filipino bond scandal. . . . Performers may have talent at entertaining, but they certainly fall for more gold-bricks than any other section of the population.

Henry Fonda, who, like Fred Astaire, hails from Omaha, ran away with "Jesse James," and Randy Scott scored impressively. . . . Fonda brought sincerity to the part of Frank James, and his performance was so true that he made all the rest of the company appear to be straining for effects. . . . His one scene with Tyrone Power [Jesse James], when Fonda tells of his younger brother, was the high spot of the picture, at least to his reviewer.

Next to it would rank Nancy Kelly's melodramatic but effective scene with the baby. . . . Miss Kelly, the Twentieth Century-Fox dramatic white hope, is just a little too intense on the screen, a heritage of the legit stage. . . . That can be toned down easily. . . . Most of the audience felt that Tyrone Power was miscast as Jesse James. . . . Darryl Zanuck had better select Power's rôles with more discrimination from this point on or he is going to ruin a very valuable piece of box office bric-à-brac. . . . That is one man's opinion.

Jack Waldron squelches a drunk at Maxie Rosenbloom's café: "Even hecklers lay an egg in this place," flips Waldron. . . . "Paddy" Moore, Sammy Lewis, and a third youngster turn in a hoofing act at Maxie's place that is big-timey, the girl having a nice flair for comedy in addition to her expert dancing.

Sponsors have banned studio applause for the show featuring the Marx brothers, Lawrence Tibbett, Carole Lombard, and Cary Grant [bet even money they switch to studio applause two weeks after]. . . . Trocadero, once the No. 1 night club of the stars, passed out of favor quickly, the Earl Carroll club delivering the final death blow. . . . Victor Hugo's, John Steinberg's place, has grabbed the cinema trade. . . . It declared a dividend last week.

Women-on-Juries Day Planned for March 3

Plans for an Illinois Women-on-Juries day on March 3 were made yesterday at a meeting of a subcommittee of the Illinois committee for women on juries. Participating will be the Illinois League of Women Voters, the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and the Women's Bar Association of Illinois. Attorney Matilda Fenberg is chairman of the committee.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Did you ever notice that it's in the application of cheek rouge that most women botch the important job of making up their faces? Some use too much, some use the wrong shade, some just don't get it on straight. And on occasion some of us, usually when we're in a hurry, are guilty on all three counts. We'd be the first to admit that we've had some shocks at the sight of our own face an hour after we dashed out of the house in the morning.

The fashion lately has been to use too little rather than too much—and that's all to the good. It's better to be pale than to have a flaming face. But even in using that little bit it's been a daily problem for many women to get the cream rouge on smoothly, with no hard edges.

In a cream rouge texture is just about everything. If it is stiff not even an expert can blend it properly. We're glad to report that recently there have been some truly important changes in the base formulas.

One house has done a marvelous job in this respect. Its cream rouges are of a newer, different, distinctly better texture. In the jar the rouge is almost "runny," almost a liquid cream; it spreads evenly and smoothly, with no breaking down into patches. The old flaw—one many of us have noticed in our rouges—of having the texture change as the rouge ages, is completely done away with. This retains the creamy, smooth texture.

Because the base is much improved, the shades are clearer and truer and the original color is retained. You can match your lip stick perfectly. Another forward step in the creation of this new formula is the elimination of some "suspect" ingredients for the benefit of those with allergies.

These rouges made by the new formula are heaven-sent for women who prefer a cream but find that the ordinary variety is often too stiff for skilful blending. They come in beautiful shades [no trick ones] and there are lip sticks that match precisely.

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

In a railway station a young man, apparently dying, gives the hero his wallet and baggage check to claim his luggage and get his medicine. Before he can carry out the errand Detective Mike Clancy starts to arrest him as a fugitive bank teller. But the dying man creates a diversion and the hero escapes. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, boards the train, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him since babyhood.

INSTALMENT IV.

IN THE ROLE OF ANOTHER.

What I didn't know was the personal history of Pete Bowman, the grizzled emperor of this wilderness who, according to Sherif Johnson's hasty recital, was born in a wagon box on the way west from Westport Landing, Mo., sometime in the late fifties. The east was too cramped and citified for his pioneer father. He wanted room to raise his kids out in the open.

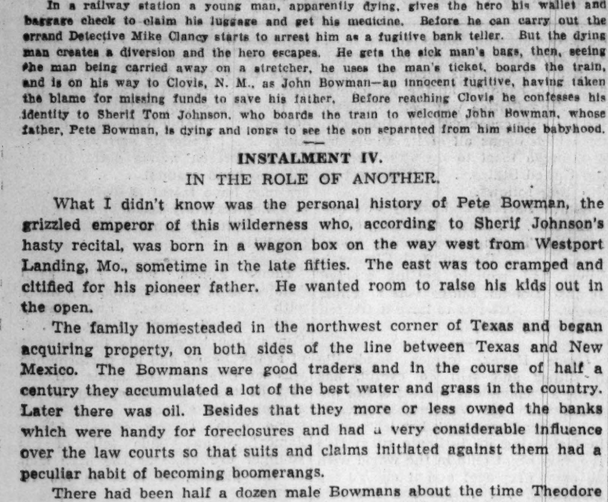
The family homesteaded in the northwest corner of Texas and began acquiring property, on both sides of the line between Texas and New Mexico. The Bowmans were good traders and in the course of half a century they accumulated a lot of the best water and grass in the country. Later there was oil. Besides that they more or less owned the banks which were handy for foreclosures and had a very considerable influence over the law courts so that suits and claims initiated against them had a peculiar habit of becoming boomerangs.

There had been half a dozen male Bowmans about the time Theodore Roosevelt wanted some rough riding done on San Juan hill, but ten years or so later, owing to one thing and another, only Pete Bowman, the youngest son, and Matilda, his sister, were left. Pete was past fifty, and it suddenly occurred to him that he ought to do something conventional about providing an heir for the vast territory which bore the family name.

Matilda had proven a washout in the matrimonial stakes. Perhaps she wasn't the type. Her one love affair was with a slim young Spaniard named Ramon Fernandez, who subsequently joined a wild west show and got himself killed bulldogging a steer. Matilda was faithful to his memory and never married, although the fact that he had not been equally steadfast was attested by a son whose mother was one of those numerous cow ladies who broke glass balls with a rifle.

"So," Sherif Tom Johnson hastily sketched a conclusion to his tale, "Pete went east and married himself an English girl who was visiting in Baltimore. Probably she'd heard about his money." He paused and rubbed his chin. "Mebbe I ain't fair to her because she really did try to make a go of it. Stayed on the job five years and had two kids. You're the oldest—I mean John is. Pete was a tough hombre to get along with, I admit, and I don't suppose he knew much about handlin' women. Matilda helped mess things up, too—she lived with 'em and you know how two women are in the same house.

"Anyhow, Pete's wife up and got a divorce. She asked for the son—just for meanness, Pete thought,



He was the most cowboy anybody ever saw.

'cause he wanted the boy himself on account of keeping' the name—and the judge awarded John to her, along with a crackin' lot of alimony to carry on with.

"That's the last anybody saw of her or John. We heard she educated him partly abroad and then sent him to college back here in America some place. She's dead now, I think, but Pete's lawyers located the boy for him and he sent for him."

Tom leaned back comfortably in the seat. "Any questions you want to ask?"

"What happened to the girl?"

"O, Mary. Matilda brought her up and now she's goin' to marry Charles Ferdinand—that's the name of the son of Matilda's old sweetheart. Matilda got Pete to put Charles in as manager of the ranch about five years ago. If the name fools yuh it's because his mammy changed it from Fernandez to Ferdinand for show purposes when he was a little shaver doin' trick ridin' in the arena.

"Charles Ferdinand would probably still be troupin' with a second rate wild west show except that Matilda, who was still sorrowin' over his worthless daddy, hunted him out and decided to educate him. That was all right with his mother, who couldn't handle him nohow—he was that wild. So he was sent to this school and that—none of 'em seemed to want him around for long—but he got quite a lot of learnin' one way and another and then Matilda nagged Pete into makin' him ranch manager.

"Ferdinand and me didn't get along so very good so I quit and got fired simultaneous. Ferdinand, he hired himself a lot of riff-raff—some of 'em downright crooks, in my opinion, and I couldn't stomach the outfit nohow. Pete didn't like my leavin' him hardly any, but by that time he was failin' considerable and Matilda had him under her thumb. And besides Charles wanted to run a dude ranch as a sideline and I wasn't that kind of a cowhand."

We were coming into Amarillo. The sheriff looked out the window. "I was aimin' to get off here so the folks wouldn't see me and guess we'd cooked up something. What do yuh say, son? Seein' as how John Bowman can't git here in time, will yuh pretend like yuh was him for a couple days just so's not to disappoint his dyin' father?"

I shook my head. "It's no go, Tom. It wouldn't be right to fool an old man like that. I'm no actor, anyway."

"You wouldn't have to be. I forget to mention it. Pete's paralyzed and can't talk. He couldn't tell nobody if he knew you wasn't John. But he won't know—in fact, he'll be mighty pleased you turned out to be his kind of a man, just like I am. You look hard and tough, like a Bowman ought to."

I shook my head. "I'm sorry, but I couldn't go through with it."

The train was coming to a full stop. A cowboy yell outside on the platform made us both look out the window.

There on the platform were a man and a girl. The man was tall, athletic, handsome, blond, dressed in a white silk shirt, white Stetson, and white trousers tucked into black cowboy boots. It was he who was letting out the yells and waving his hat. I noticed that his hair was curly.

His getup and actions were so spectacular that I didn't really notice the girl at first. She seemed just a well dressed young woman who might come down to the station in any town to meet friends coming in on the afternoon train.

I looked questionably at Tom.

He grinned, not any too happily, though. "The beans are now plumb in the fire. That's Charles Ferdinand come to meet you here in Amarillo instead of Clovis. What yuh goin' to do now?"

There was only one thing I could do. I grabbed the suit case. "I'm moving up forward into the chair car. Maybe——"

But outside the drawing room door, in the car itself came again that startling "Yippee!" given by a man with a good set of lungs.

I looked at Tom. "Does everybody out here yell like that?"

"No," he said, "that ain't customary. But Charles, like I been tellin' yuh, is the most cowboy anybody ever seen. He makes a specialty of it."

The door was yanked open.

"John Bowman, you old son of a gun!" The man in white stopped short as he started to extend his hand. He looked at Tom Johnson and scowled. "O, hello, sherif, I see you've already met my future brother-in-law, Mr. Bowman."

Tom Johnson gazed at me with well simulated surprise. "Is this Mr. Bowman? I don't recollect that the gentleman mentioned his name."

"Well, that's who he is."

"Glad to have met yuh, Mr. Bowman." The sherif took my hand and as he shook it winked at me malliciously. "I'll be leavin'. Find me in my office in Clovis if you're in town. Got some business to transact here in Amarillo right now. Feller got away from the police in Chicago—headin' this way, I understand."

With that, which might be a threat if I chose to take it that way, the pudgy representative of the law vacated his place in the drawing room to make room for the young woman standing behind the man in the white suit.

"Glad to see you, Mary," was all he said in passing.

ing Jan. 24. Mrs. Laura Hughes Linde, chairman of the department of government and education of the League of Women Voters; Clifford Shaw of the Institute for Juvenile Research, and Albert Lepawski of the department of political science at the University of Chicago, will be the other speakers. Mrs. Frank Sims is chairman of the committee in charge of the series.

Needlework Guild Hears Textile Expert.

About two hundred women assembled in Fullerton hall of the Art institute yesterday morning to hear Alan J. B. Wace lecture for the fourth time for the Needlework and Textile guild of the institute. Mr. Wace, professor of classical archæology at Cambridge university and formerly the keeper of textiles of the Victoria and Albert museum in London, spoke to members of the guild and their guests in 1930, 1933, and 1936.

This time he was accompanied by his wife, an American, and their little daughter, who were in the audience. "Turkish and Italian Textiles in Paintings" was the title of the interesting illustrated lecture. One of those who heard him was Mrs. E. Crane Chadbourne, who had arrived in the city from her home in Stone Ridge, N. Y., earlier in the morning. She is visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank R. Lillie, on the south side for a few days and then will go to Mrs. Richard T. Crane's on Lake Shore drive for a brief stay before returning home.

Polly Powell to Become Bride in England Today.

The marriage of Miss Polly Powell, daughter of Thomas Carr Powell of Gloucester, Mass., formerly of Chicago, to Henry Fisk Tarbox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lord Tarbox of New York, will take place today in England. The ceremony will be read in the Holy Trinity church, in Rudgwick, Sussex, with a reception following at Hale, Rudgwick, the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Edward Francis Powell. Because Mrs. Powell is in mourning for her husband, only the families and a few close friends in England were invited to the reception.

After Feb. 1 Mr. Tarbox and his bride will be at home near London.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Thorne [Marianne Stevenson] are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, their third child, on Sunday at the Passavant hospital. The baby has been named Sheila. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. George A. Thorne and of the late Robert Stevenson. The Thornes' other children are Bruce Jr. and Elizabeth.

Mrs. Mark Morton Is Recovering.

Mrs. Mark Morton, who is at the Alice Home hospital recovering from a broken hip, will remain there for about two weeks more. Her daughter, Miss Jane Morton, who was about to leave for a holiday at her cabin in Desbarats, Ont., naturally stayed at home when her mother had the accident. Since she had opened the cabin on a previous visit this winter, Miss Morton may make a quick trip north later to close it.

A play written by Mme. Jeanne Emmelia Sorson and acted by Mrs. Edward Mahon will be the entertainment at the weekly causerie of the Alliance Française at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Charles Sterling, attaché of the Louvre museum in Paris, will be the especial guest. Mrs. Edward A. Leight and Mrs. Milan H. Hulbert will be hostesses at tea, assisted by Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth and Miss Emily Larned. Pouring will be Mrs. James H. Winston and Mrs. Moise Dreyfus.

Mrs. Herman Albert Behrens is opening her home at 179 Lake Shore drive at 2 o'clock this afternoon to the Tower Town Friends of the Chicago Junior school for a benefit program. Maeve MacMurrough will read Irish poetry and give character sketches, and Richard C. Wheeler will sing.

Portrait of Dean Mumford Is Presented to U. of I.

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 11.—(AP)—A portrait of the late Herbert W. Mumford, for sixteen years dean of the college of agriculture, was presented to the University of Illinois today. Dean Mumford's only grandson, Robert Raymond Kimbell Jr., 4 years old, of Wheaton, unveiled the portrait. Presentation of the portrait was made by Dean J. C. Blair, successor to Mumford, and President A. C. Willard accepted for the university before a farm and home week audience.

Industrial Nurses.

The Industrial Nurses' association will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Nursing headquarters, 8 South Michigan avenue. Miss Anna L. Tittman, director of the Nurse Placement bureau, will speak.

Musical Insects Give Program in Embroidery Motif

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is a chance to meet the bee family and all its talented and musical friends. This clever hot iron transfer pattern containing the bees, beetle, lady bug, snail, and cricket, denotes their musical ability, which we all have encountered at one time or another. The figures may be arranged on a children's luncheon set, and as individual designs on bibs, towels, pillows, wall hangings or what-you-will. They are simple embroidery and most colorful.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the bee family, No. X-547, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

ENGAGEMENTS

Dean and Mrs. Allen S. Whitney of Ann Arbor, Mich., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joan Elizabeth, to Bruce Thomas Telfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Telfer of 2201 West 110th place.

Miss Whitney was graduated from the Emma Willard school at Troy, N. Y., and from the University of Michigan. Mr. Telfer was graduated from Lake Forest academy and from the University of Michigan, where he now is studying in the law school. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Busey Riley of Champaign, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Charles Edwin Odegaard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Odegaard of Evanston.

Miss Riley attended St. Katherine's school in Davenport, Ia., and was graduated from the Baldwin school in Bryn Mawr, Pa. She also attended the College Montmorency in Paris and was graduated from the University of Illinois.

Mr. Odegaard was graduated from Dartmouth college and took two years of graduate work at Harvard university. He has studied abroad and received his doctor of philosphy degree from Harvard. He now is an instructor in history at the University of Illinois. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas King Faherty of 3750 Lake Shore drive have announced the engagement of their daughter, Regina Elizabeth, to D. Clyde Keyes of Raleigh, N. C. No date has been set for the wedding.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Question 36 of the recent examination revealed at least one highly interesting and significant fact: Asking bids are far from dead! This question was:

With both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass

You are South and hold:

♠ K 9 7 5 4 3 2 ♥ 6 ♦ A K Q ♣ A 5

What call do you make now and [in a few words] what is the object of your call?

The correct answer was that South should bid four no trump, either as a Culbertson 4-5 no trump conventional bid or as the Blackwood convention. I did not think it necessary to point out that no question would be based on an asking bid situation, but neither did I want to rule out asking bids as possible solutions. To my great surprise, some six thousand of the twenty-odd thousand answers that reached me gave either a four club or four heart asking bid as the proper action for South to take. The official answer pointed out that there would be no demerit for four clubs if used as an asking bid, but this provision did not apply to a bid of four hearts. If players continue to use asking bids [in accordance with my statement that experienced partnerships can profit from their use] they must select the proper asking bid in a given situation. In this particular hand South can elicit better information by use of a four club bid than by bidding four hearts. To four clubs, North may be able to respond with four no trump, showing second round control and two outside aces. To five hearts, North cannot tell South anything about the club control.

While it is quite true that the mere location of two aces in North's hand makes a grand slam an odds-on chance, it is equally true that if an asking bid is going to be used it may as well be made in the proper suit.

TODAY'S HAND.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	NORTH
	♠ Q J 7 ♥ Q 7 5 ♦ Q J 6 3 ♣ 6 5 4
WEST		EAST
♠ A 8 ♥ K 10 6 4 2 ♦ A 9 8 ♣ J 7 2		♠ 9 6 4 3 2 ♥ 9 8 3 ♦ 5 2 ♣ Q 10 3
	SOUTH
	♠ K 10 6 ♥ A J ♦ K 10 7 4 ♣ A K 9 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

The most important question for a defender to ask himself is "What is the possible chink in the declarer's armor?" Once that question is intelligently answered, the best line of defense is automatically resolved.

West opened his fourth highest heart. Declarer won with the jack and led a low diamond. West held off for one round, but took his ace at the third trick and then had to consider what line of play, if any, would defeat the contract. He was tempted to lead a club on the theory that East might be able to win and return a heart through declarer's marked ace. But proper consideration of the bidding convinced West that it was very unlikely that East could hold either the ace of clubs or the king-queen. Declarer could have no high honor except the king in spades and in diamonds, hence, to have been justified in his one and three no trump bids could not possibly have held less than the ace-queen of clubs. If West made any shift at this point, it was highly probable that declarer could win, cash diamond tricks, and then knock out West's spade ace, all this while retaining control of the heart suit. Hence, by the process of elimination, it became clear to West that the one hope was that declarer had started with only two hearts, the ace and jack. If that condition held true, another heart lead at this point would knock out the ace and West, on getting the lead with the spade ace, would be able to run the heart suit. Having come to this sound conclusion, West led another heart, and from that point on declarer had no chance to fulfill his contract.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

Men Usually Take Jilting Too Humbly

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Sometimes, from the tales reported to us, we wonder if men do not take a turndown from a girl harder than when the situation is reversed and the girl finds herself out on the limb of forgotten ones.

Jack adds another chapter to the tales of how bitterly men take defeat from a triumphant rival. Perhaps it is because men are more keyed to competition that they resign from a scene with so little grace. Or, perhaps, we are only generalizing and it is not the rule among men to keep on bombarding a girl with attempts to recapture her attention once she has told him her interest lies elsewhere.

It may just be that we do not hear from the strong, silent ones who swallow their pride and march on. Jack does sound like a weak one. He pleads, he begs his former girl to come back to him. He admits even to crying. He tells her that this other fellow, in whom she is now interested is not her equal, that only unhappiness can come of the association. The girl turns a deaf ear to each and every appeal.

Three years Jack kept the girl a-hanging. He was not sure himself that he would marry, as we get it, until the rival appeared on the scene. Then he wanted the girl and for the first time proposed marriage. It's plain that the girl is through with Jack, that she has found one in whom she puts her future trust. She has told Jack so repeatedly, but still he hangs on.

How much is genuine in Jack's attachment and how much is pique over a successful rival we do not presume to know. But when a girl decides the episode is closed it should be accepted by the man as closed. His only hope of reinstatement is getting out like a man.

GIVE UP HOPE FOR 71 YEAR OLD YANKEE OWNER

Grows Weaker in Deep Sleep.

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A bulletin at midnight from the bedside of Col. Jacob Ruppert said the multi-millionaire brewer and owner of the New York Yankees was "growing perceptibly weaker" and there was doubt whether his unusual vitality would carry him through the night. He is suffering from phlebitis, an inflamation of the veins, and has been in a critical condition since last night.

Col. Ruppert spent most of the day in a deep sleep. At 10:30 o'clock tonight he awoke and was able to take some nourishment consisting of milk, egg, and whisky. He seemed to relish the nourishment, Dr. Otto Schwerdtfeger said, but then began to lose consciousness.

Drops Into Deep Sleep.

Later Dr. Schwerdtfeger said the 71 year old bachelor had dropped into a deep sleep, but that he was not unconscious. His executive secretary, Albert Brennan, said Ruppert was weaker and that he appeared to be in a "sinking sleep."

Col. Ruppert has been ill since last April, but it was not until last night that his condition became critical. Through the night he alternately lapsed into coma and regained consciousness. This morning he emerged from the coma and recognized Brennan.

"Hello, Al," he whispered. "I wish I could get up."

Relatives Give Up Hope.

Tonight family friends and relatives, who have been at the bedside continuously, expressed the opinion that death was "only a matter of hours." The members of Col. Ruppert's family are a sister, brother, two nephews, and three nieces.

1,215 NAMED FOR 1942 BELMONT FUTURITY FIELD

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Nominations for the Futurity of 1942 have run far ahead of those received for the historic stakes which will be decided at Belmont Park next year. One hundred and thirty-seven nominators entered 1,215 horses for the fifty-second renewal of the classic. This is an increase of 107 entries over last year, when only 116 breeders were represented.

A. B. Hancock of Kentucky leads the list of nominators with seventy-six entries. The Audley farm is second with fifty-seven, and Willis Sharpe Kilmer third with fifty. Then follow Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt with forty-seven; Warren Wright, forty-five; F. B. Koontz, thirty-seven; Cornelius V. Whitney, thirty-four; Edward R. Bradley, thirty-two, and Mrs. Payne Whitney, twenty-seven.

BALL WRITERS TO HOLD ANNUAL PARTY TONIGHT

The "Diamond Dinner," which is to become an annual event sponsored by the Chicago chapter of the Baseball Writers Association, will be held tonight in the Palmer House. The writers will play host to officials of the White Sox and Cubs, to President William Harridge and his American league staf, and to representatives from the office of Commissioner K. M. Landis. The commissioner couldn't keep the date because of a previously arranged Florida vacation.

QUITS HOSPITAL AFTER NIGHT OF OBSERVATION

Denies Reports of Heart Ailment.

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth, king of home run hitters, returned home today from French hospital, where he remained overnight for observation following a heart attack. Dr. Robert H. McConnell, medical director of the hosptial, said Ruth's condition is not serious, but that Babe had gone to the hospital for a general checkup.

Ruth suffered a mild attack in his home Sunday night, friends said. He remained in bed at his apartment, attended by Dr. McConnell and nurses, until yesterday.

He Worries About Colonel.

"I've just been feeling out of sorts for a couple of days, so I came to the hospital to see what it's all about," Ruth said. "Naw, I'm not sick—not serious, at all."

Ruth was more concerned with the illness of Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees and Babe's former boss.

"Gee, the colonel is one grand fellow," he said. "I'm certainly sorry he's so sick. What's the last report you've had on him?"

Friends of the Babe believe that his recent exertions in golf and reducing workouts may have brought on his illness.

Mrs. Ruth seemed little worried about rumors of a heart condition.

Mrs. Ruth Is Calm.

"We've been hearing stories about the Babe's heart for ten years," she said, "but so far we are glad to report it hasn't bothered him. When he was sick back in 1929 they said it was his heart and when the heat got the better of him last year they said the same thing. So far we don't know a thing about it."

Dr. McConnell replied to a question as to Ruth's heart condition, with the statement that it is Ruth's "private business," but he, too, insisted "everything is satisfactory."

"He can play golf or go hunting any time," Dr. McConnell said. "His condition is all right and the examination I made came out very well. None of his activities will be curtailed, although you understand Mr. Ruth at 45 can't do all the things Babe could do at 20."

Babe's only worry is that the illness might curtail his golf.

No Trip to Bermuda.

His annual trip to Bermuda has been cancelled, but with spring-like weather in New York he doesn't mind.

"Why," he shouted, "with this weather, I can go out to any club right around here. I've been playing St. Alban's regularly and the weather's just as nice here as anywhere else."

He's been hunting upstate on two or three occasions, the last trip ending two days before Christmas.

"You can see just about how badly off he is," Mrs. Ruth said. "He's come home from each trip with a bag full of game. And no very sick man is going to do that."

MINNESOTA'S football receipts in 1937 totaled $327,211.24. . . . The cost of conducting the sport reached $49,100, of which $21,200 represented salaries for one full and ten part time coaches. . . . College basketball games in Madison Square Garden have an average attendance of 12,000 for four seasons, a far better figure than either boxing or hocky can boast. . . . Fred Hutchinson, the Tigers' gilt edged rookie pitcher from Seattle, batted .316 in the Pacific Coast league last season. . . .

The Harvey, Ill., Knights of Columbus are sponsoring a testimonial banquet for Joe Beinor, Notre Dame's All-America tackle, in Thornton Township High school next Tuesday night. . . . Paul Derringer of the Reds has given only 446 bases on balls in his 2,043 innings in the majors. . . . Larry Buhler, Minnesota full back, keeps as a souvenir the crowbar used to remove him from that wrecked automobile. . . . Walter Hagen appeared in Menominee, Mich., for a golf exhibition one afternoon when 400 were awaiting him on the first tee in Menomonie, Wis. . . . How was the Haig to know that in Michigan they spelled it with an "i" and a double "ee," and in Wisconsin with an "o," followed by "ie"? . . . This may serve as a warning to American pros who plan to compete in the Canadian open tournament next August at St. John, N. B. . . . Canada also boasts a St. John's, Que., and a St. John's, Newfoundland. . . . Despite the "s" on the last two there have been some dandy examples of confusion, including the case of a circus of 850 performers, who showed up in St. John's, N. Several Bradley Tech boxers will compete in the Peoria Golden Gloves tournament. . . . If all the star pitchers with ailing arms could be mended and combined into one staf, even P. K. Wrigley or Jake Ruppert wouldn't care to pay their salaries. . . . The list would include Carl Hubbell, Van Mungo, Schoolboy Rowe, Paul and Dizzy Dean, Johnny Allen, Hal Schumacher, and Lefty Grove. . . . Twenty-eight new outboard and inboard motor boat records were established in 1938. . . . The New York football Giants have donated their 1938 uniforms to Attica, N. Sometime, with families of their own,
They will understand, I am sure;
And feel the same as I do tonight
When they hear the key in the door.

The Day I Became a Man.

"Some folks are just too darned showy,
Dress up bright and talk too loud,
They're the ones whom people point to,
Stand out strong in any crowd.

Don't be like them and their faking,
Be the modest, well bred kind,
They just flash some smiles and laughter,
Hide their missing peace of mind.

Tears are background of their acting,
They're not cheerful as they seem.
Happiness must come from under,
Life is real and not a dream."

Nuts to you, I muttered softly,
I'll not mope on any shelf.
But now I know how wrong I figured,
I've been fooling just myself.
—Insurance Exchange Will.

Dusting Off the Old Ones.

Then there was the captain who, worn out by his efforts in maneuvering his ship during a storm, retired to his cabin and ordered a glass of wine. When asked what kind he wanted, the grizzled seafarer replied: "O, any old port in a storm."

MAX SCHMELING ANNOUNCES HE PLANS COMEBACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—"I am not quitting with a knockout on my record."

With that statement, Max Schmeling, who was knocked out by Joe Louis in the first round of their heavyweight championship bout last summer, today confirmed reports that he contemplates a comeback. Max said he probably would return to the ring in April or May.

NAVY QUINTET TRIUMPHS, 47-37, OVER MARYLAND

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Navy's basketball team beat the University of Maryland, 47 to 37, today.

With Capt. Bob Laney, George Ghesquiere and Bob Lee towering above all the Maryland players, the Midshipmen took an early lead and remained ahead all the way.

Laney scored 10 field goals and Ghesquiere 7, giving Navy 34 of its points.

LONG ISLAND FIVE TRIUMPHS, 41-34, OVER MARQUETTE

Extra Man Power Wears Down Hilltoppers.

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The Long Island university basketball team defeated Marquette, 41 to 34, before 12,433 in Madison Square Garden tonight. L. I. U. scored its tenth straight victory by wearing down the Milwaukee quintet with its limitless supply of reserves. It came from behind to tie the score for the tenth and last time five minutes before the end and then drove through the rest of the way for a clear cut triumph.

St. John's Wins Opener.

St. John's college defeated St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, 43 to 31, in the first game of the double bill.

Marquette had all the weapons except reserve strength. It was five men against ten. While the Milwaukee players were fresh they more than held their own with the so-called invincibles from Long Island. Until it tired in the last five minutes, Marquette showed the most effective defense seen in New York this season.

Dan Kaplowitz, speedy forward, went to work midway in the second half to lead Long Island's winning drive and his six points were needed to offset the show Marquette's Sparky Adams put on in the first period when he shot five field goals in the space of four minutes.

Hillhouse Leads Scoring.

Art Hillhouse, 6 foot 6 inch center, paced the Long Island attack with 14 points. Lineups:

BRADLEY, 49; DUQUESNE, 43

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A basket from the center of the floor in the last fifteen seconds by Kenny Olson, Tech guard, sent the Bradley-Duquesne game into overtime tonight and Bradley won out, 49 to 43, before 5,000.

Duquesne had a 35 to 29 lead with seven minutes remaining and led, 40 to 34, with four minutes left. Then Lloyd Bortel, Tecl. reserve, made two baskets, but Morrie Becker of Duquesne sent his team ahead, 42 to 38, with two minutes left. Olson hit from the side and after a minute and a half of wild play he took aim from the center of the floor to send the game into overtime.

Then Duquesne got reckless and Bradley had chances at seven free throws, making three. A basket from the side by Ted Panish, Bradley guard, and a followup shot by Dar Hutchins put Tech farther in front. Lineups:

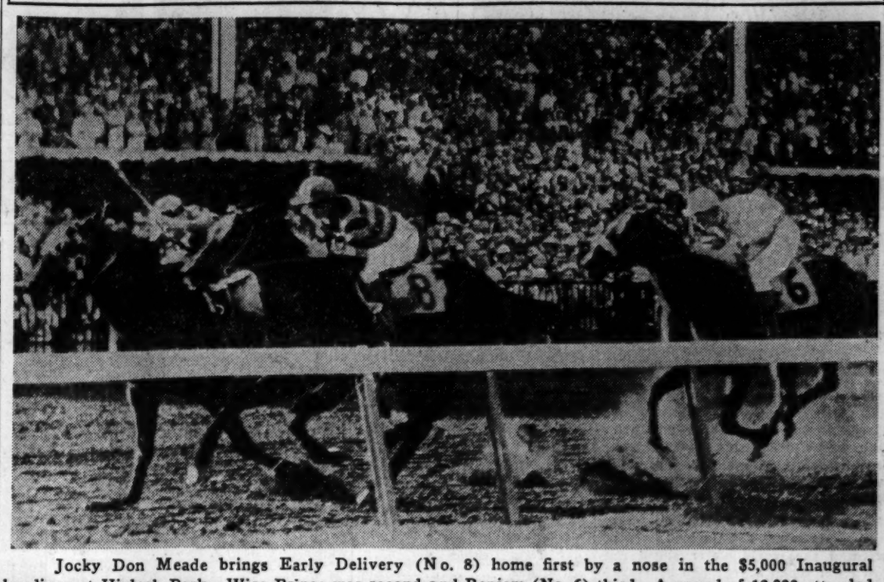
Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Phillies announced today they had signed Joe Dickinson, 22 years old, a tall right-handed pitcher from Cedarville, N. J. He played last year with Cornwall in the Canadian-American league and formerly belonged to Buffalo of the International league.

Early Delivery and Meade by a Nose



Jocky Don Meade brings Early Delivery (No. 8) home first by a nose in the $5,000 Inaugural handicap at Hialeah Park. Wise Prince was second and Benjam (No. 6) third. A crowd of 12,000 attended the opening of the 46 day meeting. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

MEADE RETURNS TO HIALEAH; HE WINS A THRILLER

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Jocky Don Meade, whose case was a cause celebre when he was under Florida suspension for almost three years, became a hero today when he emerged the winning rider aboard Early Delivery in the Hialeah Park inaugural handicap after one of the most thrilling finishes this race track has seen.

Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's color bearer led from start to finish under Meade's vigorous handling. He was a bare nose ahead of Wise Prince at the end of the six furlongs. He returned $40.10, and earned $5,070 of the $6,820 purse.

Delicate Work for Judges.

The race was so close the 12,000 opening day patrons did not know the winner. There was even delay in the camera decision. The placing judges later agreed that the finish was about as close to a dead heat as possible, without actually being even, and they took extra time for deliberation.

Just failing to make the grade, after a late rush under Wayne Wright, Felix Spatola's Wise Prince was one of those most heavily backed in the field of fourteen. The favored entry of Bigey and Galapas finished far back, partly due to interference. Early Delivery was timed in 1:10 2-5 over a fast track and under 111 pounds.

Benjam was third, a length and a half back, and Floragina was two lengths back in fourth place.

"This is where I was banned and this is where I want to come back by winning the first race of the meeting and also the feature race," said Jocky Meade before the races began. He did just that and more.

Not a Bad Day's Work.

Reinstated in time for the opening at Tropical Park, Meade had been steadily in action there. He had six mounts today, getting three winners and being second aboard Loveday in the Biscayne Bay purse. He made it a triple in the nightcap on Jinx. He won on Rancho's Girl in the opener.

Early Delivery was in front at once and he rushed out strongly to make good the advantage of his No. 2 post position. First Floragina and then Benjam could make no dent in the leader's advantage. Wise Prince all this time was unable to do very much back in the pack. Wright finally got the 7 year old into clear racing room, coming to the top of the stretch. He went to the inside to find a hole, then to the outside in the final run to get around Benjam and Floragina.

Connie Mack Leaves for Florida Vacation

"I'm not even going to golf," said the 76 year old leader of the A's. "I may do a little fishing, however."

Mack said he would go direct from Fort Myers to the A's camp at Lake Charles, La., when training begins March 1.

Mr. Hammerlock Sees Light; Rassling Renews Hold on Him

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Hemingway Hammerlock, that old cynic among rassling connoisseurs, was converted last night to the new school of grappling. Hemingway saw the light at the regular Wednesday evening mat entertainment arranged by Fred Kohler in the Rainbo Fronton.

A group of his cronies found Mr. Hammerlock at his club yesterday, wrapped in a mood of nostalgia and an old dressing gown which had once belonged to Able Coleman. Hemingway was browsing through his world famed collection of wrestlingana. There were etchings of Londos at the beach, Londos at breakfast, and Londos with the Boy Scouts on Goose Island. There was the splinter of a chair through which Everett Marshall had crashed one gay night at the Coliseum. There was even a rare old print of Crybaby Zaharias smiling.

Poo-Poohs the Idea.

Invited to join his friends at the Fronton fête, Mr. Hammerlock snorted: "Bah, this 1939 wrestling. How can they hope to recapture the mood of the early '30s? Gentlemen, wrestling was an art then. I fair weep at the memory of those first nights at the Coliseum and the Stadium. Londos, Zaharias, Marshall, Stecher, Lewis, Savoldi, Coleman, Sonnenberg, George, and O, yes, the jolly Dusek brothers.

"Many's the night I thrilled to their craftsmanship. And it was craftsmanship. Rudy Dusek's eye gouging, Londos' bicycle number, Marshall's bridgework, and Zaharias' sobbing. Where can you find their like today? Why should I fritter away an evening watching these modern upstarts?"

Hemingway refused to yield to his friends until one of them slyly mentioned the name "McMillen."

"Not old Jim McMillen?"

Gasped the skeptic, "He's on the program? Why Jim was as fine a trouper as ever rammed a toe against a break. Say, he was one of the old school. Where is this Fronton place?"

Thus it was that Hammerlock found himself at the Fronton with 2,101 customers, the like of which he admitted he never had seen in all his mat going nights. To the end, he remained fascinated by this new generation of addicts.

No Wonder They Like It.

Midway through the performance, the reason for their enthusiasm struck him. It was the snugness of the arena, combined with perfect acoustics, which made every fan's slightest witticism perfectly audible. Such remarks as "only a mother could love you" and "step on his kisser" could be heard out in Clark street.

Hemingway had been escorted to his pew by Kohler, who has conducted wrestling shows on the north side since 1932, and by Publicator Dick Axman, who told the old gent that the Londos school of grappling has been replaced by what he has christened streamlined wrestling.

Convinced in First Act.

Mr. Hammerlock sat stubbornly in his seat waiting to be shown this newfangled speed and trickery. He was convinced in the first act, in which Ray Clements of Lubbock, Tex., required just 19 minutes and 26 seconds to squelch Babe Kasaboski of Toronto with a body slam. Hemingway applauded Clements quite vehemently. He said the manner in which Clements kneaded Babe's features marked him as a comer.

A colored party from Boston, operating under the name of Rufus Jones, put over a villian's double in the second number by doing in the hero of the act, one Ken Fenelon of Dubuque, in 14:20. Justice triumphed in the third presentation, however, when Jack Claybourn, the Black Panther of Portland, Ore., won a 30 minute decision from Jack Hagen. The fourth novelty found Olaf Olson, the Swedish masseur, giving Bert Rubi of Detroit a free demonstration of his talents in 21 minutes and 12 seconds.

McMillen Gets a Draw.

Mr. Hammerlock was his old cheerful self as he left the performance after watching his idol McMillen struggle 60 minutes to a draw with Friedrich Von Schacht of Germany. He was, however, rather apologetic to his friends. "Gentlemen, let me make amends for my derogatory remarks of this afternoon. This is wrestling as is wrestling. So allow me to stand you to a cold bird and a bottle and will you be my guests next Wednesday night, when the Polish goliath, Wladyslaw Talun, performs at the Fronton?"

MONTREAL LOSES GEORGE MANTHA FOR TWO WEEKS

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 11.—(AP)—George Mantha, left winger with the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hocky league, will be out of action for two weeks because of a chipped ankle bone, club officials said tonight. They arranged to obtain Louis Trudel from New Haven in the International-American league before tomorrow night's game with Toronto. Trudel was acquired earlier this season from Chicago and farmed to New Haven.

Mantha, leading scorer of the Canadiens last year, was hurt Saturday in practice and the injury was aggravated Sunday in the Detroit game.

Trainer of Widener Cup Winner to Receive $5,000

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11.—(AP)—J. E. Widener, president of the Miami Jocky club, announced today a special award of $5,000 would be made to the trainer of the horse which wins the $50,000 added Widener challenge cup at Hialeah park March 4. "We have such splendid thoroughbreds nominated for the race that I believe the trainer of the winner is entitled to share the honors in a substantial way," Widener said.

FOUR KENTUCKY TRACKS AWARDED DATES FOR 1939

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Four Kentucky race tracks were awarded licenses today for the 1939 season by the Kentucky racing commission. The dates for Churchill Downs at Louisville, where the Kentucky Derby will be run on May 6, are from April 29 to May 20, Sundays included. The Keeneland track at Lexington will run from April 13 to April 27, excepting Sunday and Monday, while Dade Park, located at Henderson, was given the dates from Aug. 5 to Sept. 4, Sundays excluded. No dates for the Latonia oval, which is across the river from Cincinnati, were set, awaiting the allotment of Ohio's racing schedules.

CUBS RE-ELECT WRIGLEY; GETZ JR. NAMED ON BOARD

Philip K. Wrigley was reelected president of the Chicago National league club yesterday at the annual meeting of stockholders. All other officers and directors also remained in office. The board vacancy existing since the death of Vice President John O. Seys was filled by the naming of George F. Getz Jr. Beyond a statement that last season had been profitable, no announcement of the club's financial condition was made public.

James Farrell, Veteran Golf Teacher, Dies at 43

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—James C. Farrell, veteran golf professional and elder brother of Johnny Farrell, U. S. open golf champion in 1928, died today in a Brooklyn hospital after an illness of several months. He was 43. Farrell, who played little tournament golf, was known chiefly as an instructor. He was for many years the professional at the Quaker Ridge Golf club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and the St. Augustine links in St. Augustine, Fla.

EFRATI, LELLO FIGHT A DRAW IN PARK CASINO

Former Golden Gloves Champ Rallies in 10th.

Leone Efrati, Italian lightweight, fought a ten round draw with Pete Lello, 1936 Chicago Golden Gloves champion, in the Park Casino last night. Efrati partisans in the capacity crowd of 2,102 booed the decision. Gross receipts were $2,532.

Referee Phil Collins voted for Efrati, 53 to 47; Judge William O'Connell scored for Lello, 53 to 47, and the other judge, Rube Metz, marked his card a draw.

Lello Rallies in Tenth.

Regular starts since his arrival in this country from Rome, Italy, last September contributed to Leone's impressive showing. On the other hand, a layoff since last October didn't do Lello any good. They went into the last round on even terms.

Efrati started the round fast, but he tired and Lello rallied to hold him to a draw. Lello won the first four rounds. The fifth was even. Efrati then found the range to pile up points in the next four rounds.

Van der Hayden Wins.

George Van der Hayden, South Bend lightweight, defeated Nick Castiglione of the Italo-American Youth organization in an exciting five round semi-windup. The setback snapped the promising Castiglione's victory string at four.

Ray Harris, junior lightweight stablemate of Van der Hayden, conquered Gene Ward in a four round preliminary. In other fights Tony Sopke, west side 154 pounder, knocked out Mike Tuska of Milwaukee in two rounds and Billy Seward, Ingamor, Mont., 130 pounder, stopped Henry Lewis in three.

Willie Joyce, 1937 Chicago Golden Gloves featherweight champion, and Lew Jenkins of Sweetwater, Tex., have been matched for a ten round bout in White City Jan. 20, Promotor Sam Abruscato arranged the match before the arrival from Cleveland yesterday of Unio Gen, Japanese featherweight, who meets Frankie [Kid] Covelli in tomorrow's ten round headliner in White City.

There will be five supporting matches tomorrow.

Verle Davis, Golden Gloves product from Kankakee, has earned the semi-windup billing by his fine work since turning professional last November. His opponent is Willie Ross. Davis has won four of his five pro fights. He conquered Nick Castiglione Nov. 25, Lorenzo Robinson Dec. 8, Ben Irving Dec. 16, Doyle Carnahan Dec. 23, and Babe Sabino Dec. 29. The hard punching Verne knocked out Robinson, Carnahan and Irving. He also battled four rounds to a draw with Eddie Sparrow.

Art Lind, 1938 Navy middleweight champion, is booked to appear in a four round preliminary event. Other matches of four rounds:

Bill Palmer, Catholic Youth organization, vs. Star Harvey, 172.

Marion Mosley, south side, vs. Mike Adler, west side, heavyweights.

Radio station WIND has taken up its option to broadcast thirteen additional boxing shows in White City. At the same time it was learned that broadcast over the same station of the weekly fights in Marigold Gardens has been discontinued. . . . Kankakee boxers will meet a Chicago delegation in a series of amateur contests in Madison Athletic club tomorrow.

Al Sweeney of Chicago has leased the Rock Island, Ill., auditorium for a series of boxing shows, the first of which will be held Jan. 23. Eddie Dempsey, 1938 Golden Gloves featherweight title holder, will appear in the main event.

Only two days remain to enter the annual Illinois Athletic club amateur boxing tournament which will be held in the club gymnasium Jan. 17, 18, and 25. All applications received by Athletic Director Johnny Behr before that time will be accepted. Among the team entries received are those of the Savoy Athletic club. Fifteen boys now make up the squad which will compete for the trophy awarded to the club scoring the greatest number of points. They follow:

William Johnson, flyweight; Lloyd Virdine, bantamweight; Edwin McDowell, featherweight; Johnny Pleasant, defending champion, and Homer Williams, lightweights; Jack Carter, Robert Frank and William McKinley, welterweights; Eddie Gerrard and Dutch Long, middleweights, and Jeff Hampton, Lewis Jackson, Lee Mannel Jones, and Samuel Smith, light heavyweights.

Savoy representatives finished second to the Catholic Youth organization for the team award last year. The C. Y. O. again has entered a strong delegation.

Application blanks may be obtained at the I. A. C., 112 South Michigan avenue. F. M.

FIGHT MANAGER CHEATS BANDITS OF $400 PURSE

Emil Nanny of Highwood, manager of Leone Efrati, this morning has the $400 his fighter earned in boxing a ten round draw with Pete Lello in Park Casino, 3825 Madison street, last night. But he almost lost it to three bandits.

Nanny left the Casino in a car driven by his half brother, Vita Vivanti, soon after the fight. As a precaution he hid the $400 in the back seat of the car. The three bandits, also in a car, forced Nanny to the curb at Pulaski road and Huron street, pulled him into their car, and drove to Western avenue and Fulton street. There they thrust him out unharmed after discovering he didn't have the $400.

Italy, England May Challenge for Speed Cup

A British challenge, and possibly one from Italy, for the Harmsworth trophy, held since 1920 by Gar Wood, was forecast here yesterday by J. Lee Barrett, secretary of the Yachtsmen's Association of America. Barrett came from Detroit to address the Great Lakes River and Harbor conference in the Palmer House.

Italians Are Interested.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, who wrested the world water speed record from Wood a year ago by traveling 130 miles per hour, will probably challenge by the end of this year, Barrett declared. The contest would be staged at Detroit in September, 1940. The last Harmsworth regatta was held there in 1933. The Yachtsmen's Association of America, of which Sheldon Clark of Chicago is head, conducts defenses of the trophy.

Count Giovanni de Sangro, president of the Reale Federation Motonautica of Italy, informed Barrett in Rome a few months ago that in the even England challenges, Italian sportsmen might also join the competition. Count Theo Rossi, pilot, and Guido Cattaneo, marine engineer, were mentioned as Italian contestants.

Canadian Boats Eligible.

Harold Wilson of Toronto, Canada, also is considering entering the Harmsworth event now that a new ruling permits Canadian boats to compete with English marine motors. Horace Dodge, who built a contender to join Wood in the last defense, also may enter.

Both Sir Malcolm and Wood will build new hydroplanes especially for the meet, if a challenge goes through, Barrett said. Miss America X. is outmoded at the present stage of streamline hulls powered by smaller engines.

Penn Defeats Yale, 34-28, for Second League Victory

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Penn tonight vanquished Yale, 34 to 28, for its second eastern intercollegiate basketball league victory in two starts. The Elis' defeat was their fourth in five games.

GOLDEN GLOVES 1ST TEAM ENTRY: STANFORD PARK

Open Physical Exams in C. Y. O. Jan. 23.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The first team entry for the Chicago Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournaments was received yesterday from Norm Volz, instructor at Stanford park. Twenty-one boxers, four of whom expect to compete in the open division, have been registered for the physical examinations Jan. 24 in Trafton's gymnasium.

The open division boxers, if they pass their physical tests, will be permitted to choose the sectional tournament in which they wish to compete. The boys are Reedy Evans, welterweight; Dan Robinson, lightweight, and Lucius Armstrong and William Berry, middleweights.

First Exam Jan. 23.

The first physical examination will be held Jan. 23 for the boxers of the Catholic Youth organization. Then will come the examination at Trafton's gymnasium and a third examination date will be set prior to the opening of the west side meet in Madison Athletic club Feb. 1.

It is important now that all Chicago amateur boxers who wish to compete in this year's tournament send in their entry blanks immediately. Each will receive within a few days by mail instructions for their physical examinations and a parental consent card which must be signed and brought to the examinations.

No Charge for Entry.

With the exception of the A. A. U. registration fee for the open division boxers there is no charge for entering the tournament. Each boxer, however, must supply his own shoes, socks, trunks, athletic supporter, and hand bandages. At the physical examinations complete instructions for the tournaments and admission tickets will be given the boys. Each must pass a second physical examination on the night he boxes.

While all contestants will be assigned proper weight divisions at their first physical examinations, their weights on the night of the bouts will determine in which class they compete. One pound allowance will be permitted. For instance, the middleweight class is 160 pounds, but with this allowance a boy still is classified as a middleweight if he weighs 161 pounds.

PABSTS BOOST BOWLING LEAD TO FOUR GAMES

The champion Pabst Blue Ribbons increased their lead to four games in Classic league bowling last night at the Chicago Recreation. They won three games from the Prager Beers, while their closest competitor, the Monarch Beers, lost one to the Thompson Restaurants. The Baby Ruth Candies took three games from the Ambrosia Beers, and the Schlitz Beers defeated the Power House Candies twice.

STADIUM 6 DAY BIKE RACE WILL OPEN ON FEB. 12

Chicago's forty-first international six day bicycle race will be run in the Stadium from Feb. 12 to 18. In other years the second race of the winter season always has been run late in March.

The race will come ahead of the Madison Square Garden contest. The leading riders of the United States and Europe will compete.

Detectives Beat State's Attorney's Bowling Team

Picked bowlers from the detective bureau gave a team representing police from the state's attorney's office a lesson in a special match on the Roosevelt alleys yesterday. Led by Sergt. Charles O'Regan, who totaled 636, the bureau shot games of 914, 957, and 1,057, against 889, 926, and 776 for the state's attorney squad.

Stone Lost to Senators for Entire Season

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.] — Jonathan Stone, for many years one of the American league's better outfielders, will be too ill to resume his place in the Senators' lineup next summer, Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington club said today.

Griffith talked of the Stone case after getting reports from Saranac Lake, N. Y., where the player is gaining weight and recovering, but not rapidly enough to return to baseball within the year, it was said.

Stone reported to the Senators for spring training last year weighing 180 pounds and apparently in the best of health. Before the season had progressed many weeks he began to lose weight and became weak. Then came specialists' diagnoses and the trip to Saranac.

Griffith forecast that Stone would be a regular again in 1940.

GREENBERG GOES SOUTH

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers, and 1938 home run king, arrived here today for a vacation. His first day of supposed rest and frolic, however, was devoted to answering obvious questions by squads of interviewers.

Mostly the interviewers wanted to know if Hank intends to break Babe Ruth's home run record, come next season; whether the fact he knocked fifty-eight home runs last season would cause him to hold out and whether the Tigers are going to win the American league pennant.

Hank had answers for all the questions, but they weren't conclusive or even enlightening. Greenberg and his brother Joe said they would remain here until Feb. 25 and expect to follow a strenuous program of fishing, swimming, and horse track patronage.

COMPLETE TEAM OF SPORT STARS FOR PIN MATCH

The team of Sports Stars which will meet the Pabst Blue Ribbons, Classic league champions, in a benefit bowling match Saturday night in the Congress Recreation center, 31 East Congress street, has been completed.

It will be composed of Gabby Hartnett, Cub manager and catcher; Chick Evans, former national amateur golf champion; Billy Webb, White Sox coach; John Rigney, White Sox pitcher; Charley Murphy, former basketball star at Loyola, and Jack Elder, former Notre Dame track and football star.

Six Stars will roll against five Pabst bowlers, total pins to decide the victor. The Stars defeated the Pabst team by twenty-nine pins a year ago.

Proceeds of the match will go to the Catholic Youth organization blind children's fund to help provide blind children with Master's Eye dogs.

HALL WINS TWO BLOCKS; REDUCES BOZEMAN'S LEAD

Allen Hall won both afternoon and evening blocks in his 600 point three cushion billiard series with Jay Bozeman in Bensinger's Wabash recreation yesterday, but at the end of the fourth block Bozeman maintained a one point lead, 180 to 179.

Hall won the afternoon blocks, 50 to 44 in 47 innings, twice counting seven for a high run. He won last night, 50 to 45 in 41 innings, with a high run of eight. In the evening game Hall ran 25 points in seven innings, during which he had clusters of 8 and 7.

The players, who meet again this afternoon and tonight, will represent Chicago in the three cushion world title meet which is to be held in eight cities beginning Monday and ending April 14, after a schedule of 360 games is completed. Hall will play at the Pioneer arcade and Bozeman will represent Bensinger's Wabash rooms.

Clyde A. Storer, secretary of the National Billiard association, announced yesterday that safety play will be discouraged in the title meet. He said it will be up to the discretion of the referee whether a contestant makes an honest effort to count. If the official rules against the player, the latter will lose a point for each infraction.

Ship in Snow for Norge Ski Club Tourney

Whether it snows or not, the Norge Ski club is assured of ample covering for its giant slide for the thirty-eighth annual championship tournament at Cary, Ill., Sunday. Officials of the club, after shopping frantically for snow in Michigan, its usual source of supply, announced yesterday that ten carloads of it will arrive from Eagle River, Wis., tomorrow afternoon.

The snow was obtained through the coöperation of the Eagle River Chamber of Commerce, which engaged workers to load it.

A final check of the entries for Sunday's contests, which features Olaf Ulland and Reider Andersen of Norway, reveals that ten states will be represented in the class A competition.

Among the late entries of skiers who want to try their skill against Andersen, ranked as the world's greatest skier, and Ulland, holder of the world record of 336 feet, are Nick Nyland, New York state champion; Erling Jorgensen, Birger Thorrison, and Bob Shivers of Connecticut; Pete Fosseide, Bob Storm, Herb Feddic, Frank Haltiner, Harold Johnson, and Billy Anderson from Minnesota, and Knute Johnson and Bob Oppegaard of Wisconsin.

Most of the outstanding jumpers in this country are enlisted. Sverre Fredheim, Lemoyne Batson, Walter Bietala, and Jimmy Hendrickson, who participated with the last American Olympic team; George Kotlarek, former national champion, and Harold Sorensen, eastern champion, will be there.

PURDUE WILL HOLD CLINIC ON MARCH 31

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Purdue's eighth annual football clinic will be held on Friday and Saturday, March 31 and April 1. Nearly 500 high school and college coaches from Indiana and neighboring states are expected to attend.

Under the direction of Mal Elward, head football coach, the program is being planned to present practical information. The staf will include all Purdue varsity and freshman coaches and the Purdue varsity squad, which will serve as a model for field demonstrations. A game will be played on Saturday afternoon, April 1.

One of the highlights of the weekend will be the annual coaches' banquet on Friday night, March 31, which will be followed by round table discussions for both coaches and officials.

William Janson, senior right guard, yesterday was elected captain of the Central Y. M. C. A. Day High school basketball team, which is a member of the Chicago Private School league.

White Succeeds Bob Taylor as Yank at Oxford

OXFORD, England, Jan. 11.—(AP)—They put Whizzer White in a cap and gown, gave him a valet and ancient bicycle and took his picture with every pretty girl in town today.

"They're catching up with me even here," said Colorado's All-American football star of 1937. The sports writers have caught on to the "Yank at Oxford" angle and Whizzer is getting the big push.

Judging from his technique, Whizzer has had his picture taken before, but the Rhodes scholar isn't so good with that gown. He can't keep his skirt out of the bicycle spokes. After an hour with the photographers, he broke up the gang with "Keep that movie hero, Taylor, away from me."

Chicago Normal college girl swimmers defeated Mundelein college, 34 to 22, in the Mundelein pool yesterday. Muriel Berrat was the individual star, with victories in the forty yard free style and low board diving events.

MINOR LEAGUES PICK CINCINNATI FOR '39 MEETING

Durham, N. C., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Cincinnati, home of the first professional baseball team, was selected today as the site for the annual convention of the National Association of [minor] Professional Baseball Leagues this year.

The convention, marking the 100th anniversary of baseball, will be Dec. 4 to 6, immediately preceding the major league meeting set for Cincinnati, Dec. 7 to 9. William G. Bramham, president of the national association, said the departure from custom required unanimous vote of the membership. Usually, the association meets in a minor league city.

Carroll Five Beats Wheaton 34-33; 19th Victory in Row

Carroll college's basketball team won its nineteenth successive game by defeating Wheaton college, 34 to 33, last night in Wheaton. Wheaton led at the half, 20 to 14, and was in front until the final minute, when Binder made a long overhand shot to give Carroll its one point lead. Chet Raube, Wheaton forward, led in scoring with 17 points.

BLACKHAWKS TO BATTLE TONIGHT AGAINST RANGERS

Wiebe Is on Way to New York to Play.

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Coach Paul Thompson and the world's champion Chicago Blackhawks, who suffered their fourth successive defeat at the hands of the Bruins in Boston last night, arrived here this afternoon. They will battle Lester Patrick's Rangers at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

In three previous meetings between the teams this season the Blackhawks won two games by the shutout route, 1 to 0 and 5 to 0. The other was won by the Rangers who defeated the Hawks, 1 to 0.

Hawks to See Allen.

The Hawks will have their first look at George Allen, the latest product of Patrick's Rovers-to-Ramblers-to-Rangers system. The youngster, who has become a star over night, is performing as a regular left wing on the Rangers' starting line which has Clint Smith, another rookie sensation, at center and the veteran Cecil Dillon at right. Chicago hocky fans will see Allen for the first time next Sunday night.

Thompson said upon his arrival that rumors persist in Boston that the Bruins are ready to dispose of Eddie Shore despite vigorous head shaking on the part of Manager Art Ross. These same rumors aver that Shore, who was awarded the league's most valuable player trophy last spring, and Art Ross have been particularly cool toward each other since the Bruins pared several dollars off Eddie's salary when he finally signed on the dotted line after staging his yearly hold out prior to the start of the present season.

Wiebe on His Way.

Cheering news was on hand for Coach Thompson and the rest of the Hawks upon their arrival here. Art Wiebe, hardest checking defense player in the league, who was left behind because of injuries when the Hawks left for their present eastern jaunt, was reported on his way to New York to participate in tomorrow night's game.

Wiebe's presence in the Hawks' lineup means a lot of added strength since Thompson, who worked for Wiebe in the last two games, can fill in at left or center in emergencies. The Hawks' new coach, because of his point making potentialities, is a scoring threat any time he is on the ice.

BOND COMMITTEE OBJECTS TO PLAN FOR MO. PACIFIC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The protective committee for Missouri Pacific first and refunding mortgage bonds has filed exceptions with the interstate commerce commission to the plan of reorganization proposed by Examiner R. H. Jewell. The committee offers a new plan involving wiping out of present stockholder interests and slightly increasing the capitalization over that proposed by the examiner.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation joined the protests against the examiner's report, stating that its principal interest was "to save itself from the loss of governmental moneys."

The exceptions of the RFC related principally to the examiner's failure to find that its claims were fully secured and to the recommendation that the RFC claim be settled through allocation of new common stock and new first mortgage bonds.

Adams Express Co. Renews Offer to Exchange Bonds

The Adams Express company announced yesterday that it reopening its offer to exchange its ten year 4¼ per cent debentures, due 1946, for its outstanding 4 per cent bonds of two collateral trust issues, due June 1, 1947, and March 1, 1948. Under two separate offers, made in 1936 and 1937, the company issued $5,218,500 of its 4¼ per cent debentures in exchange for an equal amount of the 4 per cent bonds, including $2,866,000 of the 1947 issue and $2,352,500 of the issue due in 1948.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Winter Pruning Begun.

January 11, 1939.

UNSEASONABLY high temperatures since the first of the year have made it possible for gardeners to start their winter pruning of shrubs at the Du Page county farm.

In pruning flowering shrubs John Wallner, the head gardener, divides them into two groups. Shrubs in the first group bloom late or after the first of June and are pruned during the winter and early spring. These late bloomers, for the most part, will produce flowers on wood made this season. [The wood and flowers usually are made the same season.]

The late bloomers being pruned this winter include the honeysuckle, hydrangea, snow berries, and snowballs, including the Japanese.

Shrubs in the second group include the spring or early bloomers. Forsythia and philadelphus are examples of this group. The shrubs that bloom early are pruned in the summer shortly after they have dropped their flowers. These shrubs then have time to make new wood that will produce flowers the following spring. If pruned after the leaves fall, flowering wood for the next year would be destroyed.

All Dead Wood Cut.

On each shrub Wallner and his aids go through the regular routine of cutting out all dead wood and drooping branches. Then they examine the bush and trim out all branches infested with scale or other insects. In some cases they find canes injured by borers. These also are removed.

"Pruning stimulates new growth," said Wallner. "By pruning regularly we are able to make the shrubs more shapely, and they produce much better blossoms. If the shrubs are not pruned they become unsightly and produce a smaller number of good blossoms.

"Shrubs have a tendency to renew wood from the bottom up. I generally cut back to the point where a new shoot or a small branch has started to grow. I do not find it necessary to paint the bushes where they have been pruned unless the cane or branch is an inch or more in diameter. It is a waste of labor and material to paint the freshly cut ends of small branches, because they heal readily," added Wallner.

Trimmings Destroyed.

The gardeners use sharp pruning shears on all small branches and saws on the larger canes.

Immediately after the shrubs are trimmed all prunings are raked into piles and burned. This destroys insects and germs on them.

In early winter, after the ground is frozen an inch or more, the area around the individual shrubbery specimens and around border plants is mulched. Litter from the dairy barn is used to cover the ground under the bushes. The gardeners use care to see that the mulching material does not touch the shrubs. A space of about six inches around each bush is left uncovered.

As soon as the ground can be stirred in the spring the litter is worked into the soil. A fork is used to avoid injuring the roots.

RFC BUYS 20 MILLION STOCK OF COAST BANK

Puts 4 on Board of Anglo California.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—The administration's drive to clean up banking on the Pacific coast was rapidly taking shape today.

In San Francisco the power of the Fleishhacker interests in the Anglo California National bank was reduced with the approval by stockholders of new preferred stock to be sold to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for $20,000,000. At the same time at least four new directors identified with the RFC were placed on the board.

In Washington, A. P. Giannini, head of the Transamerica corporation, 200 million dollar holding company for the Giannini banking and investment interests on the Pacific coast, was conferring on the opening of a hearing here Monday by the Securities and Exchange commission. The hearing will be on the question whether Transamerica stock should be delisted from stock exchanges in New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

False Statements Charged.

The SEC charges Transamerica and subsidiaries, including Bank of America, largest unit in the Giannini chain of banks, with filing statements containing false and misleading information.

RFC officials would not discuss their participation in the Anglo California bank changes.

It was understood, however, that of the twenty million in preferred stock, only eight million will be shown on the bank's books as new capital. The remaining twelve million will be used to write off old losses and retire in favor of the RFC, an investment made in the bank by the Standard Oil Company of California in 1933. This has been variously estimated at $2,500,000 to $5,000,000, represented by preferred stock.

[Anglo California has resources in excess of 234 million dollars.]

Family's Holdings Reduced.

The bank will be called upon later to retire all of the 20 million in preferred stock hold by the RFC. The capital change, however, will materially reduce the common stock holdings of the Fleishhacker interests in the bank, with which they have been associated for many years.

Herbert Fleishhacker recently resigned as president and a director of the bank because of numerous civil suits pending against him personally. He left with the directors' good graces, although his resignation was thought essential protection for the bank's interests, in view of the pending suits.

Mortimer Fleishhacker remains as president of the bank. His retention serves as some appeasement for the Fleishhacker interests, whose influence is naturally reduced by the RFC participation. It is understood that the preferred stock turned over to the RFC will have a listed value on the bank's books of $4 a share, but will be retirable at $10 a share.

There is no connection between the Fleishhacker bank and Giannini's Bank of America.

Giannini Is Questioned.

Giannini was contacted at his hotel here tonight and asked for comment on reports that a truce had been reached between his bank and the controler of the currency over certain "corrections" which the controler had asked.

"Ho, ho, ho. Sorry, old man, but I'm on orders from my attorneys not to say anything," Giannini said.

That was the extent of the banker's remarks on his negotiations with the administration. However, Giannini denied that the RFC had offered to put new capital into Bank of America through purchase of preferred stock.

It is reliably reported that the controler's office and Giannini have reached an agreement for the corrections which were asked. Supposedly this includes the subject of charge-offs for losses.

It was also learned that the Giannini lawyers will fight the attempts of the SEC to subpena the financial records and other files of the Bank of America after the hearing opens.

RFC Requires Changes.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Stockholders of Anglo California National bank have approved action of the directors in bringing about a change in capital structure through sale of new preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

In arranging the loan the RFC required that the bank's directorate of twenty-four members be reduced to seventeen. Eleven of the old directors resigned and four new members were elected to the board. Those who resigned included a number closely associated with Herbert Fleishhacker, who recently resigned as president of the bank to be succeeded by Mortimer Fleishhacker, who was reëlected president at the stockholders' meeting here Tuesday. Formerly he had been chairman of the board, a position not to be filled immediately.

The four new directors were recommended by the RFC. They are Maurice E. Harrison, San Francisco attorney and Democratic leader; Sam Husbands, chief of the examiner department of the RFC; Allard A. Calkins, manager of the San Francisco regional loan agency of the RFC, and W L. Pierson, president of the Export-Import bank, Washington, D. C.

$1,311,720 Outlay on Frisco Improvements Authorized

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Federal Judge George H. Moore today granted the Frisco railway permission to spend $1,311,720 for additions and improvements.

Sears Official Joins Board of Harris Trust

James M. Barker, vice president and treasurer of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was elected a director of the Harris Trust and Savings bank at the annual meeting of the bank's stockholders yesterday. A number of other banks in the Chicago area held annual meetings, but few important changes were announced.

James M. Barker.

Barker is a director of the Allstate Insurance company, the Nineteen Hundred corporation, and Sears. He is chairman of the board of the Encyclopedia Britannica. His connection with Sears, Roebuck dates from October, 1928.

Promotions Are Made.

All directors of Harris Trust whose terms expired were reëlected. The following promotions were made: Donald P. Welles, formerly assistant vice president, to vice president; Joseph B. Mitchell, formerly assistant cashier, to assistant vice president; Norman N. Feltes, formerly assistant cashier, to assistant vice president; George H. Rigler, formerly assistant cashier, to assistant vice president; Hardin H. Hawes, formerly sales manager, to assistant vice president; Charles C. Looney, formerly assistant controler, to controler, and Merwin Q. Lytle, formerly assistant secretary, to assistant vice president.

The following new officers were elected: J. Russell Ward, Kenneth V. Zwiener, John J. McDonough, and Errett Van Nice to be assistant cashiers; Henry M. Tibbits, to be assistant secretary, and Fred L. Stone and Mary A. Kennedy, to be personnel officers.

Terminal National Adds Four.

Four members were added to the directorate of the Terminal National Bank of Chicago at the stockholders' annual meeting. Two members resigned, effective immediately.

The new members are: William C. Teare, president of Sterling Products company; George R. Meyercord, president of the Haskelite Manufacturing corporation; Fred T. Whiting, northwestern district manager of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and Leslie E. Bookout, who is with Ralph R. Fairchild & Co., investment consultants.

Arthur Meeker and Gilbert E. Scribner were the two directors who resigned. At the directors' annual meeting all officers of the bank were reëlected.

Other Bank Meetings.

Results of other bank meetings were as follows:

BELLWOOD STATE BANK—All officers and directors were reëlected.

BERWYN NATIONAL BANK—All officers and directors were reëlected.

CENTRAL NATIONAL BANK IN CHICAGO—All officers and directors were reelected.

CITIZENS STATE BANK OF PARK RIDGE—The annual stockholders' meeting, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed until 7 p. m., Jan. 13.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CICERO—All officers were reëlected at the annual directors' meeting.

LIBERTY NATIONAL BANK OF CHICAGO—William Hohe, an employé in the auditing department, was appointed assistant auditor. All other officers were reëlected. At a previous meeting of stockholders, all directors except Walter M. Heymann were reëlected.

MOUNT PROSPECT STATE BANK—All officers and directors were reëlected.

MUTUAL NATIONAL BANK OF CHICAGO—Elmer Harper, real estate investor, was elected a member of the board of directors to succeed his father, Andrew W. Harper, a vice president, who resigned. The vacant vice presidency was not filled. All other directors and officers were reëlected.

NATIONAL SECURITY BANK OF CHICAGO—All directors and officers were reelected. The bank declared regular dividends of $1.50 a share, payable April 1 and July 1.

WINNETKA TRUST AND SAVINGS BANK—All directors and officers were reëlected.

STEEL INDUSTRY RECOVERS FROM YEAR-END APATHY

The slow process of recovery from year-end apathy in the steel industry, predicted in trade circles several weeks ago, is materializing. The trade journal Iron Age yesterday reported that consumers of the metal are still wary, but that orders have increased.

"No strong upward trend in the steel business has developed in the new year, but following the year-end lull, orders have improved to approximately the volume of early December," the magazine's weekly review said. "Buyers are pursuing a cautious policy of hand-to-mouth buying."

Production of steel ingots this week is estimated at 52.5 per cent of capacity, an advance of one-half point over the preceding week's output, the review stated.

Operations this week declined in the Pittsburgh and Chicago mill districts, but gained in the Wheeling-Weirton, Cleveland-Lorain, Youngstown and Buffalo districts.

Sun Oil Sells 12 Million Bonds to Build Refineries

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Frank Cross, treasurer of the Sun Oil company, announced today that construction of refining units at Marcus Hook, Pa., and Toledo, O., would be financed with funds from the sale of $12,000,000 of 10 year 2¾ per cent debentures. The debentures were sold to the Equitable Life Assurance society last Dec. 1, Cross said. The refineries will cost $5,500,000 each.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11, 1939.

At a regular meeting of the Board of Directors of The First Boston Corporation held on January 11, 1939, a dividend of $1.00 per share was declared on the capital stock of the Corporation payable January 23, 1939, to stockholders of record as of the close of business on January 13, 1939.

Oscar Mayer Re-elected by Trade Group

Oscar G. Mayer, president of the meat packing company bearing his name, headed a list of candidates elected without opposition yesterday by members of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Oscar G. Mayer.

Mayer was reelected president of the association for another year. Most of the other officers and directors were incumbents also. Among the exceptions are Charles W. Berquist, superintendent of public relations for the Western Electric company, who was chosen a vice president in charge of civic affairs, and Frank A. Hecht, retired elevator manufacturer, who was named a director for one year to fill a vacancy.

Black, Whiting, Hold Posts.

Other association officers are John D. Black, attorney, vice president; Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the American Furniture Mart Building company, vice president of domestic commerce; C. M. Wynne, managing director of Overseas Industries, Inc., vice president of foreign commerce; Richard Hackett, general manager of the Central Manufacturing District, vice president of industrial development; J. D. Allen, vice president of Brink's, Inc., vice president of the convention bureau; John L. Clarkson of Bartholomay-Darling-Clarkson company, general secretary; and Walter J. Delaney, vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, general treasurer.

Other Directors Elected.

The remaining directors, elected for two years, are Warner G. Baird of Baird & Warner, Inc.; Amos Ball of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana; Avery Brundage of Avery Brundage company; Bertram J. Cahn, president of B. Kuppenheimer & Co.; Newton C. Farr of Farr & Co.; William P. Sidley, attorney, and William D. Dean.

EGGS AT LOWEST LEVEL SINCE '34 IN FUTURE MART

New low levels in egg futures since 1934 were established on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Heavy selling sent nearby deliveries down as much as 1⅛ cents a dozen. Large terminal receipts and the unusually liberal scale of current production were responsible for the break.

January refrigerator eggs closed at 14⅜ cents, down a full cent, and off 5¼ cents, since the start of the year. October refrigerators finished at 19⅛ cents, off ¼ cent. January fresh egg futures dropped ⅞ cent to 17¼ cents. Traders reported the receipts of eggs in four visible markets on Jan. 10 exceeded any day on record.

Trading in butter futures continued dull. The close was unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. The February contract, finishing at 24⅝ cents, showed the largest advance.

Report Studebaker Will Introduce Low Priced Car

The Studebaker corporation is expected to introduce a new low priced car in the spring to compete with the three makes now leading the low priced automobile field, Dow-Jones reported yesterday. Paul G. Hoffman, president of Studebaker, declined yesterday to deny or confirm the report. The Dow-Jones agency said orders that Studebaker currently is placing with steelmakers indicate the company is planning to start production on a new automobile within the next two months.

REP. DIRKSEN URGES SILVER ACT REPEAL; BRANDS IT SUBSIDY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Representative Dirksen [R., Ill.], today proposed repeal of the silver purchase act, amendment of the reciprocal trade agreement act, uniform trafic regulation on federal aid roads, and a federal tax commission. He termed the silver purchase act "abortive and fruitless."

"As a subsidy to seventy-four silver mines and about 2,900 miners and other mine employés," Dirksen said, "the treasury pays about twenty-one cents per ounce more for domestically mined silver than the world price and has imposed a burden of hundreds of millions of dollars upon the taxpayers."

Silver Production Drops.

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Production of domestic refined silver in November dropped to the lowest level in more than three years with an output of 2,879,000 fine ounces, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reported today. This compared with output of 5,411,000 ounces in October and 6,682,000 ounces in November, 1937.

SEC GETS WRIT AGAINST EIGHTH "THRIFT" FIRM

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—An injunction against the Wellington Foundation, Inc., a thrift plan, was granted today at the request of the Securities and Exchange commission by Judge R. P. Patterson in Federal District court here.

A consent decree directed against the company which has sold approximately $15,000,000 of thrift plan certificates in eight states, restrains the organization from misrepresenting investment purposes. The company is the eighth of its type against which the SEC has obtained injunctions.

The SEC charged that the company represented to customers that funds would be invested in liquid American stocks and bonds. The SEC said that in reality funds were being placed outside of the country in unliquid securities.

DecemberCorn Grind Gains Over Month and Year Ago

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Corn Industries Research Foundation today reported a December corn grind of 6,131,803 bushels for products going into domestic use at plants of eleven refiners of starches, syrups, sugars and other products of corn. This compared with 5,993,174 bushels in November and 4,735,427 in December, 1937. For the full year 1938 the grind of the eleven refiners aggregated 66,383,894 bushels, compared with 65,517,842 in 1937.

South Shore District Will Get New Bank

The South Shore National Bank of Chicago will open for business Jan. 21 at the northwest corner of 71st street and Jeffery avenue, Walter J. Riley, president, announced yesterday. The bank will have capitalization of $300,000, including $200,000 in capital stock, $50,000 in surplus, and $50,000 in contingent funds.

Walter J. Riley.

This will be the first bank to be operated in what is known as the south shore district since the 1933 banking moratorium. The south shore once had six banks.

The new institution will be a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation and the federal reserve system. It will be approved for making mortgages under the Federal Housing administration. Besides a fully equipped banking room, it will have the latest type safety deposit boxes.

Officers are George G. Brandenburg, chairman of the board, president of the Brandenburg company, patent investigators and financiers; Walter J. Riley, president, a receiver and trustee under the United States District court; E. A. Delaney, vice president and cashier, formerly with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago; Richard M. Lenihan, vice president, formerly with the FHA, and Thomas D. Allin, assistant cashier, formerly with the National Bank of the Republic.

New Haven Reorganization Hearing Is Set for Feb. 27

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Hearing on an amended plan of reorganization for tht New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad will begin Feb. 27 the interstate commerce commission announced today. Commissioner Charles D. Mahaffie and Examiner Harvey H. Wilkinson will preside. The New Haven recently filed an amended plan providing reductions in fixed charges even more drastic than those contained in the original plan filed in 1937.

STORM COMING IN CONGRESS ON SILVER QUESTION

Law's Failure Stirs Move for Repeal.

[This is the first of a series of articles on the administration's program of subsidizing silver producers. The second will appear in an early issue.]

A new struggle is brewing in congress on the silver issue. Outright repeal of the silver purchase act of 1934 is being demanded as a result of the admitted failure of the act to accomplish the purposes for which it was passed.

The act still has powerful political support. A small but potent group of senators and representatives from the silver states is determined to save the measure despite the unanimous condemnation that it has received from eminent economists and monetary authorities.

A test of the political strength of the group was given when President Roosevelt, under his discretionary powers, elected to renew the present subsidy on domestic silver before it expired Dec. 31.

Acts Against Treasury Plea.

By proclamation he committed the federal treasury to continue for another six months purchases of domestic silver at 64.64 cents an ounce. This is 21 cents an ounce more than domestic producers could get for their silver on the open market. The step was taken by the President against the wishes of the treasury department.

Renewed interest in the identity of the groups and individuals benefiting from the silver program has developed as a result of the legislative battle that now appears likely.

Big subsidies have been reaped by both domestic and foreign silver producers since the treasury began ladling out its bonuses.

Major Scandal Threatened.

Prior to the passage of the act many persons managed to run up speculative profits in the silver market on the strength of their inside information that the treasury was ready to "do something" for silver. A major political scandal threatened at the time. The federal treasury, in answer to congressional demands, made public a partial list of the persons who had an interest in silver. The holdings of record on two days in January, 1934, were made public. Although the list included only a few of the persons who had been active in the market in the months leading up to the granting of the federal subsidies, it named many individuals prominent in New Deal affairs, in and out of official positions.

Eight Firms Share Bonuses.

Eight corporations that produce about 75 per cent of the silver mined in the United States have shared the bonuses paid by the treasury on domestic silver.

The eight companies, in the order of their importance, are:

Sunshine Mining company, Phelps Dodge corporation, Anaconda Copper Mining company, United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company, Silver King Coalition mines, Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining and Concentrating company, Tintic Standard Mining company, and Hecla Mining company.

Among these eight the first four account for nearly one-half of the total domestic output of silver.

The treasury purchased in 1938 an estimated 403,200,000 ounces of silver. The year's purchases were the largest on record with the exception of 1935.

Lloyds Drops 'All Risk' Type of Insurance

This month there are expiring in Illinois the last of a type of insurance policies written by Lloyds of London known as "all risk" policies. Such policies protected property of all kinds against varied hazards, including fire, and they were usually issued to preferred risks.

Lloyds explained that it could no longer write such insurance because it conflicted with the provisions of the new Illinois insurance code, which went into effect on July 1, 1937. Lloyds stopped writing fire, automobile, and workmen's compensation insurance after the code went into effect, but continued to make renewals, pending clarification of the rules, until Dec. 28, 1937.

Stops Renewing Policies.

On Dec. 28, 1937, it stopped making renewals on the three classes of insurance. The fact that it was dropping fire insurance automatically ended its writing of the "all risk" policies.

The Illinois code provides that fire, automobile, and workmen's compensation insurance shall be written on a basis of standardized charges. This Lloyds refuses to do because it conflicts with its own underwriting methods. Lloyds in arranging for insurance treats each applicant as a separate case. It has no standard charges. Rates are made on a basis of the merits of each case.

Lloyd's has been licensed by the Illinois insurance department to do business in this state in a number of classes of insurance which are not affected by the rate standardization requirements of the state's code. These include public liability, liquor liability, bankers' bonds, burglary, products' liability, inland marine, and others. It does not insure lives.

Insurance Opinions Differ.

In Chicago's insurance district there is wide divergence of opinion with respect to Lloyds. Many insurance men hold that Lloyds, being a foreign interest, should be restricted in its operations in order to give American insurance companies a larger opportunity to get business.

Other insurance men favor participation by Lloyds for these reasons: Illinois is the third state in the production of insurance. By far the larger part of its insurance is written by eastern companies, with home offices in the east. Illinois' money is pumped out of the state into the eastern states. Illinois insurance companies get only a small fraction of Illinois business. Lloyds in the past has helped the smaller Illinois companies by reinsuring some of their risks.

Finally, some insurance men say they would like to see Lloyds continue operations in Illinois because of the leavening influence it exerts.

ARCHER-DANIELS TO BUILD HUGE GRAIN ELEVATOR

Milwaukee, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Construction of a 5,000,000 bushel grain elevator, headhouse, and soy bean processing plant at Decatur, Ill., is planned by the Archer-Daniels-Midland company, it was announced yesterday by Whitney H. Eastman, vice president in charge of the soy bean division of the company.

Eastman said construction would start immediately and that the grain elevator probably would be ready for use by next July 1, in time to handle the wheat and oats crops. He said the elevator would be built so that an additional 5,000,000 bushels of storage could be added later.

Soy bean processing plants are operated by the company here, in Chicago, Toledo, Buffalo, N. Y., and Minneapolis.

BIG COMPANIES DRAFT PLAN FOR BUILDING BOOM

Hope to Stimulate Nation's Business.

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Executives of sixty large corporations today unanimously agreed upon a plan to improve business through a campaign to produce a building boom in 1939. They proposed use of newspaper advertising and coöperation of their businesses with government agencies to step up the pace of building. The sixty held a closed meeting, but some of their actions were disclosed.

Lewis H. Brown urges housing be advertised.

The only detail left unsettled was the exact amount to be spent in a nation-wide newspaper advertising campaign to encourage present or prospective homeowners to take advantage of federal and private facilities for home improvement and home building.

Some leading executives, including Lewis H. Brown, president of the Johns-Manville corporation, urged the group to "go the whole hog," both in coöperation with government and in increasing tentative newspaper advertising budgets.

Plan Building Campaign.

The meeting was called by Russell G. Creviston, president of the Producers' council, an organization representing leading firms in the building material and equipment field, to consider a program proposed by Charles E. Wilson, executive vice president of General Electric company and chairman of the council's advisory board.

The meeting resolved that the council would bend its efforts to launch a campaign to promote building of houses by "that income group which is barely able to save out of meager earnings sufficient capital for home ownership," especially "houses costing $2,000 to $5,000."

It was proposed—on the basis of assurances given those at the meeting by Stewart McDonald, federal housing administrator—to set up a "federal home building service."

Several Groups Back Plan.

The sponsors under today's agreement would be, besides the council, the American Institute of Architects, which has already given its official approval, the Federad Home Loan bank board, and the Federal Housing administration.

Under the resolution, the four bodies—two private and two federal—would pool facilities and resources to push the program through advertising, publicity, consultation service, and mutual coöperation, to expand the building program already launched by public and private agencies in every locality in the country.

Local talent, local financing, and local dealers would be used in the plan under a system of coöperation to increase the permanent investment value of small home building.

Other speakers at the meeting today included Ernest T. Trigg, president of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer association, and J. C. Bebb of the Otis Elevator company.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 11.—New weakness appeared in the stock market today, with leading issues off fractions to around four points. All sections of the list were affected by steady pressure, which was interrupted by only brief but abortive rallying bids.

Trading was more active than during the preceding session, today's volume of 915,690 shares comparing with 713,150 shares on Tuesday.

Observers found it difficult to put their fingers on a definite cause of the setback. Some remarked that the new war scare going the rounds served to induce nervousness in the majority of traders.

Others linked the liquidation with the cautious views expressed by the heads of metropolitan banks at annual stockholders' meetings yesterday.

Rubbers, steels, motors, coppers, and aviations were offered in large volume. Chrysler started 1 point lower and extended its decline to 3⅞ points. United States Steel opened more than 1 point lower and continued to sag, losing 2 points. United States Rubber, most heavily traded stock of the day, slumped 2¾ points. Douglas lost 1½ points. American Smelting closed 1⅝ points lower.

Kindred issues, including Bethlehem, General Motors, Republic, Anaconda, United Aircraft, Bendix, Yellow Truck, and Goodyear, also showed substantial declines.

In the rails, Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio, Union Pacific, and Great Northern preferred incurred losses exceeding 1 point.

Power and light shares showed comparatively small losses.

Sperry and Curtiss-Wright proved exceptions in the aircraft section, both edging fractionally higher on good support.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Weakness of rail loans acted as a drag on today's bond market, and at the close prices were mostly lower.

Apparently acting on the theory the rails, by their recent advance, had discounted a good part of the earnings improvement and promise for legislative aid, traders were fairly active on the selling side. Many carrier issues finished fractions to more than 2 points down.

Utility, industrial and low yield groups were not as weak as the rails. United States government issues closed 5-32 higher to 4-32 lower.

Chicago Railway 5s climbed 8 points to 56 on a moderate turnover.

The main trend in the foreign list was downward.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks moved lower yesterday in dull trading, only 30,000 shares changing hands. THE TRIBUNE'S averages closed at 11.49, as compared with 11.31 on Tuesday. Of the 112 issues traded, 30 advanced, 60 declined, and 32 were unchanged.

Commonwealth Edison was the most active stock in the day's trading. On a turnover of 2,950 shares it closed unchanged at 27⅝. Closing prices of others among the trading leaders were: Aviation and Transportation, 3¾, up ⅛; Marshall Field, 15¼, off ⅛; Middle West, 7¼, down ⅛; Berghoff Aviation, 25⅝ off ⅞; Leath, 3¼, up ⅝, and Berghoff, 7⅛, unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks declined in a fair volume of trading yesterday, dealers said. Trading in Continental Illinois National shares was more active and closed $2.50 lower. Stocks of other banks declined $1 to $5.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO'S 1938 EARNINGS FALL

Profits of Wilson & Co. Are Sharply Lower.

The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company and Wilson & Co., meat packer, yesterday reported results of 1938 operations to their stockholders. Wilson reported a sharply lower profit for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 than in the preceding period.

Reynolds Tobacco had moderately lower earnings. Net earnings in 1938 were $23,734,305, equal to $2.37 a share on the common and class B stock. This compared with net earnings of $27,602,372, or $2.76 a share in the preceding year.

Tobacco Sales Decline.

Sales fell 6.84 per cent in 1938, totaling $282,265,015. James A. Gray, president of Reynolds, said there was some shift to low priced products by consumers whose purchasing power was curtailed by the decline in industrial activity.

Higher tobacco costs, higher freight costs, and increased social security taxes contributed to the decline in earnings, Gray said. The Reynolds report is one of the first issued covering the calendar year 1938.

Wilson & Co., had a profit for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 of $19,940. This compared with profit of $2,507,528 in the preceding year.

Sells 6 Per Cent Less.

Sales for the year totaled $265,000,000, a decline of 6 per cent from the preceding year. The decline in sales resulted entirely from lower prices, Edward Foss Wilson, president, said. Tonnage sales increased 5 per cent.

The company incurred large inventory losses during the first half of the fiscal year, Wilson said. Profitable operations during the last six months, he added, overcame the earlier losses.

The company begins the new year, he said, with live stock costs and meat prices less than a year ago. He said larger market receipts of live stock are expected, together with a "general improvement in business and a higher national income."

The Masonite corporation had net profit of $219,512 in the sixteen weeks ended Dec. 17. The profit was equal, after preferred dividends, to 35 cents a share, and compares with net profit of $339,847 or 58 cents a share in the corresponding period of the preceding fiscal year.

FIDELITY RULING DELAYED; COURT FAVORS MASTER

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Federal Judge William E. Baker today deferred until Monday a ruling on a proposal for the appointment of a special master for the Fidelity investment association. He refused to grant or dismiss a receivership petition.

Counsel for a group of the association's contract holders who sought the receivership urged a trial of the issues. However, the judge said he was "inclined to agree" with a defense suggestion for the appointment of a master.

He granted a recess until Monday to permit preparation of arguments on payment of costs of the proceedings.

Fidelity is a twenty-eight year old firm which has sold 200,000 investment loan contracts amounting to $600,000,000 throughout the nation. Pennsylvania purchasers of sixteen of the association's contracts asked the receivership last month after a court in Michigan restrained the company from practices which the federal securities commission charged were fraudulent.

MEMPHIS, POWER COMPANY DICKER ON PLANT SALE

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The Memphis Power and Light company, and the majority bloc of Memphis city commissioners, with E. H. Crump's support, will return to negotiations tomorrow looking toward sale to the city of the utility's electric and gas systems.

The city bid $18,127,000 for the utility's properties. When Paul B. Sawyer, Chicago, president of the National Power and Light company, parent corporation, started discussions, Crump headed a hegira from the conference rooms, saying to Sawyer: "We'll meet you at the legislature."

Crump previously had suggested that legislative pressure might be used to force the company to reduce its gas rates. Distributing TVA power and using TVA funds, the city hopes to buy the utility's facilities here so as to eliminate competition. Sawyer offered the properties for $21,000,000.

Repeal of 'Hot Oil' Law Asked by Congressman

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Representative Coffee [D., Wash.] today proposed repeal of the so-called Connolly "hot oil" law, contending it had "served only the monopolistic oil interests." Coffee said the act had placed an "unbearable burden" on independent producers, refiners, and marketers of oil. The law, which forbids interstate shipment of oil in excess of state allowables, will expire June 30.

Business Bits

Raymond J. Koch, president of the Felt and Tarrant Manufacturing company, has been unanimously chosen by the nominating committee of the Employers' Association of Chicago for reëlection as president. The election will be held this noon at the Chicago club. C. J. Whipple, president of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., and Howard L. Willett, president of the Willett company, have been recommended for reëlection as vice presidents.

Raymond J. Koch.

George E. Sokolsky, author and lecturer, will speak this noon at the luncheon of the Chicago Federated Advertising club at the Hotel Sherman. He will discuss propaganda aimed at the "American consumer's faith in advertising."

Offices of R. Cooper Jr., Inc., distributors of refrigerators and ranges, will be transformed into a hotel lobby from Jan. 12 through Jan. 21, S. B. Maher, executive vice president, has announced. The fanciful hostelry will be called "Prosperity Hotel—1939." With all the effects of bell boys, stripe trousered clerk, and door man, the "hotel" will be the gathering place for dealers of the Cooper organization.

Dr. Virgil Jordan, president of the National Industrial conference board, will speak at a luncheon of the Executives Club of Chicago this noon in the Hotel Sherman.

Raymond N. Ball, president of the Lincoln-Alliance bank of Rochester, N. Y., and Paul S. Achilles, managing director of the Psychological corporation, have been elected directors of the Eastman Kodak company. Achilles is a grandson of Col. Henry A. Strong, early business partner of George Eastman.

John B. Scott, Washington representative of the Anthracite institute, has resigned. The institute will close its office in the capital on Jan. 31.

William E. Levis, president of the Owens-Illinois Glass company, has been elected a director of the New York Central system to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Frederick W. Vanderbilt.

Miss Mary Hammersmith, Sycamore, Ill., attorney, has been reëlected president of the Maple Park State bank, Maple Park, Ill.

W. C. Clancy has been elected president of the Chicago Association of Collection Agencies. Other officers chosen are O. M. Holen, vice president; L. Rothschild, secretary, and M. J. Rosman, treasurer.

John Paprocki has been elected president of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association. M. J. Ucital, first vice president; Stanley Bartecki, second vice president; Anton Tysl, third vice president; John M. Myers, secretary, and Charles A. Storer, treasurer, were the other officers named.

August Johnson, Seattle, distributer for the Pacific coast territory, has been named a director of the Graham-Paige Motors corporation.

William M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, has been named a director of the Omaha National bank.

Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey has been reëlected a director of the New Jersey Title Guarantee and Trust company.

Neil C. Hurley Jr., secretary of the Independent Pneumatic Tool company, has been promoted to vice president. He has directed the company's sales in the electric tool division.

The Chicago Mercantile exchange will hold its annual dinner-dance in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel Saturday night.

John A. Stevenson, executive vice president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company, was elected president. He succeeds William H. Kingsley, who was elected chairman of the board. Stevenson is a former member of the faculty of the University of Illinois.

POWER OUTPUT REGAINS STRIDE AFTER HOLIDAYS

Electric power production in the nation regained its stride in the week ended Jan. 7. The Edison Electric institute reported yesterday that total electricity generated last week was 2,169,470,000 kilowatt hours, an advance of 48,920,000 kilowatt hours, or 2.3 per cent, over the output in the last week of 1938.

The energy total, however, was still below the record peak reached in the week ended Dec. 24, when 2,362,947,000 kilowatt hours were generated. Compared with the output in the corresponding week in 1938, last week's total increased 1.4 per cent.

The Commonwealth Edison company group [Chicago area] issued its power report for the three weeks ended Jan. 7. The average electricity output for the three weeks is given as 143,497,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 8.7 per cent over the average for the corresponding weeks in the preceding year.

Pennsylvania Road Orders Dining Cars and Coaches

The Pennsylvania railroad announced yesterday that it has placed orders for 15 new dining cars and 12 new type coaches to be used on its through trains. All are to be streamlined. It is planned to have them in operation late in the spring. Five of the dining cars and the 12 coaches will be built at Philadelphia by the E. G. Budd Manufacturing company, five diners will be built by the Pullman-Standard Car and Manufacturing company at Chicago and five diners by the American Car and Foundry company at Berwick, Pa.

STORM COMING IN CONGRESS ON SILVER QUESTION

Program's Failure Stirs Demands for Repeal.

In 1937 treasury purchases amounted to 312,200,000 ounces.

Domestic sources supplied about 60,300,000 ounces of the silver bought last year by the treasury. The cost of this metal to the treasury was about $38,980,000. About one-third of the purchase price represented an outright gift of public funds to a relatively few mining companies. On the world market this amount of silver would have brought about $25,930,000.

One of the objectives of the silver purchase act was to stabilize silver holdings of the treasury at 25 per cent of the monetary value of the treasury's gold holdings. An alternative objective was to raise the market price of silver to the statutory price of $1.29 an ounce. Neither objective is considered possible of realization after five years of operation, during which period the treasury has expended 1 billion dollars under the program.

Still Far Short of Goal.

When the silver program was launched, the treasury needed 1,328,000,000 ounces to bring about the desired gold-silver ratio. Since then nearly twice that amount, or 2,575,000,000 ounces, has been bought but the treasury is still 1,165,000,000 ounces short of its goal. Gold holdings have almost doubled during the period, rising from $7,834,000,000 to $14,500,000,000.

Furthermore, the promise of the legislation's sponsors that it would raise and stabilize commodity prices has proved false. In the face of this situation the silverites in congress were able to bring sufficient political pressure on the administration to insure payment of the bounties for another six months.

FORDFOUNDATION FILES DETAILS OF HOUSING PROJECT

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Details of plans of the Ford Foundation for development of the first section of a 1,200 acre housing project in Dearborn, Mich., were made known today. They were described in a letter asking the Dearborn city council to provide the necessary public utility services.

The letter, signed by R. C. Russell of the foundation, was referred to the council for study. The land was turned over to the foundation more than a year ago by Henry and Edsel Ford.

The first section to be developed, lying northwest of the intersection of Greenfield road and Airport drive, consists of ninety-three acres. There will be fifty single homes, apartments for 120 families, a shopping center, four acres of park and playground, and thirteen acres for school sites.

Rental or sale of the buildings will be open to the public and not restricted to Ford Motor company employés. The foundation expects the Federal Housing administration to guarantee the mortgages for the development.

NATION'S CRUDE OIL RESERVES REACH NEW HIGH

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Crude oil reserves in the United States have reached the highest point in history—14,351,520,297 barrels—the Oil and Gas Journal said today in its annual survey of new field discoveries.

Last year 199 new pools were discovered in eighteen states, the publication said. These pools in their present stage of development represent total reserves of 1,589,760,353 barrels for the year. These reserves exceeded by 375,703,353 barrels the crude oil production reported in the United States for the year ending Jan. 1, 1939. Illinois led the nation in additions to net reserves at the end of the year, its gains accounting for 46 per cent of the total increase. Pools discovered in Illinois in 1938 added almost 200,000,000 barrels to the total that eventually will be produced in that state.

Since Illinois produced only 22,945,000 barrels in 1938, there was a net addition to its reserves of 175,638,000 barrels.

WHEAT FIRMER; EUROPEAN NEWS BOLSTERS PRICES

Although American wheat markets showed a firmer undertone yesterday, prices held within narrow limits. Gains of ¼ to ⅜ cent a bushel were scored on the Chicago Board of Trade. Buying was induced by uncertainty regarding the European political situation and strength in the Liverpool market.

Yesterday was the first time in several weeks that political news from abroad was a factor in the wheat market. Failure of importing countries to show interest in supplies of North American grain resulted in dampening bullish enthusiasm. Aggregate trading in wheat futures was light.

Trade reports from London indicated that the international wheat conference would not accomplish anything.

Corn futures closed ½ to ⅝ cent a bushel higher. Export sales were estimated at 400,000 to 500,000 bushels in all positions, largely to the United Kingdom.

MECHANICAL DEVICE.

Aggressive men to introduce new fast selling device to taverns. High comm. Let us show you how to make money. Columbia Liquor, 11447 S. Michigan. Ful. 3212-13.

MEN FOR A PERMANENT CONNECTION

My company has authorized me to contact 6 men immediately who live on the north or northwest side of Chicago and suburbs, test them out for several days while in training, without any expense or cost whatsoever to these men, place them immediately in our north side branches on a permanent basis with liberal participation in the profits with no investment.

Steadiness and good character needed, not ability to talk, nor a clientele, nor any previous experience. We are not advertising for salesmen, because our very successful method of putting our prospect into the market is so unusual that it must be taught especially, but it is so simple to learn that no time need be lost in getting started. While getting started men of average ability must be willing to get along on a reasonable weekly percentage.

You learn from practical men earning substantial incomes every week. We do not require men with electrical device sales experience because this work is so different from sales jobs as interpreted by the great majority of men. However, to be accepted you must be willing to work hard and study to qualify for the larger pay schedules. Call at the Sheridan Plaza Hotel, 4607 N. Sheridan-rd., to Mr. Van Tassell, Thursday, 10:30 to 11 a. m. only.

MEN—WITH THE FOLLOWING
BACKGROUND.

1st—That you have been in the past a willing, hard worker.

2d—That you have lived your life clean and can give good character references.

3d—That you can prove this through no fault of your own you are now unemployed.

If you are willing to work hard for an honest opportunity and would be willing to do any kind of work to get ahead, so long as you could make a good living at it, I could give you a courteous interview and tell you frankly whether or not you can sell this electrical unit. If the event you are selected you will have the advantage of 2 days of training at our factory branch. Excellent percentage and bonus plan. You should be able to live on $25 a week commission and bonus for your first few weeks.

Immediate Opportunity

FOR CHICAGO MEN, ALSO FOR MEN LIVING IN ILLINOIS—INDIANA—WISCONSIN.

NEW, AMAZING PRODUCT THAT EN-JOYS THE SAME POSITION IN ITS FIELD TODAY AS THE ELECTRIC LIGHT DID TO THE KEROSENE LAMP YEARS AGO.

Under our unique merchandising plan men who qualify will be set up in business for themselves and assisted in getting started successfully.

Under the co-operative plan branch dealers get phenomenal results, earnings as high as $20 daily.

Permanent: no investment necessary; no lean seasons. We can train any intelligent clear thinker to sell this electric product and assure him of at least $40 commission his first week.

If you are wide awake and want a business that pays big earnings, investigate this unusual opportunity.

EMPLOYMENT DEPT., 9 A.M. TO 4 P.M.
203 N. Wabash-av., R. 618.

I AM BUILDING A SALES ORGANIZATION for the tremendous opportunities in the housing field. You will be given the opportunity of selling quality homes to renters at a decided cash advantage. I believe that these homes are the best values for the money in the history of Chicago. I believe this because I know all about them, and I know that when people on the Great West Side learn as much about these houses as I do they will buy a lot of them because they cost less than rent. That's why I want four good salesmen to help me tell people about these homes. You need not know about construction, but you must be a good salesman, you must do as I tell you, and you must work as hard as I do. If you do that you'll make plenty of money and I'll pay you cash each day for your expenses. Apply Thursday, 9 to 12. Commission.

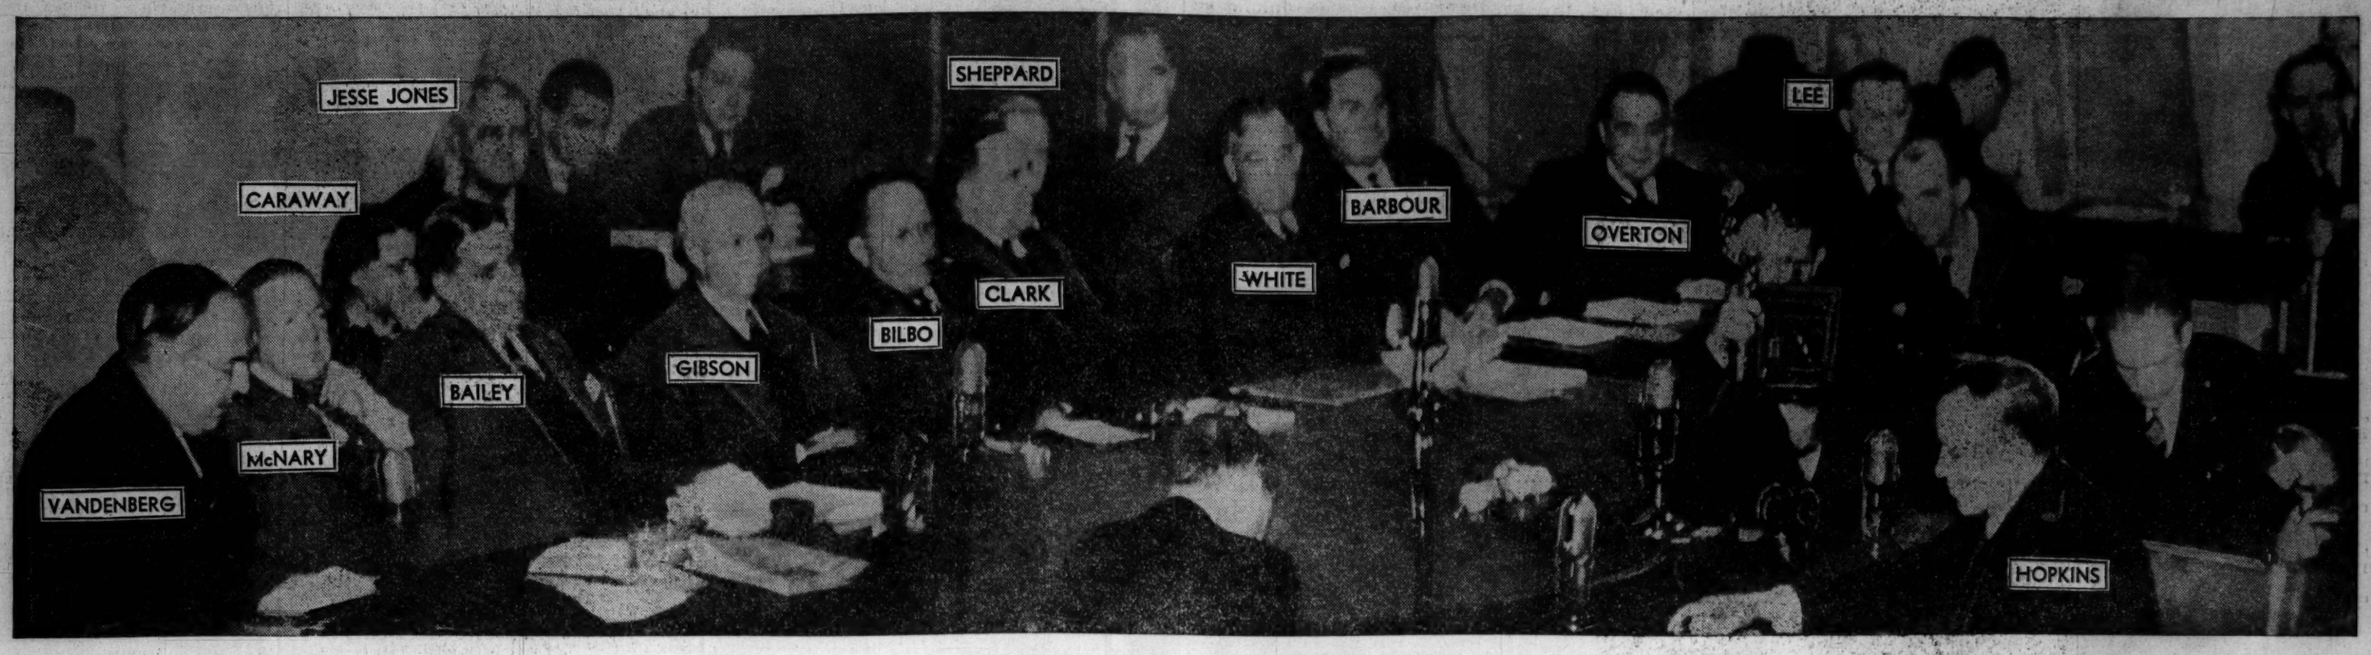
Hopkins Tells WPA Political Abuses at Senate Hearing—Mussolini and Chamberlain Differ on Peace



Scene in Washington yesterday when senate commerce committee heard Harry L. Hopkins testify as to his fitness and qualifications to be secretary of commerce. All those named in captions are committee members except Jesse Jones, RFC chairman, and Hopkins. The latter, formerly administrator of the WPA, admitted to the committee that his political activities while he was relief administrator were wrong. He also told of political corruption in the WPA in Kentucky. (Story on page 1.)

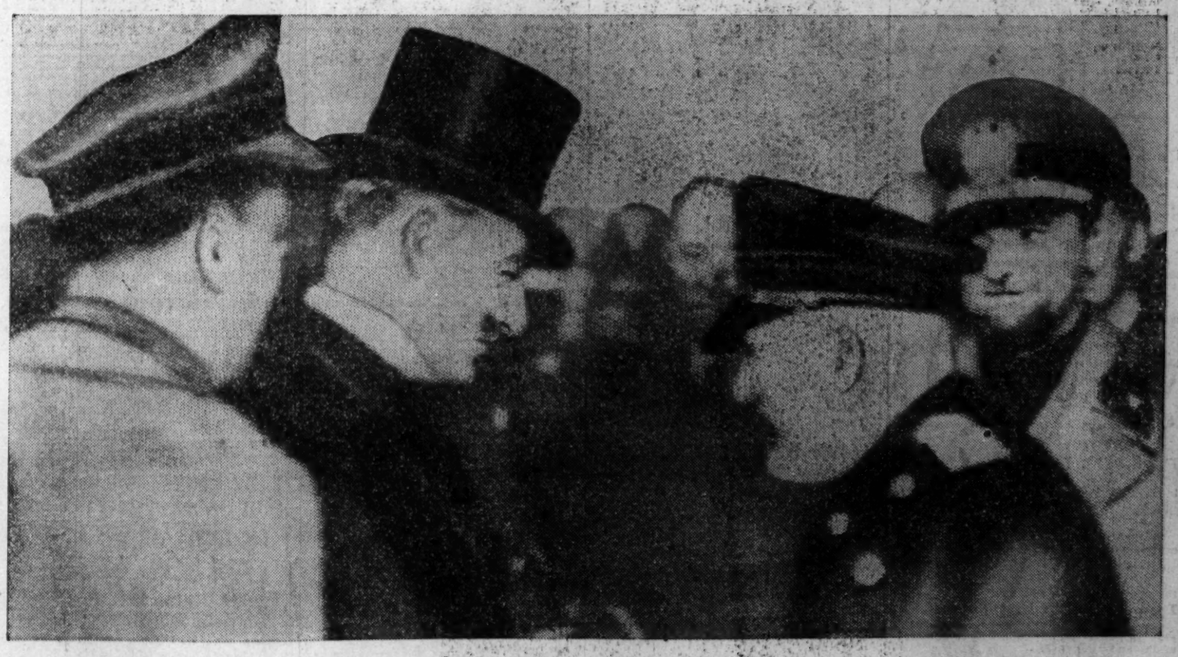
The trouble spots in Europe and Africa yesterday as Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini met in Rome. Both vowed they wanted peace, Chamberlain "by negotiation" and Mussolini "with justice." Foreign observers saw in Mussolini's statement an expression that without colonial concessions to Italy, Chamberlain's policy of appeasement of dictators must fall. The black areas on the map indicate Italy's territorial demands. Chamberlain's declaration was seen as an admonition that appeasement could not be realized unless the Fascist claims were put in diplomatic form. Also mapped are yesterday's developments in the Spanish civil war, showing offensives by both sides in widely separated sectors. (Story on page 1.)

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Candid camera photographs of Hopkins in varying moods during questioning by Democratic and Republican members of committee. He said that if he had "road to go over again" he would not make political speeches. (Story on page 1.)



[Associated Press Wirephoto: Sent yesterday from London.]

Fires gun in dark room
When bullet passes between poles its heat sets off electrical impulse; resulting spark provides illumination to expose film with lens open
Bullet traveling 1,000 feet per second
Strikes plate glass
Emerges, glass still standing
Bullet disappears; glass shatters

[TRIBUNE and Armour Institute Photos.]

Dr. F. W. Godwin of Armour institute research department demonstrating new photographic technique, in which standard mini-camera makes exposures at one millionth of a second each. At the right are four pictures made by the method. Shutter speeds of the fastest conventional cameras permit exposures of only one 1,500th of a second. These pictures were taken with shutters eliminated. It is believed this technique will aid industrial experiments. (Story on page 6.)
